Third Woman Is Now Member of British Commons

BERWICK ON TWEED, England, June 1.—(International News Service.)—Mrs. Hilton Philipson, former Gaiety actress, has been elected to the House of Commons on the Tory ticket from this constituency, it was officially announced today. The balloting took place yesterday.

Mrs. Philipson

Capt. Philipson

The bye-election was made necessary by the unseating of the former incumbent, Mrs. Philipson's husband. The wife now occupies the seat her husband formerly held.

After the regular election last fall a dispute arose over the vote. The election was declared null and void and it was decided to hold a bye-election. Philipson decided not to stand for election, so his wife announced her candidacy. She had for her opponents Captein Harold Robson, a Liberal, and G. Oliver, a Laborite. Mrs. Philipson before her marriage was Mabel Russell. She was noted on the stage for her beauty.

The result of the bye-election at Berwick-on-Tweed gives Great Britain three active women members of the House of Commons. They are Viscountess Astor, Mrs. Margaret Winthringham and Mrs. Hilton Philipson.

CROKER'S WIDOW DENIES CHARGES

Declares She Never Lived at Places Where It Is Claimed She Was Marone's Wife.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

DUBLIN, June 1.—Mrs. Eulah Croker, widow of Richard Croker, former leader of Tammany in New York, testified today in the will contest action brought by her late husband's children by a former marriage.

Dressed in black with a heavy veil covering the upper part of her face, Mrs. Croker spoke in a low voice. She said her people were Oklahoma farmers. She inherited her Indian blood through her mother. The witness detailed her movements in an attempt to show she never lived at the places where the opposite side claimed she had resided as the apparent wife of Guy R. Marone.

Mrs. Croker denied she ever visited Northampton, Mass., where Mrs. Ethel Croker White, the intervenient, alleged she (Mrs. Croker) had married Marone.

Mrs. Croker recalled litigation at Palm Beach, Fla., after she had married the former Tammany chief. She testified that the nam of Marone was never brought up during the proceedings, although names of her relatives and friends in high places were constantly mentioned, including that of Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma.

Other witnesses were race course acquaintances of the testator. They told of Croker's mental condition which, they declared, seemed normal.

U. S. FORCES WORLD DOPE PROHIBITION

GENEVA, June 1.—(By United Press.)—After an uproarous session in which the American delegates withdrew, the League of Nations opium commission today adopted the program submitted by the United States for suppression of the traffic.

The entire delegation walked out of the meeting during the morning refusing to answer questions regarding their proposals or to participate in any discussion of them. The American plan, submitted recently by Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee, covered steps to stop growth and production of opium. Porter announced today that the commission must take or leave the proposals as drawn.

The plan had been sidetracked yesterday in favor of a toothless proposal sponsored by Great Britain, which provided merely for the appointment of another commission composed of countries drawing revenue from opium monopolies to consider the question at some future and indefinite date.

The American delegation then withdrew and the session broke up in a heated row. The delegates were furious at the Americans, many of them declaring they considered themselves insulted. Order was finally restored and the session reconvened.

The Americans, however, did not return.

D. W. COCKRELL, WOMAN INJURED

Couple Taken to Hospital After Auto Plunges Into Fences.

David W. Cockrell, proprietor of a cigar store at Fortieth street and San Pablo avenue, and a woman companion were injured in an automobile accident in Franklin canyon near Martinez yesterday afternoon.

A report of the accident was made to the sheriff's office in Martinez, where it was said the injured had been treated in Pinole and then removed to an Oakland hospital. Information regarding the injuries of Cockrell and the woman are not available. No one by the name of Cockrell is registered at any Eastbay hospital.

The accident happened at the Stewart place, where the road through the Franklin canyon executes a sharp turn around the farm buildings. According to passing autoists, who were first to find Cockrell, his automobile left the road on the turn and struck a barn after plunging through two fences.

Britons Eliminate Belgian Net Stars

BRUSSELS, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Belgium was eliminated from the international lawn tennis competition for the Davis cup today, when J. Brian Gilbert of England defeated George Watson, the Belgian star, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

CHESWICK, Eng., June 1.—(By International News Service.)—Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, women's singles champion of America, won her way into the final round of the Middlesex tennis championship today by defeating Miss Clarke in straight sets. The scores were 6-2 and 6-3.

Today's victory gave the tie to the players from the British Isles by a match score of three to one. The first two singles matches played on Wednesday were divided and the Britishers won the doubles yesterday.

DUBLIN, June 1.—In the first of the singles matches today in the India-Ireland Davis Cup tie, S. M. Jacob defeated Hon. Cecil Campbell of Ireland in straight sets, 6-2, …

TEN KILLED AS MEXICANS MOB POLICE

MEXICO CITY, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ten persons were killed and seventeen wounded in a religious riot at Durango City yesterday when a mob started to disarm the mounted policemen. The latter opened fire on the attackers.

Federal troops are concentrating in Durango for the purpose of preventing further disorders. All places of amusement have been closed.

The trouble was indirectly caused by the recently enacted law limiting the number of ministers permitted to officiate in the state to twenty-five for each denomination. The Catholics priests normally number more than 250.

Accompanied by a crowd of more than 3000 persons, a committee of Catholic men and women visited the provincial palace to ask the governor and legislature to repeal the law.

The mob finally began stoning the palace, whereupon the mounted police and guards fired a volley over the heads of the demonstrators.

The crowd, infuriated, attacked the guards. As a result of the promiscuous shooting the bodies of three policemen and seven civilians had been recovered this evening. The wounded, eight of whom were seriously hurt, were taken to hospitals.

The church authorities have announced that services will be discontinued unless the law be repealed.

Several Canadian Towns Under Water

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 1.—Many towns in Crows Nest Pass, Alberta, have been flooded by the bursting of the banks of Old Man river after 16 hours steady rainfall, according to a special despatch from Calgary, Alberta, today. The town of Coleman is partly under water, mines there are endangered and light and power cut off. At Blairmore six houses and the Victoria bridge were washed away and light and power are suspended, with some streets under six feet of water. At Frank three feet of water covers some of the streets

Tail Spin Preventer Tested in Flight

A test flight for the purpose of trying out special apparatus constructed on a plane to prevent tail spins or other accidents should the motor stop suddenly, is being made today by Peter Allinio, inventor of the plane, and Captain Marshall Boggs of Piedmont, pilot.

The plane left Gila, Ariz., yesterday at 8 a. m. and arrived in Riverside at 11 a. m., covering a distance of 580 miles in three hours, or at the rate of 190 … an hour, according to word received here.

The plane left Los Angeles at 2 p. m. this afternoon and is scheduled to arrive at Richmond at 5 p. m. It will land on Cutting boulevard, near the Santa Fe station.

Hope Abandoned For Undersheriff Brown

No hope was held out today for the recovery of Undersheriff Bert Brown, who is at Fabiola hospital suffering from influenza contracted while he was working on the recent investigation into the Pergola Inn robbery.

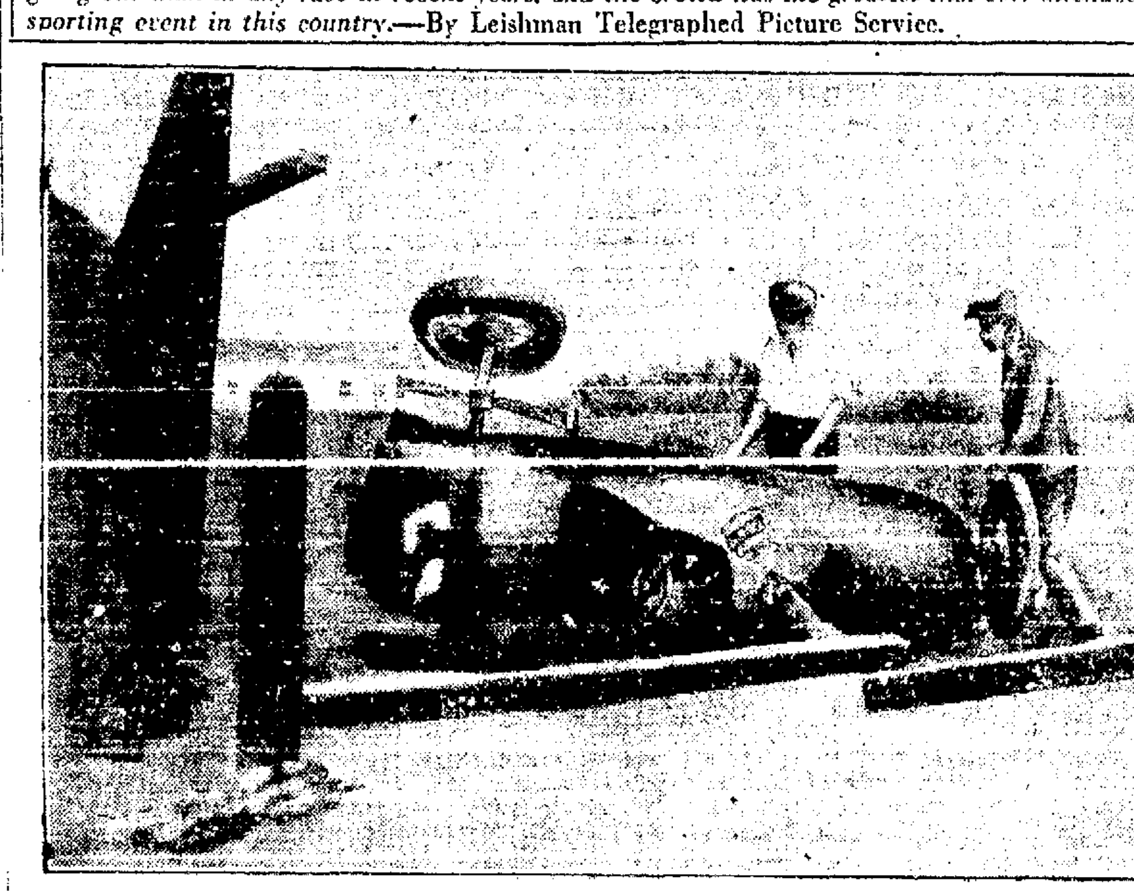

Brown appeared to be recovering slightly until yesterday, when a relapse occurred. His relatives have been summoned. Brown is one of the best known criminal investigators in California.

Doctor Hurt in Auto Accident

BERKELEY, June 1.—Dr. Mary Powell, 5606 Taft avenue, Oakland, suffered severe cuts about the head in a collision between the automobile in which she was riding and a street car at Center and Oxford streets last night. Dr. Powell was riding with Mrs. C. B. Prosser, 1568 First avenue, Oakland, when the accident occurred. She was treated at the Temple hospital.

Wired Photo From Indianapolis Races

First picture from great motor event to reach Oakland. This telephotograph shows the Durant Special, driven by Tom Alley, just after it plunged through the fence and over the banked curve, injuring the driver and three spectators. There were more accidents and cars going out than in any race in recent years, and the crowd was the greatest that ever attended a sporting event in this country.—By Leishman Telegraphed Picture Service.

…HOTO BY WIRE NOW IN TRIBUNE

Telegraphic Pictures Rapidly Sent Over the Wires From Coast to Coast.

Within a day and a half after the Memorial Day automobile races at Indianapolis a photograph of the accident that marred one portion of that classic was in the office of The Oakland TRIBUNE and is herewith presented to its readers.

This is in about one-half the time that the fast air-mail planes have been covering the distance from Indiana to California. It is in about one-third of the time the fastest mail trains have been transporting similar newspaper photographs in the past. With the advent of innumerable devices and inventions that have shortened distance and almost nullified time itself, a speeding-up process has come to newspaper illustrating too, and telegraphed photographs are now not only possible, but actual.

NO MAGIC USED IN PROCESS.

There is no magic, white or black about telegraphic photography, just the combination of various scientific processes. Leroy J. Leishman of Ogden, Utah, is responsible for the basic invention.

To understand the process one must remember that a newspaper photographs a picture through a screen which has sixty lines each way to the inch, thus breaking the square into into 3600 small squares. The shadows becomes dots in these … white. These black and white infinitesimal squares are then transferred to the metal from which the picture is printed.

In telegraphic pictures a similar process is used. The metallic picture, made where the photograph was taken, is fitted about a cylinder like that of an old-style phonograph. At the receiving end a similar cylinder is covered with paper, and the two cylinders are made to revolve at the same rate. On the metallic plate a needle bears, electro-magnetically controlled. When this comes to a black square on the metal plate it make an electric contact which actuates a like needle at the receiving instrument which thereupon bears down upon the receiving paper and makes a similar black square.

The receiving cylinder records as the original cylinder actuates it. Where there is a black square in the original will be a black square in the copy; where there is a white square in the one there will be a white square in the other. Thus in the end the original is faithfully reproduced.

The full service of the Leishman telegraphic pictures has been engaged by The TRIBUNE, and its products will hereafter be shown in this paper. All public events of major importance anywhere in the country are to be "pictorially cov…" in this fashion.

Mob Welcome Denied Clara

L. A. Police Plan to Rush Murderess to Jail, Avoiding Crowds.

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(International News Service.)—To avoid the carrying out of a plot to allow Mrs. Clara Phillips, recaptured "hammer murderess," to escape from the custody of local officers, the "tiger woman" will be taken off the train at some small town before it reaches Los Angeles tonight and rushed to the county jail in a closed automobile under heavy guard, it was learned today. By this method the officers will avoid the large crowd which is expected to gather at the Southern Pacific station to meet the train bearing Mrs. Phillips.

While these preparations were being made, quick moves were also being made by the district attorney's office to bring about action that will result in her being taken immediately to the San Quentin penitentiary.

EL PASO, Tex., June 1. — Los Angeles policemen, to the number of sixty en route to Buffalo, N. Y., serenaded Mrs. Clara Phillips, alleged slayer of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, at Marfa, Texas late yesterday. While their band played lively tunes, among them, "I Love You, California," the "tiger woman" received Chief Louis D. Oakes and several other Los Angeles police acquaintances in her compartment aboard the Sunset Limited. … trains was arranged by Southern Pacific officials at the request of the Los Angeles officers.

When she was informed that plans to take her to San Quentin penitentiary at once had been abandoned, she sat erect and with a smile declared "that's the best news I have had for two days."

LAWYER IS DENIED MEETING WITH CLARA.

TUCSON, Ariz., June 1. — Neither Clara Phillips nor the members of her guard could be reached when the Sunset Limited, on which she is being taken back to Los Angeles, reached Tucson today. The Los Angeles county deputies had left "strict orders" that no member of the party was was to be disturbed before 7:30 o'clock, so efforts to get in touch with the prisoner were without success.

Summoned by a telegram from the sister of the prisoner, John F. Van Buskirk, local attorney, was on hand to meet the train this morning but was denied communication with the prisoner or members of her guard.

BANDIT CAPTIVES' RELEASE CLOSE

Freedom for Foreigners in Week Probable; Reparations Demanded.

PAOTZUKU, June 1.—(By the Associated Press).—Every indication points to release within a week of the foreign captives held by the Shantung bandits on Paotzuku mountain, as the result of the conferences held at noon today between the outlaw delegates and Chinese officials.

A minor hitch developed when the brigands demanded $1,000,000 reparations for some of their villages destroyed by Chinese troops, but it is believed this sum can be cut to $100,000. The brigands also hope to obtain considerable ransom money for their Chinese prisoners.

The majority of the bandits are jubilant at the prospect of being enrolled in the army. Some of the older brigands are against service in the army and it is expected these will depart for their homes when the Paotzuku gang is broken up.

"Never Again for a Million Dollars"

TIENTSIN, June 1.—(By the Associated Press).—All the foreign captives now held by the Suchow train bandits in their Paotzuku stronghold will be released … Robert A. Allen, United States army medical corps, who arrived here last night accompanied by W. Smith, an Englishman. The two men were released by the outlaws Wednesday.

Smith, the English tourist, who is around the 60-year mark, was jubilant at his release. He said he was eager to resume his tour of the Far East, but added:

"In the future I'll fight shy of bandit centers. It has been an extraordinary experience, thrilling and romantic, but I wouldn't go through it again for a million dollars."

The Englishman brought down a basketful of souvenirs from the bandit camp.

Major Allen also brought down an old sword with a curious scabbard. He said he traded a box of cigars for the relic.

FRENCH BAR… MONARCHIST REVOLT PLOT

By WEBB MILLER,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

PARIS, June 1.—A royalist plot directed against the republic, has spread throughout France, Minister of Interior Maurice Manoury announced in the Chamber of Deputies late today.

The government, in the course of several arrests, has discovered proofs that the royalists of all France bound themselves together in a conspiracy directed at the government, he said.

Manoury declared police had seized documents showing plans and the list of members. The investigation is continuing.

The revelation concerning the plot came as the result of pressure brought by the left wing of the chamber against the government, following attack upon three Socialist leaders last night in which they were roughly handled. It was charged this attack was designed by the royalists.

SOCIALISTS GIVEN INK SHAMPOO, CASTOR OIL.

Manoury declared the government deplored this outbreak and would pitilessly suppress any further movement of French fascisti.

Adoption of fascisti methods by French royalists caused a violent uproar in the chamber of deputies.

Deputy Daudet, whose followers last night administered a purple ink shampoo and castor oil to three Socialist leaders, was waylaid as he entered the corridor of the chamber.

About sixty deputies surrounded him, cursing and yelling insulting names. Guards rushed in and Daudet was spirited away while several of the deputies clashed with the guards.

LEADER OF MOVEMENT MOBBED BY DEPUTIES.

Later, when Daudet entered the chamber during a debate, deputies of the left wing leaped from their seats and attempted to attack him. They shouted "Assassin!" as they ran toward him.

Officials, however, intervened.

Deputy Herriot demanded in the chamber that the government immediately take steps to repress the royalists. He declared they were conducting "an intolerable fascisti campaign." Daudet rose to reply, but those on the left yelled so loudly that he could not be heard.

The chamber voted confidence in the ability of the government to repress disorder and defend the republic, 379 to 191.

CLARA DENIED MEETING WITH TUCSON LAWYER

Hammer Slayers Has Hopes for Retrial and Freedom, She Says.

HER GUARD, June 1. — "I still love Armour Phillips, but it was his fault that I was convicted of the murder of Alberta Meadows, his fault and the testimony of Peggy Caffee"

Prefacing her remarks with this paradoxical declaration of blame and devotion, Mrs Clara Phillips today gave information on which she expects to be acquitted, if granted a new trial.

Mrs. Phillips, too, took issue with Madalynne Obenchain on several points which have developed since Mrs Phillips' escape from the Los Angeles county jail December 5 last year and fled to Tegucigalpa, Honduras, where she was arrested.

GIVES VERSION OF OBENCHAIN STORIES.

The specific points concerning Mrs. Obenchain are these:

During Mrs Phillips' trial she appeared one day with a big black hat, which was recognized by the reporters as being one of Mrs Obenchain's hats. Mrs Obenchain denied knowledge of how Clara got the hat

Mrs. Phillips today said: "Mrs Obenchain and I occupied the same cell. I did not have a big hat to hide my face so Mrs Obenchain brought in one of her hats—a big black one—and said 'Wear this, Clara' That is how I happened to wear Mrs Obenchain's hat"

The second point on which Mrs Phillips takes issue with Mrs Obenchain concerns Harry Carlton, a young man who recently turned over to the sheriff's office a package containing files which he said Mrs Obenchain gave him In the package were also a pink silk nightgown, a frame from which a photograph had been taken and a number of toilet articles The sheriff's office identified these articles as having been the property of Clara Phillips.

DENIES AID FROM MRS. OBENCHAIN.

Questioned regarding the incident, Mrs Phillips today said. "Yes, those were my things—the nightgown and the frame, it was one from which my husband's picture was removed, and the toilet articles Mrs Obenchain knew they were mine when she took them from the jail"

'Mrs' Obenchain's name has been constantly connected with mine," she added, "because I escaped so soon after she was released All this talk is unfounded and unjust to Mrs Obenchain She knew nothing about my escape and had no part in it"

Honest Chinese Restores Jewels To Lucy Aldrich

TIENTSIN, June 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—The faithfulness of a Chinese servant is responsible for the recovery of the jewels of Miss Lucy Aldrich, sister-in-law of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., after the gems were lost following the hold-up of the express train by the Suchow bandits, it has been announced by the officers of the Standard Oil Company.

Miss Aldrich, captured by the bandits and released, hid her jewels, consisting of family heirlooms, on a hillside near the scene of the hold-up. Employees of the Standard Oil Company searched the vicinity for days, but were unable to locate the valuables.

An old Chinese servant refused to give up the search and finally came to a large boulder. He sat down, looked, around and found the missing jewels.

The gems were immediately sent to Miss Aldrich at Peking and the servant amply rewarded.

BRITISH PROTEST GRAVE SEARCHING FOR POCAHONTAS

Uncovering of Dead to Find Princess' Remains Is Opposed.

LONDON, June 1 (By the Associated Press). — Marquis Curzon, foreign secretary, has added his voice to the protest against the search at Gravesend for the bones of the Indian Princess Pocahontas. He spoke before a meeting of the Society for the Protection of Ancient Buildings last night.

Lord Curzon, after mentioning the excavation at King Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb, for which he thought there was some excuse because of the artistic and historical results obtained, referred to Pocahontas. He said he had just read of "a lot of ghouls gathered around the site of her interment where they are finding a heap of skull and bones while men of science are actually sitting by to discover whether among this pile of debris they can find a skull with some black hair on it"

"In our passion for antiquity," the foreign secretary added, 'let us at least spare the dead"

Inasmuch as the permission of Home Secretary Bridgeman was necessary before the search at Gravesend became popular, it is believed that Lord Curzon's comment will not escape remark.

STORM OF PROTESTS ON GHOUL DIGGING.

GRAVESEND, Eng., June 1.—(By Associated Press.)—Another storm of protest over the exhumation of long-forgotten dead, reminiscent of that which attended the efforts of Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter to resurrect King Tut-Ankh-Amen, has greeted the attempts of scientists seeking to recover the remains of the Indian princess, Pocahontas, believed to be interred in the graveyard of the Parish church here.

Edward Page Gaston of Chicago, the archeologist who led the modern excavating party which attempted secretly to unearth the bones of the Indian princess was threatened for his pains by indignant Britons whose forbears lie buried with the Indian girl

Armed with authority from the home office, Gaston, who asserts he is a lineal descendant of Pocahontas dug up more than a hundred skeletons while a crowd of hostile villagers peered through the gates of the church yard.

Dr. W. P. Pycraft, assistant keeper of the department of osteological collections in the British museum, and Sir Arthur Keith of the Royal College of Surgeons, are of the opinion that one of the skulls approximated that of an Indian with its characteristic high cheek bones and oval contour of face and this they decided to retain for scientific examination. Three other skulls also were specimens.

Today's findings convinced Gaston and his assistants that Pocahontas' body will ultimately be found in the old chancel under the foundations of the present church in which, according to the church register, it was interred 307 years ago. Excavating under the present edifice cannot be undertaken until the plan of the old church, which was built four years after Columbus discovered America, is found, as there is no indications where the old chancel rests.

Island Decision Held Incomplete

ALAMEDA, June 1 —William J Locke, city attorney of Alameda, today issued the following statement on the decision of Superior Judge J. J Trabucco awarding one half of Government Island to Oakland

'The decision of Judge Trabucco, as I understand it, holds that the boundary as described in the Oakland charter of 1889 is the lawful boundary between the cities. In that charter it says "the boundary is the center of the estuary of San Antonio" Consequently, we are no better off than before, as it becomes necessary to determine what constitutes the San Antonio estuary.

'In 1889, when the Oakland charter was adopted, there was only one channel to the estuary and any attempt to include the artificial channel since created as a part of the estuary will be resisted by Alameda. The judgment is an interlocutory one and, in my opinion, does not decide anything"

BRITISH PAINTER HAS SENSATION IN ART WORK

Sir William Orpen Pays Great Tribute to Tommies in Trenches

LONDON, June 1 —It has been left to Sir William Orpen, one of Britain's greatest painters, to supply the sensation of this year's Academy

Sir William, who is an artistic mixture of the modernist and the classical stylist, ignored convention, sham and false heroics, and has dared to paint a picture which is a magnificent allegorical tribute to the "Tommies of the Trenches," the men who really won the war.

Burlington House, where the Academy is held, in the midst of the fashionable Piccadilly, is in a tumult because the elect of society either cannot understand the picture or do not want to

UNKNOWN SOLDIER.

Sir William has entitled his picture, "To the Unknown British Soldier in France" In it he shows one of the great paneled state-rooms—the Hall of Mirrors—in the Palace of Versailles, all marble, glint and glitter, painted with the inimitable skill with which the great painter treats all great subjects

In the middle of the room, facing a passage at the far end of which appears a Cross in the opening giving access to daylight, stands a catafalque covered by a Union Jack Two soldiers, naked but for a loin cloth, ragged puttees, and shrapnel helmets—terrifying, emaciated green spirit soldiers with flames above their heads—guard the coffin. Above them float the two cupids—derived obviously from the Verrocchia in the courtyard of the Bargello—and these drop heavy garlands on the spectral guard of honor.

Unquestionably, it is a marvelous painting, but the accessories, sentimental and otherwise, have aroused the critics to fury and praise, according to their political outlook.

HISTORY IS SIMPLE.

The history of the picture and its method of treatment is simple. After the war Sir William was commissioned to paint three scenes at Versailles, where the great men of the world signed the treaty Two years ago the sketch of the present picture appeared in the Academy That created the first sensation Sir William devoted the whole of his art and ingenuity to painting the interior decorations of the famous palace Time, care and wonderful artistry were put into the subjects, but the soldiers and politicians of all the countries appear like so many puppets

But that was passed over; the people waited for the finished picture They waited in vain Sir William tired of his task So instead of the statesmen, pen in hand signing the famous treaty, he painted the eerie and phantom picture of two British Tommies standing guard over a coffin There is all the wonder of Versailles and all the tragedy of war in the picture

Peace is represented by the two cupid-like figures floating over the grim, ghostly sentinels of war Yet some people profess not to understand.

5000 CHILDREN MOB PRESIDENT AND MRS. HARDING

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(By the Associated Press).—Eight thousand school children gathered in American League Park yesterday to serenade President and Mrs. Harding as a feature of Washington's music week, broke away from their teachers and through a marine guard before the program was finished and rushing good-naturedly, cannonballed across the field, laid down a barrage of flowers on the presidential party.

What had started as a quiet serenade turned into a wild rush of children when each, anxious to present a bouquet to either the president or Mrs. Harding, took the short course of hurling the flowers at them. The president and his wife were compelled to ward off the rain of blossoms.

The children had been massed for the serenade in the right center and left field bleachers of the ball park. Parents and others interested in music week festivities were in the grand stand. President and Mrs. Harding occupied a small improvised stand near the center of the field.

Most of the program had gone off as scheduled, when [illegible] number designated on the program as "the president's surprise." It proved to be a drill by several hundred tots of kindergarten age, who after completing their exercises, gathered around the presidential stand and seated themselves as preparations were being made for the next number.

The sight of the little ones basking in the presidential favor was too much for the older children, and with a wild whoop they rushed from the bleachers onto the field. Marines from the barracks here had been stationed before the stands, and although they stopped the Germans at Belleau wood, they found themselves helpless when charged by thousands of rushing children. Then a boy in the rear, concluding that it was hopeless for him to try to hand his flowers to the president, let go with a big bunch of daisies which sailed over the crowd and landed square on the president's shoulders. That gave the others the idea they needed, and soon the air was filled with flying flowers, single blossoms, bouquets and great bunches. As the blossoms flew thicker and thicker, the military and naval aides to the president endeavored to shield their chief and Mrs Harding, who were smiling bravely [illegible]

BRAINY CLOAK MODELS NEEDED

LONDON, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—A new craze has seized the young women of England. They want to become fashion mannequins and share the niche of popularity with musical-comedy favorites.

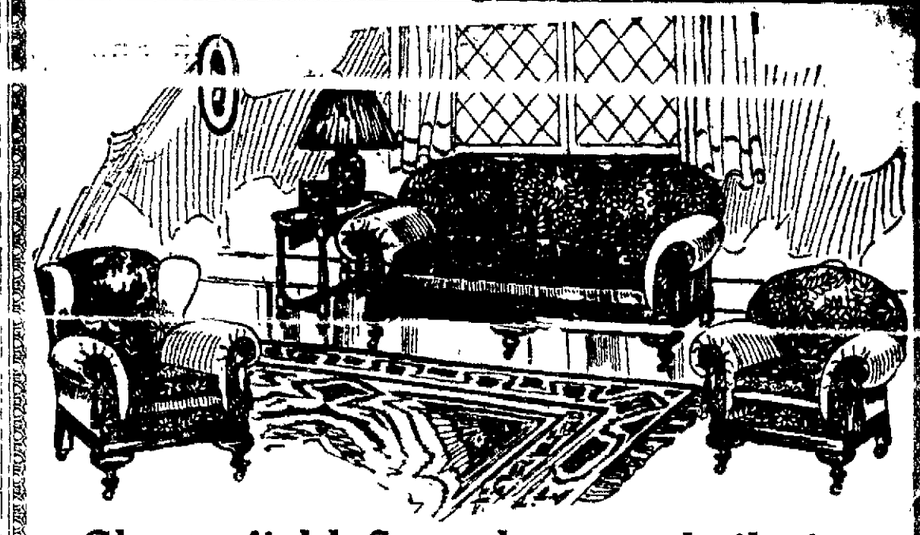

A London newspaper is conducting a mannequin contest in conjunction with England's most fashionable dressmaking establishment, and has drawn applicants from all parts of the British Isles. Those aspiring to become fashion models are required to send in their photographs, physical measurements, description of facial features, or details of any special qualifications they possess.

The best London coutouriers declare that the mannequins of the future must possess brains as well as mere beauty and pulchritude. In the opinion mere prettiness of face and grace of figure are no longer enough for the efficient displays of their artistic creations.

Dress has become so elaborate, they say, and the struggle for originality so acute, that the girls on whom these creations are built up must co-operate intelligently in the work, and not content themselves merely with being exquisite lay figures.

NATIONS WILL SEEK UNIVERSAL ETHICS STANDARD

Code For Business and Professional Men to Busy Convention.

ST. LOUIS, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Administrative problems and the best way to introduce a standard code of ethics among business and professional men throughout the world will focus the attention of ten thousand delegates, to the fourteenth annual convention of the Rotary International, which opens June 18.

The number of Rotary clubs in the world has almost doubled within the last five years, and there are now more than fourteen hundred club units, divided into 39 districts in cities of the United States, Canada, Mexico, Denmark, Uurguay, Spain Panama and Argentina, with one international organization in the British Isles, Australia and South Africa.

Probably the most interesting business to come before the convention will be the discussion of the proposition that Rotary clubs concentrate their energies for a year in development of programs that will have for an object the introduction of standard codes of ethical practices among business and professional men in all business or professions represented in Rotary.

An unusually large number of delegates from clubs overseas, particularly those from the British Isles and various parts of the British empire have announced their intention of coming and some have already started.

St. Louis is making great preparations for the reception of the visitors, and already reservations have been made for more than 8000 Rotarians.

Four Bodies Taken From Iowa Lake

CLEAR LAKE, Iowa, June 1. — The bodies of four persons drowned in Clear Lake Wednesday night when a boat from which they were fishing capsized were recovered near the north shore of the lake here last night after a search of several hours.

The victims were Mr. and Mrs. Hickok, George Stoneback and Miss Bess Parks, all of this town. The fishing party had been missed since about midnight and a dragging crew started work at noon today at Reeleys Point. The search was under the direction of Sheriff Marsh and Coroner W. E. Long.

TWO CONVICTED ON TAX CHARGE

DUBUQUE, Iowa, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—A. A. and F. F. Cooper, wealthy Dubuque manufacturers and business men, were found guilty on three counts on a conspiracy indictment which charged them with making false and fraudulent income tax returns during the years 1918, 1919 and 1920, by a federal court jury here last night.

Conviction of the Coopers means that the government may proceed with the collection of about $750,000 in income excess profits and war taxes and penalties and fines; also means that the Coopers are liable to imprisonment.

Judge George C. Scott, presiding, gave the defendants until June 20 to file a motion for a new trial. The hearing on the motion was set for June 28 at Waterloo, Iowa.

The trial was regarded as one of the most important income tax cases ever prosecuted by the government.

The Cooper brothers were officers of the A. A. Cooper Wagon and Buggy Company of Dubuque and half a dozen other companies.

There are twelve other indictments pending against the defendants and others associated with them in the affairs of several corporations, all growing out of government charges that the Coopers defrauded the government out of income tax and made fraudulent returns.

In each of the years in question the defendants submitted income tax returns showing losses aggregating more than $200,000.

Billion-Dollar Ship Bid Considered

WASHINGTON, June 1. — The special shipping board committee on bids, consisting of Commissioners O'Connor and Lissner, have been instructed by Chairman Lasker to confer with John W. Slack of Silver Creek, N. Y., who submitted the billion dollar offer for the entire government fleet. Slack has been notified the committee will meet him in New York, where the commissioners have gone to negotiate with others who submitted proposals for portions of the fleet.

The Admiral Line and the Pacific Mail Steamship company were identified as the bidders for the west coast to Orient routes.

U. S.-MEXICAN ENVOYS CONSIDER LAND PROBLEMS

American Case Is Based Entirely on Exhibits of Mexico.

MEXICO CITY, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Mexican and United States recognition commissioners met today to continue their discussion of the agrarian problem as it concerns payment for lands owned by American citizens, but expropriated by Mexico for division among the small agriculturalists.

The Obregon spokesmen defend the right to indemnify the American owners with state and national bonds, but the United States commissioners assert that the constitution of 1857 provides for indemnification in money. They also contend that in order to re-establish confidence between Mexico and the other powers it is necessary to set forth the basis on which property rights will be recognized by Mexican law at the time when property is acquired.

While asserting that the title to oil and other land acquired under the laws of 1884 and 1892 must be maintained against any retroactive and confiscatory interpretations of the 1917 constitution as well as of existing agrarian laws, the United States commissioners concede that lands acquired since May 1, 1917, are subject to the provisions of subsequent legislation.

As to indemnification for expropriated property, it is believed that after questions of principle have been decided there will be no objection to considering the unfortunate position in which Mexico found herself financially after the revolution. This is interpreted as meaning that the United States will be willing to make concessions as to the terms of payment for the confiscated lands.

Throughout the negotiations the American commissioners have not brought into the conference a single document; the entire case of the United States has been based upon exhibits read into the minutes by the Mexican delegates.

GREW MAY SIGN TURK TREATIES

WASHINGTON, June 1. — The informal treaty conversations proceeding between Joseph C. Grew, American minister to Switzerland, and the Turkish delegates at Lausanne have been advanced to the stage of formal negotiations. The State department announced last night that on May 29 it had cabled full powers to Grew to negotiate and sign a treaty or treaties of amity and commerce with Turkey.

While the conclusion of such negotiations, the department announcement said, still "depended upon a satisfactory adjustment of outstanding questions between the two countries," department officials appeared confident of the success of the negotiations.

The occasion for revision of existing treaties between the United States and Turkey arises from the displacement of the capitulations, under which the interests of American nationals in Turkey were taken care of by the agreements now in negotiation between that country and the Allies.

Mrs. Edson Must Itemize Her Claims

SACRAMENTO, June 1.—Katherine Phillips Edson, for many years a member and secretary of the state industrial welfare commission, will be required hereafter to set out in her monthly claim of per diem, the work she actually performed on the days of service and also itemize her traveling and general expenses.

This construction is placed by the board of control on an opinion by Attorney General U. S. Webb, it is announced by the board. The board has withheld the claims of Mrs. Edson for February, March and April on the ground that such statements have not been made in accordance to law. According to the board, Mrs. Edson has been charging $10 per day for her services, and $8 per day for expenses until the total reached $300 per month.

Webb's opinion upholds the right of the welfare commission to assign Mrs. Edson, a member of the board, to secretarial duties, but declares that she must itemize the work she does and her expenses.

FRIENDS DISAPPROVE OF WHISTLING BEAUTY

"Say, Carrie, if you don't quit whistling I'm going to throw my typewriter at you."

"What? You surely don't mean to say that you don't like good music?"

"Music? If that's music I surely don't. You couldn't carry a tune in a basket and it does get on my nerves."

"I think you're horrid. I'm so happy and I've got to express myself someway."

"Well, if you're moved to whistling very often I advise you to go out to the broad prairie and tune in with the coyotes. This is no place for such sounds."

"I should be angry, I suppose, but it is, my feelings are just hurt."

"I hope they are hurt bad enough to keep you still the rest of the day."

"Well, if I wasn't too happy for anything I'd be really mad, I suppose."

"What's all the joy about anyway? Are you going to San Jose for the week-end? You said you wanted to, but couldn't afford any new clothes."

"That's it exactly. I found the place where I can get the cutest sweaters, skirts, blouses and hats by picking out a whole outfit."

"And thought lack of money was [illegible]"

"My dear, it was. But I can buy on [illegible] there and make monthly payments. It's Cherry's, at 815 [illegible]"

551,000 ENROLL IN COLLEGES AIDED BY METHODISTS

CHICAGO, June 1.—Enrollment exceeding 551,000 was estimated today for the current year at 43 colleges and universities sponsored by the board of education of the Methodist-Episcopal church. The increase was expected to approximate 5000 students. The rolls of the five larger institutions showed Boston University was 9500 students; Northwestern University, 9000; University of Southern California, 7500; Syracuse University, 5057, and University of Denver, 2603.

BEATING SLOT MACHINE.

ST. LOUIS.—Pleading guilty to robbing a cigar store, Garrett Diering told the judge: "I had lost $5 in a slot machine in the place and I wanted to get even." Instead of getting even he got nine months in the workhouse.

BUILDING HERE IS BELOW YEAR '14

The present building activity in Oakland is not the greatest in the city's history, as is commonly believed, but was considerably surpassed in the year 1914, according to Lawrence F. Hyde, Oakland architect, who yesterday addressed a meeting of local business men at the Hotel Oakland.

"Eight more building permits a day were issued in Oakland during 1914 than are being issued here now," Hyde declared. "In 1914 the average daily number was 32—now it is only 24. This means that local building activity is eight permits a day below normal, for 1914 was a normal year. At the present rate, it will take Oakland three years to overcome the building shortage."

Hyde said this condition would be partially remedied by paying more attention to the development of the lumber industry in California, instead of relying upon other States to supply a large part of our building materials.

"We are now looking mainly to Oregon and Washington for our lumber," Hyde declared, "whereas great timber areas in this State are lying untouched because there are only five mills in California capable of handling them."

BOY SHOOTS AT CARTRIDGE AND LEAD HITS EYE

Klan Chiropractic Ousted, Reinstated

SALEM, Ore., June 1.—Governor Pierce yesterday announced State Board of Chiropractic Examiners and had appointed among the new members Dr. R. C. Ellsworth of Pendleton, who was relieved of his duties on this board by Ben W. Olcott, then governor, because of alleged activities in the Ku Klux Klan. Dr. Ellsworth succeeds Dr. D. T. Brown of The Dalles, whose term would have expired June 30.

Supreme Court to Hear L. A. Road Case

SACRAMENTO, June 1. — The State Supreme court announced Angeles June 11 and 12 to hear a petition from the State Highway commission for a writ of mandate to compel State Controller Ray L. Riley to pay $125,000 to George Pollock, highway contractor. The case grows out of cancellation by the commission of a $2,000,000 contract held by Pollock for the building of the San Simeon highway in Monterey county. The case is expected to determine the right of the highway commission to terminate contracts.

FRUITGROWER DROPS DEAD.

land M. Parrish, born at Soquel, Calif., near Santa Cruz, dropped dead in the garage of his son-in-law at the latter's ranch near Lemoore late yesterday. He was 66 and leaves a widow and four daughters. He was a prominent fruitgrower of Kings county and served two terms on the Hanford city council.

New York Banker's Wife Gets Divorce

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—Mrs. Reba C. Stanley obtained a divorce private banker of New York and owner of extensive properties there and in Chicago and Southern California, in Superior court of Riverside county, May 26, according to the Los Angeles Times. Mrs. Stanley charged cruelty and desertion. The couple have two children, Jas. Mallard Stanley, 21, and Mrs. Katherine Stanley Waddell, 19.

Super Values in Capes

A Special Purchase on sale at

$36.75

See our special window display and displays in the department.

A cape event extraordinary, coming at a most opportune time.

The wholesale cost in most cases was originally more than our retail price.

A tremendous super-sale of beautiful capes, coming just at the time when capes are popular and when the milder weather makes them the most satisfactory kind of wrap. They are made of rich, lustrous woolen materials in beautiful navies and black. All the grace of the straight line wrap is present in these garments.

We are fortunate in being able to get the entire overstock of a leading manufacturer, and the prices at which we are able to sell them are almost unbelievable for the quality involved. Some made with fur collars, and all lined with beautiful silks, some crepe de chine, some satins. Most unusual values!

NEW GEMS by O. HENRY

Treasure-Trove of Humor from Newly Discovered Writings

THE OTHER SIDE OF IT.

There is an item going the rounds of the press relative to the well known curiosity of women. It states that if a man brings a newspaper home out of which a piece has been clipped his wife will never rest until she has procured another paper to see what it was that had been cut out.

A Houston man was quite impressed with the idea, so he resolved to make the experiment. One night last week he cut out of the day's paper a little two-inch catarrh-cure advertisement, and left the mutilated paper on the table where his wife would be sure to read it.

He picked up a book and pretended to be interested, while he watched her glance over the paper. When she struck the place where the piece had been cut, she frowned and seemed to be thinking very seriously.

However, she did not say anything about it and the man was in doubt as to whether her curiosity had been aroused or not.

The next day when he came home to dinner she met him at the door with flashing eyes and an ominous look about her jaw.

"You miserable, deceitful wretch" she cried. "After living all these years with you to find that you have been basely deceiving me and leading a double life, and bringing shame and sorrow upon your innocent family! I always thought you were a villain and a reprobate, and now I have positive proof of the fact."

"Wh— wha—what do you mean, Maria?" he gasped. "I haven't been doing anything."

"Of course you are ready to add lying to your catalogue of vices. Since you pretend not to understand me—look at this."

She held up to his gaze a complete paper of the issue of the day before.

"You though to hide your actions from me by cutting out part of the paper, but I was too sharp for you."

"Why that was just a little joke, Maria. I didn't think you would take it seriously, I—"

"Do you call that a joke, you shameless wretch?" she cried, spreading the paper before him.

The man looked and read in dismay. In cutting out the catarrh advertisement he had never thought to see what was on the other side of it, and this was the item that appeared to one reading the other side of the page, to have been clipped:

"A gentleman about town, who stands well in business circles, had a high old time last night in a certain restaurant where he entertained at supper a couple of chorus ladies belonging to the comic opera company now in the city. Loud talking and breaking of dishes attracted some attention, but the matter was smoothed over, owing to the prominence of the gentleman referred to."

"You call that a joke, do you, you reptile, "shrieked the excited lady. "I'm going home to mamma this evening and I'm going to stay there. Thought you'd fool me by cutting it out, did you? You sneaking, dissipated old snake you! I've got my trunk nicely packed and I'm going straight home—don't you come near me!"

"Maria," gasped the bewil dered man. "I swear I—"

"Don't add perjury to your crimes, sir!"

The man tried unsuccessfully to speak three or four times, and then grabbed his hat and ran down town. Fifteen minutes later he came back bringing two new silk dress patterns, four pounds of caramels, and his bookkeeper and three clerks to prove that he was hard at work in the store, on the night in question.

The affair was finally settled satisfactorily, but there is one Houston man who has no further curiosity about woman's curiosity.

Doyle to Lecture On "Life Beyond"

The first lecture by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, investigator of spirit manifestation, will be given tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock in Dreamland Auditorium, San Francisco. The subject will be "The Life Beyond," in which he lays the ground work of the evidence that he will develop in the subsequent lectures. Gerald Campbell, consul-general of Great Britain, will preside and introduce this distinguished Britisher for the first time to a San Francisco audience. Sir Arthur's lecture engagement is under the direction of Paul Elder. He lectures in Oakland Tuesday evening.

$100,000 Damage Is Asked in Death Suit

Damage of $100,000 is asked of the Southern Pacific railroad for the death of Jesse Machado, who was struck by a train while driving an auto truck across the tracks at the Jenny station, May 31, 1922, it is alleged. Suit for damages was filed in the superior court by Mrs. Emily E. Machado, mother of the victim. She alleges that her son died June 1, from the injuries he received in the accident and charges the railroad with negligence in that the train was going at a speed of about 50 miles an hour and no warning was given of its approach.

The mother says she is suing on behalf of herself, Jess Machado, the father; Edward, a brother and Emily, a sister.

PADRE OF RAINS SEES FAVORABLE DAYS FOR JUNE

Father Ricard Foresees No Big Storms Ahead for Month of Roses.

SANTA CLARA, June 1.—June weather is presented in a favorable aspect by Father J. S. Ricard, "padre of the rains," in the monthly forecast issued from his observatory at the University of Santa Clara yesterday. The forecast is as follows:

June 1—A slight disturbance to enter British Columbia and pass to the eastward. No other effect in California than a few clouds. High pressure and cool wave entering simultaneously on the south side.

June 2.—Some cloudiness over the general northwest.

June 3, 4, 5, 6, 7.—A rather warm wave passing along under a predominance of high pressures.

DISTURBANCE SEEN.

June 8.—Quite early becoming cooler as the high pressures move out of reach, thus leaving the door open for the entrance of a rather severe disturbance over British Columbia and Washington. Some rain also in Oregon and Superior California. Possibly menacing cloudiness in these parts and a lowering of the Arizona low, with a trough of low pressure stretching along the plateau and joining the two centers of action

June 9. — Fair in California; cloudy and partly cloudy from Eureka to the northwestward, with scattered showers.

June 10.—At night a disturbance of minor import to appear over the high northwest, causing cloudiness there and giving notice of its arrival by the formation and scudding of mares' tails in our cloudless sky.

June 11.—Cloudy from Superior California to the northward, but fair on the south side, even as far as Mexico.

WHOLE COAST FAVORED.

June 12.—Fair all along the coast.

June 13.—A disturbance of greater import to arrive via Vancouver, affecting also the Arizona law, much in the same way as described under June. Hardly any unpleasant effect in California, save some transient cloudiness.

June 14.—Generally fair.

June 15.—In the afternoon the marked depression running across the high northwest; little or no effect in California, owing to the presence of rising pressures from Oregon down, making it cooler and causing brisk northwest winds.

June 16, 17.—Mostly fair here, but rather cloudy from Oregon to the northward and eastward.

June 18, 19.—A rather troublesome depression landing over British Columbia and deepening the Arizona low, with a trough like extension west of the Rockies, joining the two centers of disturbance. Some cloudiness in California, brisk south winds and possibly a few drops. Rising pressure on the California side on June 18, making it cooler.

WARM DAYS AHEAD.

June 22.—The usual complex condition of a high and low reaching the coast at the same time The high will be over California, making it fair.

June 23, 24, 25, 26.—Fair and unusually warm from British Columbia to Mexico and from the Pacific to the crest of the Rockies

June 27, 28.—An ugly depression settling over the northwestern coast and spreading far down south with no bar of high pressure to offer resistance. Rain from Oregon to the northward, somewhat threatening in California and possibly a few drops; gentle to brisk south winds on land and sea

June 29.—Lingering cloudiness, with many breaks

June 30.—All fair.

First days of July good and enjoyable.

Officer Cleared Of Suicide Stigma

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 1. — Lieutenant Charles Clay, found dead in his quarters at Fort Snelling, near here, November 27, 1922, has had his name cleared of the stigma of suicide accord ng to unofficial information here from Washington. It was said that the report of the second board of inquiry to consider his case, recommended that the officer be declared to have died in line of duty from unknown causes.

A patent has been given on a process for the recovery of copper from oxidized ores.

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness and fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antiacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose It has a direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water after the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. It removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of digestion pills or artificial digestants.

A few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable druggist. Use either powder or tablets. It comes as a liquid, milk or magnesia and in the bisurated form is more effective. Try this plan and if there is anything you want at your next meal see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on what to eat for a stomach disorder.

RICHMOND FERRY HEARING IS SET

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The board of supervisors will hold a hearing next Wednesday on the claims of two rival factions for franchises to operate a ferryboat service between Richmond and San Francisco The contending parties are M. Emanuel, realty dealer of Richmond, who was granted a franchise by the Contra Costa county board of supervisors in 1919, and A. H. Drauchon, an official of the Six-Minute Ferry between Richmond and Vallejo.

According to Mayor E. J. Garrard of Richmond, who spoke yesterday before the public utilities committee of the local board of supervisors, Emanuel has so far failed to exercise his franchise, with the result that the city has suffered. He urged the local board to grant a franchise to Drauchon

Emanuel fought the proposal to give the franchise to Drauchon, explaining that he had had trouble financing his project, but that if given a little more time he could get it on a sound footing

ANATHEMATIZED IN CHURCH

LEEDS.—Two members of Manston Parish Church were anathematized by the pastor for remaining seated during the services.

Washington Woman Wins U. C. Course

—Mrs. Russell Blankenship, recently appointed instructor in English at Whitman college, has been selected by the University of California as one of ten to receive a course in criticism writing to be given there this summer by Henry Serdell Canby, editor of the literary review of the New York Evening Post, and professional lecturer in English at Yale university. This course is described in the university catalogue as limited to ten students selected on the basis of manuscripts submitted or of essays accepted and published in any standard magazine.

Youth Injured in Fall From Train

Frank Sweigart, 16 years old, is in the Emergency hospital suffering from possible internal injuries which he received this morning when he was thrown from a freight train which he attempted to jump. Sweigart came to this city with Sam Jules and Paul De Leon, all [illegible], Ohio, and Phillip Colvelli of Cuiahoga Falls. The boys after arriving here spent their money and were unable to find employment. Yesterday they decided to beat their way home on a freight bound for the east.

The four boys waited for the freight at the Sixteenth street depot. As it approached the station Sweigart's companions refused to jump on because it was traveling too fast. Sweigart made the attempt, missed his footing and was thrown.

He was picked up by his companions and taken to the Emergency hospital. He will be removed to the county hospital today.

PIGGLY WIGGLY All Over the World

THE REASONS WHY

A million people buy from PIGGLY WIGGLY every day

Because: Direct from the manufacturers, the packer, the canner and the farmer to the customer, and buying in immense quantities means lower prices.

Because: Nationally known goods conveniently arranged in stores where cleanliness reigns supreme.

Because: You have the privilege of buying free from interruption, persuasion or suggestion.

Because: No waiting to be waited on—one hundred people can help themselves at Piggly Wiggly in the same time that ten people can be waited on elsewhere.

Because: Selecting exactly what you want— not what somebody wants to hand you.

Because: How far Piggly Wiggly has attained success can best be marked by its army of more than a million customers every day.

ENGLISH BRIDE BARRED AMERICA BY ALIEN RULE

Immigration Quota Filled, Is Reason for Action by Federal Officials.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Because Great Britain's immigration quota was exhausted six days ago, Mrs. Elsie Demitron, British bride of an American citizen, who arrived here on the steamship President Monroe, this week, must be excluded, an immigration board decided yesterday. She appealed the decision to Washington.

Mrs. Demitron was barred under the recent law stipulating that an alien marrying an American does not become a citizen of this country until she has lived here a year.

The decision, it is said, forecasts similar adverse decisions in the cases of five other British subjects who also arrived among the first class passengers on the President Monroe.

Local authorities expressed the opinion that the only possibility whereby some of the other Britishers detained might be permitted to enter would be their temporary admission as tourists. Claim for special consideration as a tourist was made by one of the five, Mrs. Alice Robertson, who had her passport vised by an American consular officer in England before the quota was filled and who stated she would remain here only six months.

For the first time since the restricted immigration lag became effective, the British quota was exhausted just before the President Monroe arrived. This fact apparently is not known in London and astonishment expressed there at the detention of the British subjects is based on a belief that the action is unwarrented, immigration officials said.

First Initiation Of Girls' Order

Quick Inquiries

Campfire Girls' Movement Given New Impetus

By EDNA B. KINARD.

The Campfire Girls' movement in Oakland is receiving a new impetus in the organization of a local executive council, supported by an auxiliary body of some half hundred prominent men and women. Participation in the Community Chest has placed the activities on a substantial basis, assuring a regular service for the girls as well as the boys in place of the volunteer and irregular interest of the past. Establishment of a down town headquarters and employment of an executive secretary who will personally direct the big program of work and stand a link between the local Campfires the Guardians' Association, the Council and the public, promises a quickening along all lines of the organization. Within a month, active extension work will be in full swing.

The dozen men and women who have accepted the responsibility of sponsoring Campfire by membership in the executive council of Oakland, met at luncheon today in Capwell's Roofgarden for important conference. Machinery was set in motion which promises immediate launching of an enlarged project for girls. Reports were received from Mrs. Addie Mosher, vice-chairman of the council, and chairman of the committee instructed to nominate an executive secretary, and from Mrs. Mark Emerson, headquarters chairman. Mrs. George A. Rigg is chairman of the committee on headquarter furnishings.

Recruiting of guardians will be the first big problem presented the council. Groups of girls all over the city are clamoring for organization of local campfires. The work has long been delayed through lack of leadership. The groups of necessity must be kept small—not more than fifteen, if possible. Each campfire requires a guardian—an older girl or woman who will familiarize herself with the simple crafts—will assist in planning outings and merrymaking; will be able to show a girl the beauties of home, health and kindliness, and maintain herself a leader at all times. Her reward comes in the loyalty and affection of the young women whom she serves.

An intensive training course will probably be announced later in the summer for women who are willing to volunteer for the interesting task of Campfire guardian and who take the task seriously enough to prepare for it. Miss Ruth Findlay is chairman of the committee on training courses.

Iyuzvata Group of Campfire Girls, of which Miss Katherine G. Yetter is guardian and which represents Lakeview Club in the girl movement, announces the annual play and bazaar for tomorrow in the assembly hall of the Oakland Young Women's Christian Association. The twenty young girls of whom Miss Patty Edwards is the chosen president, have made ready a charming collection of novelties for sale among their friends. Delicious home-made candies and delicacies will also be offered the visitors.

"The Forest Princess" and "The Girls of Glen Willow," two delightful plays will be produced by the members of this north-of-the-lake campfire for the entertainment of their guests. Mrs. W. A. Carroll has directed the rehearsals.

The program will be presented at 2:30 p. m. and at 8 p. m.

When P. E. O. women come to Oakland this summer in attendance upon the convention of the National Education Association, they will receive a truly western welcome from their sorority sisters. To create a treasury which will properly finance their plans for hospitality, the three local chapters of P. E. O. this afternoon were joint hostesses at a benefit card party at the residence of Miss Blanch Bonham in Grand avenue. Mrs. R. Q. Roemer was general chairman of the committee on arrangements. Among the women who assisted here were: Mrs. Carl Williams, Mrs. George L. Tower Jr.

Patriotism will be the keynote of the closing program of Lakeview Parent-Teacher Association on Wednesday in the school auditorium. "Making Our American Flag" and "Signing the Declaration of Independence" will be demonstrated in two living pictures in which students will appear. A Colonial Minuet and patriotic songs will also be contributed by the children.

Mrs. Peter J. Kramer, newly elected member of the board of education and past president of Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs, will formally install the board of directors, which will take over administration of the association's work. Mrs. Roy E. Danford will assume the presidency. The officers who will be associated with her are: Mrs. J. DuFrene, Mrs. E. H. Herbert, vice-presidents; Mrs. H. L. Breed, recording secretary; Mrs. H. L. Wright, corresponding secretary; Mrs. G. H. Reier, financial secretary; Mrs. J. G. Collier, treasurer; Mrs. F. Warshaner, auditor; Mrs. S Spitz, historian; Mrs. C. S. Schenckll, parliamentarian; delegates to Oakland Federation Mrs. C. V. Newell, Mrs. W. C. Anderson, Mrs. Charles Schlegel.

A commencement party will be given in honor of members of the graduating class and their mothers by Dewey Parent-Teacher Association on Thursday afternoon of next week. Mrs. J. Cardwell is chairman of the day.

Installation of newly elected officers is arranged for Tuesday, June 12. Mrs. Edward Morgan Jones, past president of Oakland Federation of Mothers' Clubs, will follow. Mrs. John Nolan is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

Farewell Parties Are Planned For Mrs. Perry

Mrs. Raymond Arthur Perry who is leaving the latter part of this month for Europe for a year's travel is the incentive for a number of smart dinner parties to be given this week and next. This evening Dr. and Mrs. F. Carpenter will give a dinner at their home and on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. Frank Milton Avery will be hosts at dinner at their residence in Mountain avenue, Piedmont. Ed Hulse who has been traveling in the orient for the past six months will share the honors with Mrs. Perry. Mr. Hulse arrived yesterday from China.

Mrs. James Dunn of Alameda is to be hostess at a luncheon at her home in Central avenue, a group of intimate friends being invited for the affair.

Mrs. Percy Black was a luncheon hostess of the past week and Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dukes of Berkeley gave a supper last Sunday evening as a farewell to Mrs. Perry.

CHURCH WEDDING THIS EVENING.

The First Presbyterian church in Berkeley was the scene of the marriage of Miss Isabel Gibson and Arnold Anderson at 8:30 o'clock, Rev. Lapsley A. McAfee, the pastor, officiating. There were 200 guests in the assemblage. The chancel was banked in pink roses and gladiolas and many pink candles cast a soft glow over the chancel.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin crepe made in a becoming mode. A bandeau of rare lace held the coiffure in place, the lace the gift of friends in Peru. A ruche of lilies of the valley was worn at the back of the coiffure to hold the bridal veil in place, sprays of blossoms to hold the veil as it fell in folds to form the train. Brides' roses and lilies of the valley were in the shower bouquet.

Miss Olive Gibson was her sister's maid of honor and was gowned in a jade green canton crepe.

In the group of bridesmaids were be Miss Lillian Lundgren, Miss Carolyn Knudsen and Miss Lorene Edrington who wore bridesmaid frocks in the pastel shades, carrying pink rosebuds and Delphiniums in their arm bouquets.

George Anderson was best man for his brother and the complement of ushers included Donald Gibson, George Beaver and Albert Anderson.

Both Miss Gibson and her betrothed are graduates of the University of California. Berkeley will be the future home of the couple.

Due to the school's efficient fire l system the students were all ly out of the burning structure hin two minutes from the time fire gong was sounded.

ISCOVERED BY SECRETARY.

The flames were discovered by s Helen Hastings, one of the retaries.

Members of the executive de-ment of the school today em-sized the protection afforded by school's fire fighting system, h made it possible to play sev-heavy streams of water upon flames immediately after the was discovered.

The school has its individual fire drant within 20 feet of the use," Miss Edith Bridges, one of principals pointed out "and e is a special three-inch pipe talled for fire protection only. e have eight fire hoses ready for ion at all times, two on each . This made it possible for us play powerful streams upon the es at once, by climbing upon roof by means of ladders lead-up from the girls' sleeping ches.

"We fought the flames with our equipment until the arrival of members of the fire depart-nt. The fire department's re-onse was very prompt, and this, upled with the fact that we had the flames in check, prevented avy property loss."

e fire is believed to have been ed by a spark from one of the imneys. Mark Requa, one of the ectors; Mrs. Requa, and Oscar o, the counsel for the school, ried to the grounds as soon as heard of the fire and worked 7 o'clock last night putting gs in order again.

British Writer Protests On U. S. Liquor Ruling

By SIR CHARLES ROSS, Bart.
(Copyright, 1923, by the United Press)

(Printed by arrangement with "The Outlook," London)

LONDON, June 1—People in England have hitherto regarded with mingled amusement and bewilderment the introduction and administration of Prohibition in the United States.

America went officially "dry" on Jan. 1, 1919. Since then, to judge from the conflicting statements made by "drys" and "wets" propagandists, every American seems to be one of the other—the enforcement of Prohibition has not been an unmixed success.

This, the "drys" tell us, is due to smuggling of liquor on a vast scale from abroad, largely in British ships from British ports. Diplomatic controversy between the Foreign Office and the State Department, concerning the juridical and ethical aspects of "rum-running" is still in progress.

Even now a most vexatious problem is exercising the pundits of international law—the right of the United States to seize a British ship outside territorial waters, because the vessel's small boats entered the three-mile limit and there broke the law of America by selling Scotch whiskey.

The reported attitude of the foreign office in maintaining its rights to support British trade in whatever legal enterprises it may undertake abroad should be supported. If it is legal to sell spirits in British territory, it is legal to sell them on the high seas, and considering England's debt to America, it is impossible to give up any legitimate enterprise which may help to redress the balance of trade between this country and our great creditor.

DIFFICULT QUESTION

The questions involved in the American claim that smuggling should be controlled at the source are, however, admittedly most difficult. It cannot be denied that [illegible] which deserves sympathetic consideration.

But far broader and more important issues than the rights and wrongs of Prohibition are involved in the decision of the United States Supreme Court that foreign liners must not have alcoholic beverages on board during their sojourn in American waters.

America has the right to make [illegible] foreigners on American soil, to obey them. She may prohibit drinking, smoking, dancing, laughing—anything. But the Supreme Court decision goes far beyond that.

It attempts to control the habits of foreign subjects on foreign soil and even demands that foreigners on their own territory must break the laws of their own country!

Italian and French ships are legally required to supply rations of wine for their crews. British ships are compelled by British law to carry brandy for medicinal purposes. A ship under the Union Jack is British territory. This is a fundamental principle of international law. It is one of the few foundations of international law that has never been disputed before. It is a right which England cannot and will not abandon.

Suppose that the Government of Holland prohibited the presence of tobacco on all vessels within Dutch waters, and that Dutch policemen climbed on board a British ship at Rotterdam and dragged the purser off to jail because a box of cigarettes was found locked up in his cabin. Redress would have to be made for the outrage.

It is impossible to suppose that the United States Government proposes to hale before the bar of justice a British officer who may have a bottle of bass reposing in his cupboard, or even standing on his sideboard, aboard the Mauretania. Yet that is apparently what the Supreme Court decision imposes upon the Federal Authorities in New York.

RIGHTS OF THE U. S.

The United States Government has the right to forbid the sale of liquor, as of tobacco, on foreign liners in American waters. But it can be no concern of any foreign power what stores of tobacco, or spirits or anything else, repose in the bowels of a British ship, so long as no attempt is made to sell them until the vessel is again on the high seas.

It has not yet been claimed that the high seas are American territory, but the Supreme Court decision lays it down that vessels are prohibited from "bringing into American ports intoxicating liquors under seal intended for the use of passengers on the outward voyages."

In other words, the American Government claims to control the regulation of a foreign ship not only when it is in an American port, but when it is on the ocean. [illegible] to a foreign government.

This ridiculous ruling, were an attempt made to put it into effect, contains the seeds of serious trouble. Fortunately, the strong sense of humor existing in both countries will probably prevent any real clash.

There seems to be a very general agreement, at any rate on this side of the Atlantic, that this law will never be pressed home. That is the worst of Puritanical legislation; its enforcement is next to impossible.

Ask Your Neighbor

There is hardly a neighborhood in the United States where women cannot be found who have derived benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For nearly fifty years this botanic medicine has been overcoming some of the worst forms of [illegible] woman has been benefited by its use she has told others who have used it with the same good results; so the use of this great medicine has spread from shore to shore by the recommendation of those who have found it good. Therefore, ask your neighbor; let her tell you from experience the benefit which ailing women derive from its use.—Advertisement.

CROSS TO MARK HISTORIC CHURCH SITE IN VERMONT

Monument at Bennington Will Be Dedicated July 8.

BENNINGTON, Vt., June 1.—(By Associated Press.)—Ground has been broken here for the erection of a memorial monument to mark the site of the first meeting house in the Hampshire Grants now the state of Vermont, which was intimately associated with the battles of Ticonderoga and Bennington in the Revolutionary war and with the early history of the state. The monument, which is the gift of Mrs. Elinor Squier of New York to the Bennington Battle Monument and Historical society, will be dedicated July 8.

In the center of a Maltese cross, 42 feet in diameter and formed by embedding 1220 marble slabs in the turf will rise a shrine of Vermont gray niarble 12 feet high and six feet wide. On this will be pladed two tablets, one bearing an inscription telling the history of the site and a low relief of the meeting house and the other having a reproduction of the great seal of the state.

HISTORY ON TABLET.

The inscription prepared for the monument recites the erection of the meeting house, "a plain building of unpainted wood," in 1763-65 and deals with the stirring events of colonial days as follows:

"Here the forefathers met in prayer for assistance against the oppressive measures of New York and the overwhelming power of King George. Hither the settlers returned from Ticonderoga, the battle of Bennington and the surrender of Burgoyne to offer their thanksgivings, and here were brought 700 prisoners captured on August 16, 1777.

"For 40 years the center of the religious life of the community, the meeting house was also connected with the political life of the state. Vermont was an independent republic from the Union March 4, 1791. The first legislature met at Windsor in 1778 and adjourned to Bennington for its June session, held on this site. The laws for carrying on the government of this sovereign state were enacted at the session of the legislature which assembled in the meeting house February 11, 1779.

OLD CONVENTION RECALLED.

"Here met the convention, consisting of one delegate from each town, which on January 10, 1791, ratified the constitution of the United States by the signatures of 105 out of 109 delegates, thereby preparing the way for the admission of Vermont into the Union as the first state after the original thirteen."

The first meeting house stood until 1806, when it was replaced by a church which is still standing. The monument will stand on the village green a few feet from the present church.

Deserted Wife Sues 'Holy Roller'

Deserted, she says, by Howard C. Bruce, a steam fitter, because she would not join the "Holy Rollers," Mrs. Elizabeth Bruce, 900 Loomis court, has filed suit for divorce in which she describes her husband's religious faith as follows:

"A fanatical religious body called Holy Rollers, who indulge in wild physical antics and extreme physical contortions to demonstrate their belief in their idea of religion."

After he joined the Holy Rollers on March 1, last, Bruce would attend their services every evening and return "swinging his hands wildly in the air," the wife avers. Then he would go marching through the house singing "This is not my house—Heaven is my home" or mutter incoherent language, the wife declares.

After causing her considerable mental anguish by such actions, Bruce left her to give "his service to the church," says the wife, stating they were married June 10, 1919. Mrs. Bruce asks a division of the community property worth $500 and alimony.

Modestans Leave For Yosemite Trip

MODESTO, June 1.—The Modesto Chamber of Commerce caravan left at 7 a. m. today for the Yosemite with more than fifty cars in the string. Under the guidance of William J. Silva, they will take the Coulterville road to Hazel Green, thence over the cut-off to Crane Flat and in on the Big Oak Flat control. The Modesto people will have all day tomorrow in the valley and will return Sunday.

Devoted Guards Keep Vital Light In Channel Going

LONDON, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Bishop's Light, rising from a foundation of jagged rock near the Scilly Islands, welcomes eastbound liners to the English channel, and at the same time gives grim warnings of the nearby labyrinth of dangers. It stands guard over waters where rest the skeletons of more shipwrecks than in any other marine graveyard of the world.

The light is 160 feet above the sea level, yet the waves that break forever at the base of the rock constantly dash over its topmost masonry.

During a recent storm the beams from Bishop's Rock came near to falling. The light weighs several tons, and revolves on supports resting in a circular trough of mercury, balanced so delicately a child may turn it by a touch of the finger. On this night the tower was so shaken by the heavy seas that much of the mercury was spilled out over the concrete floor of the light chamber. The three guards fell on their knees, scooped up the mercury in their hands and poured it back into the trough. Pursuing active puddles of quicksilver around a rough cement floor was not easy nor rapid work, and they finished finally with torn and bleeding hands.

If the tower of Bishop's Light ever crumbles the keepers there will not have the faintest chance for their lives. There is not even a foothold on the rough, slimy rock below them.

CHURCH TO AID WORLD COURT

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A call to 125,000 congregations in America to rally to the support of President Harding's proposal that the United States enter the permanent court of international justice was issued here yesterday by the federal council of the Churches of Christ in America.

"A day of great decision for our country and the world has now arrived," says the call, adding that the issue which the world court presents embodies the age-long conflict between law and force.

"Today around the earth," the message continues, "the people know that if nations are to survive they must subject their individual wills to established processes of law, their individual interest to the welfare of all mankind. All that the Christian church itself has built up in the hearts and minds of the people through centuries of effort hangs in the balance.

"For war in the future, aided by the powers of science, simply means self destruction. This appeal to the sword can be abolished by only one means—the means already found effective within the state—by building up an appeal to law instead. That is exactly the purpose of the permanent court of international justice."

ASKS $25,000 DAMAGES.

Confined to his bed with a fracture of the left leg, Charles Hosley, a postman, has filed suit in the Superior Court against Z. Dragomanovich and "John Doe" for $25,000 damages claiming he incurred the broken leg and other injuries when struck by a machine driven by the defendant April 21, last. Hosley says he was riding a motorcycle at Fourth avenue and East Fourteenth street when struck by the automobile.

is one of the curses of modern life which none can escape, rich or poor.

It can always be told by the thickened, cracked or scaly skin or weeping sores from which oozes a clear liquid, which causes an intolerable itching, and makes life an itching misery, especially at night.

The old style method of treating the disease was greasy, sticky salves and soaps, simply covering over the skin, thereby giving the parasites a better chance to live underneath.

The treatment of eczema has of late undergone a complete and radical change, and so, instead of treating the surface only, a clean, cooling and penetrating lotion may now be applied, which gets to the bottom of the sores and kills the germs, stopping the itching instantly and causing an entirely new skin to grow.

ECZEMINE

Such a lotion is Eczemine, the newly discovered specific for eczema and skin diseases. Good also for scalp diseases and barber's itch and as an antiseptic shaving lotion. $1 and $2 bottles. Sold and recommended by

TO SEE DECISION ON RUM REPEAL

Governor Smith Hopes to Make Up His Mind by That Time.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—Governor Smith's decision on the Cuvillier bill for the repeal of the Mullan-Gage state prohibition enforcement statute probably will be known before tomorrow noon. The governor said he hoped the bills now before him would be disposed of late today or before tomorrow noon at the latest.

By P. B. SCOTT,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ALBANY, N. Y., June 1.—Governor Al Smith, as judge and jury, took the case of prohibition under advisement today.

Before Sunday midnight he must sign or veto the repealer of the Mullen-Gage dry enforcement act, passed by the legislature—sign and make himself leader of the wet faction in the national Democratic party, or veto and abandon the cause of Tammany Hall.

The evidence in the case is all in, having been presented in the final arguments of wet and dry leaders at a five-hour hearing in the assembly chamber yesterday. The thirty-day period in which he is permitted to act on the repealing bill expires Sunday midnight. In view of doubt over whether it is ethical or legal to act on Sunday, the governor is expected to make known his decision by midnight tomorrow.

There is no definite information as to what action the governor will take. Presence of some of the Tammany leaders in Albany gave hopes to the wets that their pressure might be exerted on the governor to sign the repealer. Dry followers however were convinced that they had swayed the executive to the dry viewpoint.

The governor himself has refused to express even to his closest friend any indication of his action. A speech he made a week ago in Coney Island, in which he said he would "enforce the law" no matter whether some of his friends liked it or not, is the only vague comment he has made.

The young couple will take a trip to Portland for the honeymoon and then make their home in Berkeley.

ALAMEDA C. OF C. PROSPEROUS, REPORT SHOWS

Activities During Past Year Recalled by President at Meeting.

ALAMEDA, June 1.—That the fiscal year 1922-1923 has proved one of unusual prosperity for the Alameda Chamber of Commerce, was pointed out last night in the annual report of Edward Babue, president, submitted on the work of the organization during the last twelve months at the yearly meeting and election of directors held in the council chambers.

Among the projects which the chamber has sponsored as revealed in the reports is that of the proposed erection of a new hospital on Clinton avenue and Walnut street, the waging of an active campaign for the success of the new high school bond election, aiding and promoting civic welfare at the recent tube and naval base elections.

During the campaign to secure an extension of time on the Alameda naval base site for the United States government, the chamber gave the issue full support believing the matter to be one of national interest. The naval base committee were tendered the use of the chamber headquarters from which to carry on the campaign.

PLANTS TO ENLARGE.

Among the industrial plants which have signified its intentions of enlarging its plants in the immediate future is the Alaska Packers' corporation, who recently announced it intends to increase its holdings by the expenditure of more than a million dollars.

New industries are inquiring frequently of the chamber regarding the securing of sites with an intention of locating in Alameda.

The organization is on a good working basis has no outstanding debts its membership totals 500 and it has a substantial bank account.

DIRECTORS ELECTED.

Following the reading of the report twenty-one directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year. They are: Development section, E. C. Dick, E. R. Neiss, J. A. Powell, John Stammid; professional section, W. A. Sharpsteen, C. J. Du Four, H. C. Gallagher, Dr. J. K. Hamilton; retail merchants' section, Edward S. Babue, O. J. Mead, Carl Strom, W. R. Calcutt; residential section, A. W. Porter, H. C. Bennett, Wynn Meredith, F. A. Williamson, Robert Strehlow, Sr.; woman's section, Mrs. J. A. Powell, Mrs. F. Evans, Mrs. M. H. Krauth and Mrs. W. H. Wahmuth.

Selection of a president will be made the night of June 7, when the directors gather for a 6:30 o'clock dinner in a Park street cafe. The election of a head for the organization will be made at the conclusion of the dinner.

PACIFIC MAIL IS ENDORSED HERE

Endorsement of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, which is asking the purchase of government vessels now in the service of this company, is given in a wire sent today to E. B. Lasker, chairman of the United States Shipping Board, by Harrison S. Robinson, president of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce.

The Oakland chamber is one of several commercial bodies which is joining in assuring the shipping board that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company is a valuable adjunct to the commercial life of this community. Such approval was demanded before the offer of the Pacific Mail would be considered.

The message sent is as follows: "The Oakland Chamber of Commerce understands that the Pacific Mail Steamship Company has submitted a bid for the purchase of trans-Pacific ships now in their service. We endorse the Pacific Mail Steamship Company because of its high reputation for management and service. Fifty-seven years of continuous service has developed a relation between the company and this entire section which is vital to the trade and prosperity and the company received the consistent support from the business community."

Dixon Rancher Is Believed Suicide

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—(By United Press.)—Harry S. Abbott, said to be a wealthy rancher of Dixon, Solano county, Cal., was believed today to have committed suicide following discovery of his body in a gas-filled hotel room. He left no notes to explain his motive for the act.

ANGLER ENTERS RECORD BASS IN FISH CONTESTS

MODESTO, June 1.—G. L. James exhibited yesterday the biggest black bass caught in this section so far this season. It weighed 7 pounds, 13 ounces and was caught with a live minnow. James caught the fish at Horseshoe bend in the San Joaquin river. It was entered in the various fishermen's contests here.

McNoble Succeeds Sloss On Bar Board

SACRAMENTO, June 1.—Max C. Sloss, of San Francisco, has resigned as a member of the examining board of the California Bar Association and has been succeeded by George F. McNoble, of Stockton, it was announced yesterday by the state supreme court. The next examination of the board will be held here June 26, 27 and 28.

Gridley Bank Case Given to Jury Today

SACRAMENTO, June 1.—Taking of testimony in the trial of J. A. Schafer, former president of the defunct First National Bank of Gridley, charged with violation of federal banking laws, was completed in the federal court here yesterday.

Judge W. H. Van Fleet gave the prosecution and defense each one hour and a half in which to argue the case today and the case will go to the jury late today.

Schafer, on the stand, admitted that he had not notified directors of the bank of different business transactions in which he was involved and of commissions he received for making loans. He also admitted selling warehouse receipts for rice belonging to the bank, receiving a commission for himself.

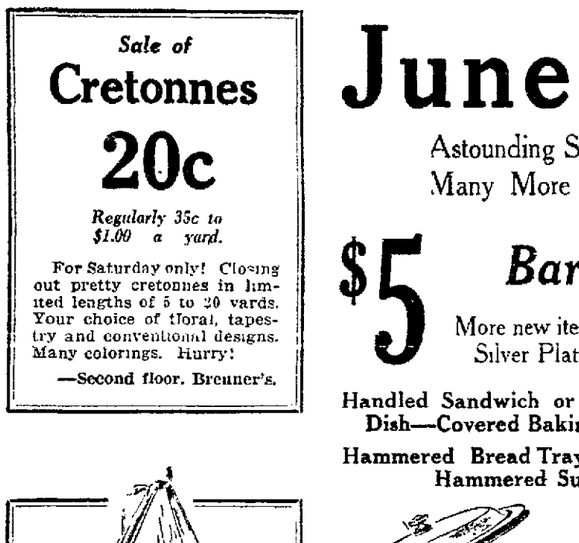

The earliest clocks which in any way resemble modern ones were made in 1335 by a monk.

Many Killed By Cyclone in Italy

ROME, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—A cyclone in the Simplon region of northern Italy has caused much damage in many localities, according to advices to the Central News today. Numbers of houses were wrecked, serveral bridges destroyed and international railway traffic was greatly hindered.

Idaho Sheriff Is Shot by Bandit

SAND POINT, Ida., June 1.—Sheriff William Kirkpatrick was shot through the body and badly wounded late last night by one of two bandits, who a short time before had held up and robbed the Hotel Pend Oreill here. He was rushed to a hospital, where an examination of his wound was made. Doctors said they believed he was not mortally wounded. A posse was organized and hunt for the bandits begun.

CIVILIZATION HURTS ESKIMOS SAYS VISITOR

Keep Modern Society Away, Says Missionary of Northern People

"Keep civilization away from the Eskimos," urged Dr. W. A. Thomas, head of the Episcopal mission at Point Hope, Alaska, speaking yesterday at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club in the Hotel Oakland. "At least until we can educate them better, and make them better able to assimilate the good and reject the bad," he qualified.

The Eskimos, Dr. Thomas pointed out, are a people of high ideals, and a manner of living far better adapted to their conditions of existence than are the ways of civilization. When civilization suddenly descends upon them, they get an overdose of it, become unreliable, and develop into something that is neither native nor white man. What is needed is to educate them before subjecting them to too much contact with civilization, so that they will be better able to cope with it, according to Dr. Thomas.

So anxious are the Eskimos for education, that out of seventy-six pupils in the mission school at Point Hope, the only absences in the entire year were on account of sickness. Dr. Thomas said, and the children regarded it as a misfortune to be compelled to remain away from school for a day.

They are exceedingly open-minded, he said, and are quick to adopt methods introduced by white men which they recognize to be superior to their own. They have a strong pride in their own traditions, however, and rarely adopt anything blindly, or without improving it in some way.

White traders along the northern coasts of Alaska have brought the Eskimos some of their worst misfortunes, according to Dr. Thomas, including "hooch," drugs, and disease. It is so that the natives will have the knowledge to resist these things, and other evils associated with civilization, that it is important to keep civilization away from the natives until the mission schools have had the chance to finish their work, Dr. Thomas said.

Things they Ask the Tribune

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

"Kindly let me know how to make a mocha filling for a mocha cake."

MOCHA CAKE FILLING—1 cup powdered sugar, ¼ cup butter, 4 teaspoonfuls strong hot coffee; 2 squares melted Baker's chocolate, or 2 tablespoonsful cocoa, 1 teaspoonful vanilla. Mix together and spread on cake or between layers. Nuts and raisins may be added. Do not cook, this is an uncooked frosting.

"Where is Lyons Dam?"

Tuolumne county, about 100 miles from Oakland.

"When did President McKinley give his last speech?"

September 5, 1901, President's Day at the Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, N. Y.

Booth Tarkington.

"What film company produced the picture?"

Universal Film Company.

"What are the fees for joining the Automobile Association?"

The entrance fee is $3. There is a yearly fee of $12, making total of $15 the first year.

"Where can a dog license be obtained?"

License department, ninth floor, City Hall.

"When was the G. A. R. organized?"

In 1866.

"Where was it organized?"

In Decatur, Illinois.

"How long does it take for a steamer to go through the Panama Canal?"

From three to four hours, provided there is no delay in going through the locks.

"Where is San Andreas?"

In Calaveras county.

"Tell me how to make a home-made water cooler."

Partly fill a shallow graniteware pan with water. Place this in an open shady window where there is a good draught of air. In this place bottles of water, milk and cream (sealed) wrapped in wet cloths reaching into the water. Put butter in an earthen dish deep enough to prevent water from getting in. Over this turn an earthen flower-pot wrapped with a wet cloth reaching into the water. The pan should be fixed every morning and evening. With several of these pans one can keep house very comfortably without ice.

Stockton Bank Buys Site For Skyscraper

STOCKTON, June 1.—With the purchase of the M. E. Lubosch property on Main street, the Bank of Italy has cleared away the last obstacle in its project to build a skyscraper. The property adjoins the corner holding of the bank and has a frontage of 25 feet. Recently the bank announced its intention to erect the largest and tallest structure in the city. This piece of property was especially needed to enable it to carry out its program.

Boys Find Fortune Under L. A. House

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—A steel box containing securities with a face value of $30,000 was found yesterday by boys playing under a house at California street and Grand avenue.

With the securities were private papers and a will, bearing the name of Ludga Gadette, believed to be a mining man of San Diego, Calif. The will was dated in 1921 and gave Gadette's age at that time as 66 years. The securities included many shares of mining stock.

The boys, Joe Maneillas and Russell Beechtel, turned their find over to the police.

Observatory Will Be Subterranean

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 31.—(By The Associated Press.)—A subterranean seismic observatory which probably will be the most completely equipped in America will be hewn in solid rock underlying the campus of the new St. Ignatius College in Fairmount Heights, Rev. Frederick L. Odenbach, S. J., professor of natural sciences and curator of the college observatory, announces.

"The rock underlying the new campus will give be a perfect foundation for my pendulums and seismograph instruments," Father Odenbach said. "With this I shall be able to record the slightest tremor without the interference of local surface disturbances.

"At present a passing street car or motor truck makes a disturbance on some of my more delicate pendulums."

OFF CAPE HORN (By mail to United Press) — "Rounding the Horn" is no longer the initiation that gives a man the right to call himself a "deep water sailor." The completion of the Panama canal and the practical disappearance of "wind-jammers" from the sea leaves the gloomy cape almost as lonely today as it was four centuries ago, when first sighted by European eyes So few ships round the horn today that the government of Argentina, which has for years maintained lights on Observatory Island for the guidance of ships bound for "land's end," has decided to do away with the lighthouse.

Dark, forbidding and storm-swept, and battered by three oceans, Cape Horn is as wild and dangerous today as when it was first rounded by seamen in search of an easier passage to the Pacific than that offered by the Straits of Magellan.

OFTEN ROUNDED.

Two or three generations ago, at the time when "forty-niners were rushing by every available route to the land of gold, Cape Horn was often rounded by vessels. To the seekers of gold it marked the end of the more dangerous part of their voyage, and gave promise of their sailing to the gold fields. Once the sinister headland was safely passed, both passengers and younger seamen proudly laid claim to the title of deep sea sailors."

Cape Horn itself is an abrupt headland rising about three hundred yards above the sea level. The Pacific, Atlantic and Antarctic oceans meet at its base. Around it there are submerged rocks on all sides, where many ships have been wrecked. To the south, except for one small group of islands, there is no land until well within the Antarctic circle. To the west and east, except for one or two small islands, there is nothing but water all around the world. To the north there is a maze of islands covered with forests and snow and glaciers, which comprise "Tierra del Fuego," the "Land of Fire"

WAS ADVENTURE.

Rounding the horn on a sailing vessel has for three centuries been regarded as the adventure of adventures at sea. The coasts of Patagonia, and the islands of "Tierra del Fuego" have time and again been strewn with the wreckage of the ships. Treasure laden galleons of Spain, proud brigs under the command of English pirates, clipper ships from New England have paid their toll to the frightful squalls that swirl around the rocky shores, going down with all hands or leaving a few marooned sailors on the inhospitable island, where the chances were that they would either be killed by Indians or would die of starvation.

During most of the time since the discovery of the Straits of Magellan there have been very few lights to guide pilots Even at present, the vessel rounding the horn has little in the way of guidance. There have been at least three wrecks this year. With the disappearance of the light of Observatory Island, navigation will be still more dangerous

COMPANY PLANS TO CLEAR NAME

Seven stockholders of the Pacific Coast Tire and Rubber company were designated as a committee to work with the officers of the company to outline the plans at a meeting at the company's office on Fiftieth avenue yesterday.

The meeting was called by the officers as a result of the publicity attached to the company in connection with the operations of an alleged fraudulent stock ring, against which indictments were voted by the San Francisco grand jury last Monday

A financial statement was exhibited, and an inspection of the plant was made According to N. J. Whelan, one of the officers, the committee will hold daily conferences in working out the plans for activities

A meeting of creditors is also to be called, Whelan announced, when the financial standing of the company and the attitude of the stockholders will be explained.

Candidates in Race For Judge

RICHMOND. June 1—There will be no dearth of aspirants from the judgeship in Contra Costa county made vacant by the death of Judge R. H. Latimer, according to reports current today. Two Richmond lawyers, Hiram E Jacobs and Henry V. Alvarado are suggested by their friends James E. Rodgers, veteran of the Martinez bar, and District Attorney A. B. Tinning also may be in the running.

By an act of the last assembly the salary of the judges of this county is raised from $5000 to $6000 a year

Oakland Teachers Merit City's Faith, Says Hunter

In this article, the second of a series which he is preparing on the system of education in Oakland, Superintendent Fred M. Hunter discusses particularly the method of selecting teachers for the Oakland schools. The superintendent declares that the city's faith in its teachers is well founded and may continue so. Other articles in the series will follow.

By FREDERICK M. HUNTER,
Superintendent of Schools for Oakland

What is the source of the teacher supply of the Oakland public schools? Do they come from the East, the Middle-west, Pacific coast or from California? Are they semi-political time servers or are they well trained professional people, worthy of the confidence of the parents of Oakland?

The people of Oakland have confidence in the teachers of their children, undoubtedly, but vicious propaganda has been spread abroad to the effect that California trained teachers cannot secure positions in the Oakland schools, and that the Oakland teachers are not true teachers, but politicians instead The people of Oakland are entitled to know the truth about those who teach their children. I have had much opportunity to know the standards maintained by most of the large cities of the United States in the selection of their teachers I can vouchsafe this statement to the people of Oakland without the slightest fear of contradiction based on any knowledge of the situation; namely, that no better trained or professional minded teaching corps can be found in any of the large cities of the United States than the teaching corps of Oakland. Moreover, more than 90 per cent of the additions to the teaching corps during the past six years have had either their training or their teaching experience in California before coming to Oakland

1186 NEW APPLICANTS.

It is true that large numbers of teachers from many parts of the United States apply for positions in the city of Oakland. The total number of applicants for positions here ranges from 1000 to 1500 each year. This includes all kinds of applicants—those with no experience and no training and those with the very highest experience and training, even with master's degrees from the best universities of California and the United States But only 20 to 25 per cent of this long list of applicants meet the standards and requirements of the Oakland schools The number of applicants this year for positions in the Oakland schools is 1186 Of these, less than 250 will be able to meet the standards set by the Oakland schools for selection to the preferred list.

The method of selection of teachers from among this great body of applicants is one that has stood the test of experience for more than a decade. The education and experience of each applicant are carefully investigated. Letters and questionnaires are sent to all the references given by each applicant who are acquainted with the education and experience of the applicant. The credentials, including the replies from the references, are carefully read by a committee of three superintendents who rate these recommendations and credentials independently of one another on a scale of "1" excellent, "2" good, "3" fair, "4" poor. These ratings are then averaged by the committee. All applicants who rate "1" and otherwise comply with the eligibility rules of the board are given a place upon the "preferred list."

PREFERRED LIST MADE.

This preferred list is set up by grades and subjects; e. g., a list of 40 to 50 names is selected as a preferred list for grades one and two, and a list of 10 to 12 names for high school science, etc. These lists are then sent to the Board of Education for approval. Thereafter all vacancies for the ensuing year are filled by selection from this list

Less than 10 per cent of the teachers thus selected for these preferred lists are without California training or experience. A very large percentage of them are graduates of California State Normal schools, the University of California or Stanford University. Since 1910 the numbers and percentages from outside the state and those from California are as follows:

	No. Teachers Entering Oakland	No. teachers having residence training or experience in California	No. teachers having residence training or experience outside of California	Percentage teachers having residence training or exp. outside of California
Average years 1910-1913	437	398	39	9%
Average 4 years, 1913 1917	567	529	44	8%
Average 3 years 1917 1920	466	444	19	4%
Preferred list 1921 1922	415	357	28	7%

TWO-THIRDS CARLIFORIANS.

Working in the Oakland schools at the present time are 363 teachers who are either graduates or have had training at Stanford the University of California or Mills College In addition to these there are 408 graduates of California State Normal schools and 63 others who have had training equivalent to normal school graduating in the State Normal schools of California This means that much more than two-thirds of our total teaching corps are graduates either of a California State Normal school or the University of California or Stanford, or have had training in these institutions amounting to an equivalent.

Only one conclusion is possible from any fair investigation of facts with reference to the Oakland teachers, namely, that as a body they are professional people of the highest standards, most of whom have received their training and experience in California institutions The people of Oakland have always had confidence in their teachers They may continue to have confidence in the teachers of their children with a full assurance that no finer nor more professional teaching corps carries forward the great work of the public schools in any city of the United States

RUHR INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT IS TERMED AMAZING

Ex-Governor Allen, of Kansas, Says "Business As Usual," On Rhine.

By LLOYD ALLEN.
United Press Staff Correspondent

LONDON, June 1.—"Business as usual," is the order of the day in the Ruhr, in spite of the strike, Communist uprisings and executions, former Governor Henry J. Allen of Kansas said today in an interview.

Having just returned from a visit to the occupied area, Allen gave his eye and ear impressions as follows:

1—There are few outward indications of the military occupation; the Germans are well dressed and don't look hungry.

2—Germans in the Ruhr don't attempt to conceal the fact that the policy of passive resistance is doomed to failure. It is realized that a reasonable reparation must be made.

3—The atmosphere of calm may be due in part to the fact that the French have deported 120,000 German railroad employes who might have caused trouble.

Collapse of the mark is no indication whatever of the economic situation in Germany, Allen said.

"Industrial development is amazing," he said. "In no district of the United States has there been such a revival of building as the Ruhr has witnessed since the war.

"This has convinced me that Germany is in far better condition than the value of the mark would indicate.

"One cannot visit the Ruhr and see that most impressive industrial district of the world without believing that Germany has the capacity to produce an honest endeavor to pay her reparations"

Allen described the French occupation as "an apparently normal condition of affairs."

Kellogg's Bran gives permanent relief because it is ALL BRAN!

Every member of your family will enjoy better health—eat better, work better, sleep better—if they eat Kellogg's Bran regularly. Its natural, positive work for health is actually a blessing to humanity! Kellogg's gives permanent relief from constipation because it is ALL BRAN! It is scientifically prepared to relieve suffering humanity from constipation.

Kellogg's Bran cleans and purifies the intestinal tract; it clears away toxic poisons and frees you from the dangers of many dreaded diseases, as well as from sick headaches, rheumatism and mental and physical depression. A week's trial of this great nature food will prove that its work for health is wonderful!

Consider Kellogg's Bran as a food. It is not a laxative nor a medicine. Bran is the outer coating of whole wheat and contains such nourishment factors as mineral salts and other elements vital in sustaining life!

Kellogg's Bran is cooked and all ready to eat. It is delightful as a cereal, or sprinkled over your favorite hot or cold cereal. Another popular way to eat it is to cook or mix it with a hot cereal. In preparation, add two tablespoonfuls of bran for each person. Delicious bakery batches are made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each package.

DO TWO THINGS—Eat Kellogg's Bran each day for permanent relief from constipation and be certain to eat at least two tablespoonfuls; in chronic cases, with each meal.

First-class hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. Ask for it at your restaurant. All grocers.

Genuine BAYER Aspirin

SAY "BAYER" when you buy Aspirin

Unless you see the name "Bayer" on packages or on tablets you are not getting the genuine Bayer product prescribed by physicians over twenty-two years and proved safe by millions for colds, headache, toothache, earache, neuralgia, lumbago rheumatism, neuritis, and for pain in general. Accept only "Bayer" package which contains proper directions. Handy boxes of twelve tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade-mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.—Advertisement.

Ferry Decision Expected Soon

RICHMOND, June 1.—The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco yesterday reserved decision on the granting a franchise for ferry privileges between that city and Richmond. Two firms are seeking the rights M Emanuel protested against the franchise being granted A H Draughon and associates though the latter recently were given the rights in Richmond. Emanuel contends that he has expended large sums of money looking to the construction and operation of a ferry line and that he has already certain physical facilities in the way of terminals. The other applicants formerly were stockholders in the Six Minute Ferry Company, of Vallejo.

A Lighter Shoe In a Lighter Tan

As the season advances we have noticed a growing demand for a lighter tan with "stitching" as a new decorative feature instead of the perforations across the toe and around the vamp.

This new modified French toe built over the Harvard last is our answer to the latest demand created by the custom bootmakers

We are the only manufacturing retailers with a chain of stores from Coast to Coast to charge One Price for all shoes in every store.

This has simplified manufacturing and reduced selling cost and is the reason why we can move the price down, when others are moving the prices up, and give greater value for One Price, $6.60.

HELEN MacKELLAR will make her Pacific Coast debut as a star in her greatest vehicle "The Storm," at the Curran theater in San Francisco June 11.

She will remain there for one week only and will then come to Oakland for a starring season at the Fulton theater. She will bring the company appearing with her across the bay.

Miss MacKellar relieves Robert Warwick at the Curran, he going to the Henry Miller company to rehearse for the role of Jason in "The Golden Fleece," in which Blanche Bates will play Medea. In Oakland Miss MacKellar relieves Mrs. Leslie Carter.

TWENTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Starting today Idora Park will feature a balloon ascension and a spectacular high dive.

There is some interesting history concerning "The Storm." It was rated as one of the greatest dramatic spectacles ever produced in New York, where it ran for a year at the Forty-eighth street theater and followed this run with seven weeks in Brooklyn and six weeks at the Manhattan Opera House.

"The Storm" secured its big spectacle effect from a vaudeville act called "The Forest Fire." This mechanical effect was incorporated in the full length play and later "The Storm" was reduced to tabloid form and toured the big time.

The story concerns the love of two men for a girl. The three are marooned in a cabin in the Canadian northwest and fight out their mental battle while the elements rage without. The forest fire scene is one of the most stupendous and spectacular ever attempted in the theater.

Pretty Soft? No Sir, Avers Al

"Pretty soft! All you have to do is go on the stage, think up a lot of funny jokes, sing a catchy song and collect a lot of dough. Pretty soft!" Someone made this "wise crack" at Al Jolson the other day as he was leaving the Winter Garden where he is giving a summer course in "Bombo." All of which led Al to announce that his job is a serious one—more serious than most people think.

"Just as any other man sells merchandise, I have to sell my goods to the audience," said the comedian. "When people say I know how to 'put a song across' they are merely saying that I know how to sell my goods like a salesman of shoes or shirts. To bring the point down further, just as the buyer must know how to select his goods, I have got to know how to pick my songs and jokes. They are the shoes an shirts of my trade.

FORTY SEASONS AGO TODAY

Emelie Melville and her opera company are at the Ballarat in Melbourne. In the company are Gracie Plaisted, Arenes Beaumont and Edward Farley.

"People often ask me how I pick my jokes. Well—take my word for it—finding jokes is harder than working twenty-four hours a day. I get swamped with jokes from all parts of the country, but rarely do I find one good enough to buy. They are either too long or too risque. My jokes must be simple and short. Also to be real funny jokes have to be personal. They must be about something people have experienced themselves.

"The same with songs. Look through many, find very few. Yeah—my life is just one worry after another and then they say 'pretty soft.'"

TOKIO GROWING FAST.

TOKIO. — Greater Tokio increased its population 40,730 during the year 1922, according to the latest figures available at the office of the Minister of Home Affairs. The figures show that there are now living in the capital of Japan 2,478,233, including 641,393 families. The population of Tokio as given at the end of 1921 was 2,437,503.

EASTBAY GAMES TO BE BROADCAST PLAY BY PLAY

Bohemian Orchestra to Give Dance Program From Tribune Station.

The regular Friday night dance program to be broadcast from Radio KLX, The TRIBUNE'S station, this evening between 9 and 10 o'clock, will be given by the Bohemians' orchestra, one of the popular college dance orchestras of the bay district.

The orchestra is composed of Ray Anderson, Art Meuser, George Wendt and Edvin Johnson. The program will start promptly at 9 o'clock and those dancing to the music from KLX will have no delays between numbers, except three two-minute intermissions required by the laws that govern the use of the air for broadcasting.

KLX this week is broadcasting the Oaks-Seals' ball series play by play. It was originally planned to broadcast baseball games at the Oakland ball park play by play and all other games each inning. Due to the popularity of the play-by-play broadcasting, and the many requests for daily play-by-play service, KLX has arranged to broadcast each play of all games in the bay district, except when there is a game in both San Francisco and Oakland. In this case only the Oakland game will be broadcast play-by-play and the San Francisco game each inning. All other games of the Pacific Coast League will be broadcast inning by inning.

Many letters have been received by the radio department thanking The TRIBUNE for broadcasting the international auto race at Indianapolis on Memorial Day.

Taxes Will Never Go Below Three Billions, Smoot

LOS ANGELES, June 1—Reed Smoot, United States senator from Utah, told members of the Lincoln club at a luncheon they gave in his honor, that "never again will your federal taxes be less than $3,000,000,000 a year, but probably more."

"The foremost subject of interest to the American people now is taxation," said the senator. "Before the war that word meant nothing to us, but what a difference now! For twenty-five years to come the dominant question will be how to raise the money for our government.

"In less than a decade, we shall be paying $1,500,000,000 a year in pensions to World war veterans. It is right and just this should be done, but the taxpayers must prepare for the burden."

Speaking of "lump sum appropriations," during the Wilson administration he said

"I'm glad the American people do not know how that money was spent. I do not say that billions were wasted, but if I did say that, it would be within the truth."

Sophistication Age For Girls Lowered

NEW YORK, June 1.—(United ... The age of sophistication for girls has been lowered one year according to a statement issued by Lester F. Scott, national executive of Campfire Girls, Inc., explaining why the age of admission to campfire groups has been changed from twelve to eleven years of age.

The eleven-year-old girl is now as sophisticated, as old in her point of view, her interests, her knowledge of the world, as the twelve-year-old girl was when Campfire was first organized eleven years ago, Scott says. "As a consequence the age limit has been lowered to meet the demands of the girls themselves and the demands made by conditions of modern life, which point to an earlier age of sophistication of the adolescent girl.

"Eleven years is now the logical period for any break in the life of the individual girl as it coincides with the break made in her school life by the establishment of the junior high school. The daily newspapers, magazines, motion pictures, radio and all other agencies that tend the sudden speeding up of living generally are responsible for this lowering of the age of sophistication."

WHAT THE PEOPLE of CALIFORNIA ARE DOING

WEEKS PILOTS FERRY THROUGH CARQUINEZ NECK

Secretary Takes Wheel of the Steamer San Jose On Run to Benicia.

BENECIA June 1.—On his tour of inspection Secretary John W. Weeks proved navigator. When the secretary of war reached the Rodeo-Vallejo ferry on his way to inspect the federal arsenal at Benicia Secretary Weeks was invited to the pilot house of the ferryboat San Jose, where he was given the wheel and with Captain Olson on one side and the mate on the other, all enjoying Mr. Weeks' cigars and having a jovial time the secretary of war successfully navigated the Carquinez strait and made various comment upon the advantages of the new bridge.

"This reminds me of my early experience at the wheel when I was a cadet at Annapolis," he told Captain Olson.

Referring to the new bridge across the Carquinez straits, for which he had recently given his approval at Washington, Secretary Weeks commended the industry and progressiveness of the west and especially the San Francisco bay district in taking so keen an interest in advancing communication and transportation by the shortening of time of travel between essential points.

"This bridging is not without its military advantage in case of emergency," the secretary said.

Secretary Weeks was escorted to the ferry by the Oakland chief of police and Mayor Davie. The ferryboat had been decorated in all the flags and bunting available.

Having proven himself a good skipper, Secretary Weeks continued on his way to Benicia in his War Department capacity.

Veterans and Boy Scouts Join for Memorial Day Exercises

Presented herewith is a photograph of troop 11, Boy Scouts of America, from Oakland, taken at the Veterans' Home in Napa county, where the boys took part Wednesday in the Memorial Day program with the men who fought in the Mexican War, Civil War, Spanish-American War and World War.

DIPLOMAS GIVEN ELEVEN SENIORS AT TRACY HIGH

Two Students Are Honored For Scholarship, Three For Essays.

TRACY, June 1.—"The great crops of fruit and farm produce raised in the state of California annually pass into insignificance when the crop of boys and girls is taken into account," said President Tully C. Knowles of the College of the Pacific Tuesday night when he spoke at the commencement exercises at the Tracy high school.

The presentation of diplomas to the eleven graduates was made by President George J. Luhrsen, of the school board and Assemblyman Bradford S. Crittenden awarded three medals given by the local K. of P. lodge for the best essays on "American Citizenship." The winners were Celysiene Richards, Louverne Richards and Evelyn Gear.

Principal H. O. Williams presented special awards to Miss Ruth Cooly and Arthur Alfonso as the students doing the best work in all lines for the year. The awards were a surprise to the winners, as none but the faculty knew of their existence.

Ruth Cooley gave the salutatory address and Leland Tschierschky the valedictory.

Music by the high school orchestra was interspersed throughout the program.

The graduates were Doreen Barber, Georgia Brandeman, Celestyne Richards, Eva Miljarak, Margaret Hammond, Margaret Sloan, Maxwell Conklin and Blythe Richards, Malcom Tisher, Leland Tschierschky and Ruth Cooley.

MERRITT URGES CITY MAN NOT TO FORGET FARMER

Head of Rice and Raisin Men of State Delivers Talk for Rural Resident.

WOODLAND, June 1.—In speaking before the Woodland Lions club, whose guest he was yesterday, Ralph P. Merritt, head of the rice and raisin organizations of California, declared that the great task of the city man was to look out for the comfort and interests of the rural resident. It was a serious affair for the nation, declared Merritt, when the city became so engrossed in its own affairs that it forgot the farmer, orchardist and stockman.

Previous to appearing before the Lions, Merritt addressed a hundred Yolo county rice growers, assuring them that the rice industry was the most profitable in the State, the growers faring better last year by 10 per cent than any other class of agriculturist.

J. L. Harlan, Dr. E. L. Dow of San Francisco, Dr. Fred G. Burrows of Madison, and P. T. Langenour, representing Woodland district, with Harlan, were named as Yolo directors in the State rice organizations.

Father of Rugby Dies in Southland

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 1.—Richard Sykes, capitalist and at one time holder of large land interests on three continents, died at his home in Montecito, a suburb, last night after a long illness. He was 84 years old and a native of Yorkshire, England.

Sykes first achieved fame nearly a half century ago, when he purchased large tracts of land in Africa for colonization purposes. Selling his interests there he became interested in the central west and acquired thousands of acres of property in North Dakota, founding the city of Sykestown.

In 1870 he first introduced Rugby football to the United States, and was popularly known as the father of Rugby in America.

Campbell Millions Dwindle to $500,000

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., June 1.—Less than a half million dollars, instead of many millions as popularly estimated, is the value of the estate of the late Colonel Colin P. Campbell, former British army officer and relative of the Duke of Argyle. A petition for probate of the will was filed in the superior court here yesterday showing that Colonel Campbell left property worth $485,000 in Santa Barbara county and in England. With the exception of one small annuity to an aunt in England, Mrs. Campbell, sister of Joseph Leiter of Chicago, inherits the entire estate.

$3,800,000 Deed of Trust Filed in Yolo

WOODLAND, June 1.—The Earl Fruit company, which has extensive interests in Yolo county, has filed here the largest trust deed ever recorded, according to County Recorder LeR. Pierce. It pledges all of its holdings in California to the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings Bank of Los Angeles for $3,800,000. It is specifically stated that a portion of the sum is to be used in retiring old bonds, the rest to increase its acreage and prepare for greater development in the fruit industry in California.

Modestan Injured When Auto Crashes

MODESTO, June 1.—Dr. J. E. Hosmer, Modesto physician, is in a hospital at Livermore, suffering from broken ribs as a result of an accident Decoration Day. Dr. Hosmer's sedan was badly wrecked, according to Forest Hosmer, his son, who has gone to Livermore.

SECOND CHILD DIES.

RIVERBANK, June 1.—Within a month two deaths have occurred in the Rodrigues family of this place. Little Dolores Rodrigues, aged two years, died Wednesday after a brief illness. Another child died several weeks ago.

NAPA

NAPA, June 1.—Charles Ratto, for fifteen years an employee of the Lisher Furniture Company, has purchased a half interest in that concern, the partnership to go into force Monday. Ratto was born and raised here.

State Master George H. Harrison of Sebastopol will come here this evening to make his official inspection of Napa Grange. The third and fourth degrees will be conferred on a class of candidates and a fine banquet will close the meeting.

When he swerved his machine suddenly to avoid hitting a dog on the highway about a mile below Calistoga, Frank Johnson, local automobile dealer, caused the big car he was driving to skid off the road, tear through a picket fence and turn over on its side, the jar rendering him temporarily unconscious. The car was not badly damaged.

The North Napa Improvement Club, organized to cooperate with the city government in community advancement, has named the following officers: President, Thomas Camp; vice-president, Samuel Sax; secretary and treasurer, C. W. Merwin; sergeant-at-arms, J. A. Fernstrom; directors, William Winters, A. R. Wilkens and W. G. Tremper.

The Napa and Santa Rosa baseball teams tangle at Santa Rosa Sunday in the third game of their series. Both teams have won a game and their is little to choose between the relative ability of the aggregations.

HAYWARD

HAYWARD, June 1.—With receipt today of a carload of electroliers, to be installed throughout the business section of Hayward, immediate erection will be begun, it has been announced. Work on the conduits, through which wires carrying the electric power will run, are about completed. The latter part of the program is being undertaken by the gas and electric company.

The lighting system, when completed, will be one of the most modern of its kind, and will prove a distinct benefit to the business district and Hayward at large, it is admitted. The present unlighted condition, it is held, has proven a disadvantage, both as to actual commerical loss and the unfavorable impression that resulted.

Considerable delay in the laying of the conduits was caused along Castro street because of the roots of long since removed trees deflecting the pipes from their natural courses. Cutting and elimination of the dead roots was necessitated in virtually the entire block.

Decision of Harder Upheld in Oakland

HAYWARD, June 1.—Information has reached Judge Jacob Harder Jr., justice of the peace here, that his decision in which he found Harry Brown, proprietor of the Occidental hotel, guilty of having liquor in his possession and fining him $500 on the charge, has been upheld by the Superior Court. Brown, following the sentence, appealed the case, his attorney, E. K. Ephrain, asserting that the officers who secured the evidence in the instance were as much guilty as was his client. The appeal was heard before Judge P. R. Parker, at Oakland. Brown is at present in the county jail on a federal charge, to serve a term of three months. Following his release he will once more appear before Judge Harder for sentence on a second charge, that of selling liquor.

NEWS FROM THE HEART of the GOLDEN STATE

MYSTERY VEILS WOMAN'S DEATH IN APARTMENTS

Traces of Poisoning Discovered After Neighbors Hear Sounds of Struggle.

SAN JOSE, June 1. — Mystery surrounds the sudden death here early last evening of Mrs. W. A. Coulter, widow of the late Major Coulter, following an attack of what appeared to be some sort of poisoning.

Mrs. Coulter returned to her apartment at Thirteenth and Santa Clara streets in the exclusive Naglee Park residence tract late yesterday afternoon after visiting with friends. She had been home but a short time when persons in adjacent apartments heard sounds of a violent struggle and pounding on the walls of Mrs. Coulter's rooms. Breaking in the door, the neighbors found the aged woman writhing in agony on a bed. Medical aid was called but was unable to do anything for the stricken woman, who died shortly after doctors arrived.

Owing to the mysterious circumstances under which Mrs. Coulter died, Coroner Amos O. Williams has ordered an inquest held over her body, which is in charge of the San Jose Undertaking Company.

Mrs. Coulter is said to have been worrying lately over the death of her husband several months ago. She is said also to have talked with friends of selling the apartment house where she died last evening.

Four Men Give Alibis In Case

MARTINEZ, June 1.—Establishing alibis, four of eleven strikers arrested on complaint of Elmer Sabin, boilermaker foreman, who charged he was attacked and beaten by a score of men at Fairview last week, have been released from the county jail and charges against them have been dismissed by Justice of the Peace Frank Glass. Release of the men and dismissal of the charges followed appearance before District Attorney A. B. Tipping of men who declared these four were not present at the time Sabin claims he was beaten. Three other men have been released on bail bond of $1000 while four others are still being held in default of bail of $2500.

William Woods, B. Schaeffer and Henry Lavelle were released on bonds of $1000 each.

Time for the men's preliminary examinations has not been fixed.

Fire District Is Made at Bay Point

BAY POINT, June 1.—The proposal for the formation of a fire district at this place was carried by a vote of 83 to 7 at the election held on Tuesday. W. S. Van Winkle, C. B. Johnson and S. W. [illegible] have been named as a committee to prepare plans for the installation of a water system and fire equipment.

Members of the election board consisting of Mrs. John Silva, Mrs. W. B. Higgins, Mrs. John Graham, Mrs. L. C. Dalbey and Mrs. L. F. Shepherd have donated their pay for the day's work to the Bay Point Community club.

Big Horse Show May Feature at S. J. Fair

SAN JOSE, June 1.—A. P. Fleming, one of Oregon's leading horse show men, was in San Jose yesterday and today conferring with the management of the Santa Clara county fair to be held here in August, regarding the holding of a horse show in connection with the fair. Fleming was most optimistic concerning the prospects of having a biz horse show feature the county fair and declared that in spite of the interest in automobiles the horse is by no means a back number. Show horses are selling for as high as $10,000 each, Fleming said.

FLAG PRESENTED.

ESCALON, June 1.—Gustafson-Thompson Post, American Legion, has been presented a handsome American flag by Raymond Losky of this place. Heretofore the post has been without a flag. Now it will be flown from the new mast which the post is erecting in the center of town.

The Sunnyvale Indians, the local baseball team, will hold another benefit dance tomorrow at Pythian Castle hall.

Mrs. Lucien Berry is building an attractive modern bungalow on her Mathilda avenue property.

The Baptist parsonage is being renovated and put in repair for the reception of the new minister, Benjamin Ewald, and family.

The former residents of Minnesota who now live in this community will join in the annual picnic of the Santa Clara county Minnesota club at Los Gatos Memorial park tomorrow.

Ed Toussan [illegible] accepted a position as chief engineer in a large fruit cannery in San Jose. Mr. and Mrs. Toussan and family will soon move to San Jose.

Mr. and Mrs. Reno McLaughlin are away in the southern section of the state on a vacation trip which will last several weeks.

CONCORD NOTES

CONCORD, June 1.—Special arrangements have been made by the dramtics class of Mt. Diablo Union High school for the production of "Come Out of the Kitchen," to be staged by the students in the school auditorium on June 9.

Members of the cast are being directed by Miss Bromley, dramatics [illegible] The cast is comprised of the following: Joseph Enloe, Leone Leslie, Anne Pacini, Grace Powell, Lorraine Nunez, Ruth Dunn, Lennie Brazil, Martin Bancroft, George Longeville, Frank Roman and George Cutler.

Mrs. George Vose, who has been confined to her home for many weeks, received a pleasant surprise when [illegible] members of the [illegible] club gave a party in her honor. The members who visited Mrs. Vose were the Mesdames W. C. Parker, Murphy, Newhall Stowers, L. W. Burbeck, Noble, Ben Frank, Greenwood, Wood, Jackson, Ward, Bell and Hare.

Eleven Seniors to Graduate at L.U.H.S.

BRENTWOOD, June 1.—This evening the graduating exercises of eleven seniors from the L. U. H. S. will take place in the auditorium. A special program of music, song and speech has been prepared and Will C. Wood, state superintendent of instruction, will deliver the address of the evening. Dancing will follow the exercises.

Those who will receive certificates of graduation are Icyle Barr, Theodore Barkley, Mildred Gann, Violet Gay, Lucille Lawson, Ethel Minta, Dolores Sanders, Arthur Somerhalder, Richard Truett, Evelyn Porter, John Zanirato.

Woman Files Suit To Recover $7000

SAN JOSE, June 1.—Charging that the Rucker Realty Company and Etta Laidlaw, alleged confederate in the [illegible] organization conspired to defraud her of $7000 on a $115,000 realty deal, Almira C. Christy yesterday filed suit against the real estate firm and the Laidlaw woman, seeking recovery of the money.

OLD PORTION OF KNIGHTS LANDING SWEPT BY FIRE

Losses Approximating $50,000 Caused by Early Morning Blaze.

WOODLAND, June 1.—Losses approximating $50,000 were caused early this morning by fire that swept the older portion of Knights Landing, a Sacramento river town ten miles from here. It started in the garage of Russell Pecht about 6 o'clock and practically burned itself out, the fire fighting apparatus being powerless against it. Places burned or damaged were:

Dr. T. H. Dixon's warehouse containing $15,000 worth of grain, scale house, sheds, office, billiard hall and creamery. [illegible] estimated at $20,000.

Lowell Dyer, one-story home; $4000.

J. A. Grice, motion picture hall and residence; $4000.

Knights Landing Dairy and Cold Storage association, creamery building and equipment; $1500.

Ralph Webb, home; $1000.

Russell Pecht's garage; $3000.

W. A. Bridges, home and effects; $300.

Insurance on the loss will amount to 50 per cent.

Remaining Civil War Veterans Honored

TRACY, June 1.—With but the four remaining veterans of the Civil war seated on the platform in the front of the Tracy city hall Wednesday members of James McDermott Post, American Legion, had charge of the Memorial Day exercises while hundreds of citizens looked on.

Music by the Tracy band, an address by Claude J. Frerichs and a vocal quartet singing "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground," occupied more than an hour after which Legionaires and the old veterans went to the local cemetery where the graves of the dead heroes were suitably decorated. A firing squad composed of both soldiers and sailors fired a volley and taps were blown by the bugler.

SANTA CRUZ

SANTA CRUZ, June 1.—Twenty-six complaints were filed this week by the three motor officers charging autoists from various parts of the state with auto law violations. Twenty were filed by Motor Officer Beauregard.

The city board of education has organized by electing the senior member of the board, J. H. Garrett, president, and Mrs. Alice Dixon clerk.

The city board of education has let contracts for a new manual training building and shops and for two additional rooms at the Garfield Park schools.

J. W. Linscott, for over 17 years city superintendent of schools, has resigned his position to take effect August 31. He has been an educator in California for over 50 years starting in 1872 at Watsonville and later in 1882 he became county superintendent of schools.

Ernest Damkroger, at one time a student in the high school and a graduate of the local high, has been appointed supervisor of physical education. Damkroeger is engaged in this line of work in the Hawaiian Islands.

The city commissioners at their meeting spoke favorably of the city purchasing new fire equipment. A demonstration given in the city was the reason of the favorable sentiment of the council.

Mrs. Milo Cain and Mrs. E. C. Rittenhouse were hostesses at an "At Home in Recital" when these [illegible] were heard at the Rittenhouse residence in a program: Mrs. Cain, piano, and Mrs. Rittenhouse, violin. The guests at the evening gathering numbered 50 and in the afternoon 70. At the afternoon gathering the refreshments were served on the lawn in the garden of the Dr. J. P. Parker residence adjoining.

Mrs. F. H. Mulligan has been [illegible] School Parent-Teachers' Club in place of Mrs. Elmer Marcen, resigned.

LOS GATOS NOTES

LOS GATOS, June 1.—Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Hall are away in Whittier for an extended visit at the home of relatives there.

The Standard Bearers class of the Methodist church celebrated the first anniversary of their organization at a party given recently at the home of Mrs. R. G. Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Herbert have left for Long Beach, where they plan to spend the summer season.

The next meeting of the Home and School club women's auxiliary will be held at the grammar school building the afternoon of Tuesday, June 5. All committees are to make their report at this time and a summary of the work done to date will be made.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bell have moved into and set up housekeeping in their newly purchased home in Peralta street.

Mrs. Katherine Wilke, of Katchikan, Alaska, is a guest in the home of Mrs. Alice Jenkins. Mrs. Wilke plans to spend the summer here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Lacey, organizers for the Fraternal Aid Union, have been spending several days in Los Gatos.

Blind Narcotics Vendor, 100 Years Old, Is Sentenced

SAN JOSE, June 1.—"Blind Charlie" Hing, probably the best known figure in San Jose's Chinatown and claiming to be more than 100 years old, was sentenced to serve thirteen months in Leavenworth federal prison by Federal Judge Partridge in San Francisco yesterday. In passing sentence on the blind Oriental it was stated that attorneys for the government had told the court that Hing conducted a narcotic peddling station for higher ups and was considered immune from the law. In view of this the prosecutors asked that a penalty be exacted from the centenarian.

The sentencing of "Blind Charlie" comes as a climax to a battle against odds fought by the aged Chinese for the past thirty years, according to his hosts of white and Chinese friends here. Thirty years ago, Charlie Hing, so popular in San Francisco in his younger days that he had a "white woman," was stricken blind. The "white woman" took everything Charlie had and fled, leaving her admirer to shift for himself. Coming to San Jose Charlie took up his residence in Chinatown, being supported by his friend, Ling Sick, better known as Ah Lum. Not until several weeks ago did Blind Charlie know that the efforts of his friend were based on traffic in illicit drugs. It was then too late to remonstrate with Ling Sick, for Ling had been arrested and had already been sentenced to the Alameda county jail and to deportation to China when the sentence is completed.

"Blind Charlie" secretly started selling dope. In admitting this to officers after his arrest by Federal Agent Robert here a week ago he said it was the only thing he could do, for he was too old to work and unqualified anyway by reason of his blindness.

"Blind Charlie's" little black dog and his little flock of chickens are being cared for by friends here "so they may be ready when Charlie comes back."

AUTOIST SLAIN; FARMER ADMITS HE FIRED SHOT

EL CENTRO, June 1.—D. B. Hoffman, rancher, is in the Imperial county jail here charged with murder as a result of the shooting Tuesday night of Jack Schaffer, of Pomona, at Hoffman's ranch in the Rockwood district.

Companions of Schaffer told the sheriff they witnessed the shooting; they and Schaffer were passing the Hoffman ranch in an automobile. Something went wrong with the car. Looking about for material with which to make an emergency repair they went to a binder, standing in the field near the road, and searched for a piece of baling wire.

While they were doing this, they alleged, Hoffman appeared carrying a gun. He fired, mortally wounding Schaffer.

Hoffman, according to the sheriff, told Schaffer and his companions were trying to steal tools from his binder.

Bank Merger East Causes Paper Work

MARTINEZ, June 1.—Following a merger of New York banks there was placed on file today with the county recorder a mortgage on all of the Contra Costa and San Francisco and other properties of the American Smelting and Refining Company in favor of the Central Union Trust Company of New York. The mortgage merely showed transfer of the obligation to the Central Union Trust Company as the merged concerns have been designated. Contra Costa property mortgaged in 1917 includes the plant at Selby and much of the town site of Tormey.

SANTA ROSA NEWS

SANTA ROSA, June 1. — The Women's Industrial Farm at Sonoma will cease functioning July 1, from which date the institution will be in charge of a caretaker. The State budget for the coming [illegible] only $4000 for the upkeep of [illegible] acreage. It is understood there is a movement on foot now to convert the farm into a colony for epileptics, to be transferred from the Sonoma State Home at Eldridge.

Santa Rosa's business license tax ordinance is to be tested in the courts by a group of local attorneys who have refused to pay their taxes and have been arrested by the city police. A demurrer to the charge was filed this week by Attorney W. F. Cowan on behalf of Attorney J. R. Leppo, on the ground that a law requiring the statement of income figures is unconstitutional. Both attorneys are in the group who have refused to pay their licenses.

Elbert Wells, county traffic officer, is in a local hospital with a broken leg as the result of a fall from his motorcycle near here Wednesday while he was pursuing a speeding automobile. By a coincidence the first motorist to happen along after the accident was Wells' brother-in-law, Frank McGregor, who brought the injured officer to the hospital.

Dan and Ernest Rhea, brothers and residents of the Bodega Bay section, are in a local hospital as the result of a collision on the Mt. Oliver road between their automobile and another. [illegible] received a fractured rib and painful cuts, while Ernest Rhea escaped with bad cuts and bruises on the body.

SOCIETIES UNITE FOR SANTA CRUZ MEMORIAL DAY

Heroes of Land and Sea Are Remembered in Service By Comrades.

SANTA CRUZ, June 1.—Memorial ceremonies were held Wednesday by the G. A. R. veterans at the Evergreen cemetery. About forty of the old soldiers decorated their comrades' graves. Representatives of the American Legion of Santa Cruz No. 64, fired the military salute, after which a parade was formed and marched to the point where services of the Women's Relief Corps were given and flowers strewn upon the waters of the bay in memory of those who are buried at sea. A procession was then formed by sailors and marines from the warship Mississippi and members of all local organizations, school children and Boy Scouts. The line of march was from the municipal wharf to the plaza at the postoffice, where the parade countermarched and returned to the New Santa Cruz theater where it disbanded. The following program was given at the theater:

Patriotic selection, New Santa Cruz orchestra; prayer, Rev. J. N. Hoover; song, Sequoia quartet; Lincoln's Getyeburg address, Mr. Williams; song, Mr. and Mrs. Mellor; address, Rev. B. M. Palmer; song, America, led by John Squires; benediction.

CANDIDATES FOR OFFICE AT SAN JOSE HIGH TIE

SAN JOSE, June 1.—When it comes to genuine feeling and campaigning, presidential elections have nothing on those held at the San Jose high school. So evenly divided were the members of the student body at the election held yesterday that Wayne Hutchinson and Kenneth Edwards, candidates for vice-president, received a tie vote of 518 votes each, making it necessary to call another election.

Other officers elected by the associated students of the high school yesterday were: Secretary, Harriet Park; boys' financial representative, Cecil Disbrow; girls' financial representative, Lois Borchers. Returns on other candidates had not been tabulated last evening.

Earl Grundeland was elected president of the student body last week by a white ballot.

Judge McKenzie On Busch Murder Case

MARTINEZ, June 1.—Trial of the Joseph Busch murder case, halted Tuesday when Superior Judge R. H. Latimer was stricken with paralysis, was not resumed yesterday and when the jury appeared it was dismissed until this morning at 10 o'clock, Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie adjourning court in respect to the memory of Judge Latimer.

Commenting on Judge Latimer's death, Judge McKenzie called attention to the dead jurist's fourteen years of service—"a service that he rendered with credit to himself and to the community."

Man Found Dead By Crows Landing Road

MODESTO, June 1. — Coroner Carl Shannon is attempting to identify the body of a laborer, found lying along the Crows Landing road. The man, about 70 years old, apparently died from heart failure. No identification other than a small book bearing the name Ed Hubbard was found. No man by that name is known here. He carried a roll of clothing, indicating that he was an itinerant.

ANTIOCH NOTES.

ANTIOCH, June 1—[illegible] all probability the county board of supervisors intend purchasing the R. M. Beede lots on E street, upon which the proposed memorial hall will be built. Harding Post members have requested that the board accept these lots. The matter has been favorably acted upon by the supervisors during their recent meeting.

On June 18 the deal will be made, it is said, and the local post will have an excellent site for the memorial building. [illegible] the four lots is set at $4300. Representatives of the Legion Posts of Contra Costa county will meet with the board on the 18th. Plans will be discussed for construction and administration of buildings to be built as memorials for a number of county towns.

The supervisors recently ordered a warrant drawn in favor of R. J. Wallace of Brentwood for the purchase of a hall site. The price paid was $2500.

Antioch Aerial Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, held its last party of the season Monday evening in Union hall. Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by a large number of local people, after the whist games were finished.

Mrs. Mary Rapp, as chairman, with the assistance of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Beede, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. William Hutchinson and the Mesdames R. V. Davis, C. Myers, E. Wall, S. Folsom, the Misses Margaret Davis, M. Stiles, Mabel Horseback and Mr. Herman Bruns composed the entertainment committee.

The Women's Guild of the Congregational church plan on presenting the three-act comedy, "Nothing But the Truth," sometime in June, the date not having been set as yet.

Rehearsals are being held every evening. All local talent will be in the cast.

One of the most striking photographs shows 17,000 children gathered at Alexandropol barracks, now being used as an orphanage by the Near East Relief. In several different places the children are shown making over to fit their little bodies the cast-off and discarded garments from America. All the buildings and thousands of acres of land have even been given to the Near East Relief rent free. These pictures, called "Uncle America Sees It Through," will be on the benefit program at the American theater.

The show is being arranged for next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock jointly by The TRIBUNE, the American theater and the Near East Relief bundle committee. A bundle of clothes or shoes will be the price of admission.

BRITISH SEEK TO END PROPAGANDA BY RUSS SOVIETS

Would Bar Such Efforts From All Spheres of Influence.

MOSCOW, June 1 (International News Service).—Only three of the numerous points in the dispute between Great Britain and soviet Russia are regarded as settled by the British foreign office, it was learned today. Of the points still at issue, the question of Bolshevist propaganda in Asia is the most serious.

Soviet officials declared the latest British note must be regarded as supporting the original British ultimatum, "which leaves the situation still difficult." Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, in his note of last week, demanded that the soviet refuse funds to any organization "aiming to destroy institutions in Asia, where the British are in control."

The British claim the three seats of soviet propaganda are Persia, Asia and Afghanistan.

LONDON, June 1 (International News Service.—While the text of the latest British note to Moscow has not been published, it is of such a nature as to cause considerable pessimism today among the members of the soviet trade mission.

"All or nothing," is apparently the slogan adopted by Lord Curzon, British foreign secretary, toward soviet Russia.

British officials declare the government is unwilling to make any concessions on the question of Bolshevist propaganda in Asia and must insist upon the demands included in the original ultimatum.

Rezoning Urged in Claremont District

BERKELEY, June 1. — Hearing of arguments on the proposed reclassification of the Claremont district east of Claremont avenue and south of Russell street will be the order of business at a special meeting of the city council to be held tonight. It is proposed to restrict this part of the city to single family dwellings.

The rezoning plan was brought up to the council by the Claremont Improvement Club, which recently discovered that there are portions of the district which have virtually no building restrictions imposed upon them under the zoning ordinance. A committee of the club, headed by Paul Rubens, brought the matter before the City Planning Commisison, which has recommended the reclassification sought except for a few narrow strips to be reserved for business property.

Bring Your Bundles, See Show, Aid Starving Kiddies

The price of admisison to the big benefit show being staged Saturday morning for the relief of the children of the Near East by the American Theater, the TRIBUNE and the local committee is a bundle of old clothes or shoes. When you come to think of it, this price of admission means nothing at all compared to the fine program being arranged for those who attend. Also don't fail to stop and think that by attending you will be helping to save the life of some little child in the Near East who is unfortunate enough to need your assistance.

TRIBUNE juveniles are to help in making the show a complete success, as several of them under the direction of Beverly Swabey, assisted by Miss Bernice Jahnigen, coach, and Mrs. H. G. Clayton, pianist, are to appear on the program. Old time favorites will be on hand as well as a few entirely new ones.

The old performers and what they are to do is as follows: Alberta Blair in song, "All For the Love of Mike"; Thelma and Doris Hubbard in double song and dance number, "Three O'Clock In the Morning" and "Marcheta"; Evelyn Grace Cavanaugh in dance specialty; Elvira Brophy in song selection, "Sing Me Love's Lullaby"; little Mickey Brophy in song, "Mickey O'Neil," and Helen Ralph and Barbara Carrick, two new performers, in double song and dance number, "Vamp Me."

The American Theater will also have a fine picture to offer you when they give you an advance showing of "The Abysmal Brute," featuring Reginald Denny. This picture was adapted from Jack London's story of the same name and is one full of interest and thrills. It will be seen on the regular bill starting the matinee Saturday afternoon, June 2. Doors open 9 o'clock sharp.

Municipal Camp Will Be Open Soon

BERKELEY, June 1. — Final arrangements for the opening of the new Berkeley municipal camp at Echo Lake in the Sierras will be made tomorrow by a party consisting of Superintendent of Playgrounds eGorge Hjelte and C. W. Whitney and Charles Naylor, members of the playground commission. The party will motor to the camp to inspect the camp site and prepare for its opening on June 23.

William Morrison, former playground director here, was today appointed as director of the Echo Lake camp.

3 Professors Will Attend Conference

BERKELEY, June 1. — Three University of California faculty members will represent this university in the delegation of American scientists preparing to attend the Second Pan-Pacific Scientific Congress at Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, from August 13 to September 3, it was learned here today.

The international meetings will be under the direction of the Australian National Research Council and will include addresses in all fields of science. The University of California representatives are: Dr. Elwood Mead, professor of rural institutions; W. E. Ritter, direction of the Scripps Institute for Biological Research at La Jolla, and Charles F. Shaw, professor of soil technology.

Eastbay Artists to Have Exhibition

BERKELEY, June 1. — The California League of Fine Arts will open a summer exhibit of the work of Eastbay painters with a reception and tea at the gallery, 2419 Haste street, this afternoon and tomorrow afternoon, it was announced today. The exhibit is to be open to the public and will be open daily until 6 o'clock until September 1.

Among the artists whose work will be exhibited are the following: Miss Cathen Vivian, Vapel Hudson, Guest Wickson, Cora Boone, Professor Perham Nahl, Professor Eugene Neuhaus, Goddard Dale, Mrs. Laura Adams Armer, William Gaw, William Manatt, J. Edward Walker, Miss Celia Seymour and Mrs. Jennie V. Cannon.

FIRE THREATENS TOWN.

MILLEN, Wis., June 1.—Copper Falls, one of the beauty spots of Wisconsin, is threatened by forest fires which are raging on both sides of it, it was reported today. The town of Hurley is out of danger, but much standing timber has been destroyed. Fires in the timber lands of Northern Minnesota, which for the past two weeks have threatened several small towns, are under control, it was stated in a despatch reaching here today.

CATCHES FIRST TUNA.

AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Cal., June 1. — James W. Jump, of Los Angeles, caught the first tuna of the 1923 season here when he landed a 97-pound blue fin after a 40-minute fight, using light tackle.

Wins Wife's Ranch From Her Mother

SACRAMENTO, June 1. — J. H. Kennedy is vested with a title to a ranch near Lemore through a decision handed down yesterday by the third district court of appeal upholding the Kings county superior court in finding for the the plaintiff in Kennedy's suit against his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary A. Scally. Kennedy, as administrator of the estate of his wife, the late Margaret S. Kennedy claimed the ranch on the ground that it had been a gift to his wife from her mother, and that he had spent $7000 in improvements on it.

CUTICURA HEALS PIMPLY RASH

On Daughter's Face, Hands and Arms, Itched Badly,

"A red, pimply rash broke out on my daughter's face, hands and arms. Later the pimples filled with a watery fluid which dried and scales formed. The pimples itched and burned so badly when they first broke out that she scratched them, making them worse. Her clothing irritated the breaking out, causing much suffering and annoyance.

"We began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after the first application they relieved the itching. We continued using them and in one month she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. V. L. Davis, Cora, Mo.

Men's Scenery

I've read—
But not without a smile—
What men must wear if right in style—
They'd simper life away with those—
Who are but dummy forms of clothes—
Who yawn through days and dance the nights—
And seem to think some awful blight—
Rests on those who are useful—
Not caring that their gold was made—
By men who toiled all unafraid—
And if perchance you have not read—
I'll tell you what some expert said—
Some expert who sold clothing—
A man must have six polished hats—
And pay ten dollars for cravats—
And he must have four dozen—
And when he wears each one just once—
He sends it to some cousin—
Or lets his father wear it—
But father wears one tie each year—
And could not wear them out I fear—
He needs four dozen pairs of kids—
Three dozen forty-dollar lids—
Ten breakfast suits—but if perchance
He shimmied too long at a dance—
Did not arise for breakfast—
Twelve lounging suits will be enough—
For him to run the proper bluff—
Until it's time for dinner—
At dinner he must look real sweet—
From boots to hat he must be neat—
Quite gorgeous is his scenery—
For fear some foolish soul might think—
He boarded at a beanery—
Ten dinner suits will serve quite well—
Until some chappie—far more swell—
Goes out and buys him twenty—
Right quickly then he comes to know—
Ten is but half a plenty—
Fourteen dress shirts—ten dozen collars—
And shoes to cost four hundred dollars—
And then when he lies down to rest—
Pajamas—silk—is fashion's test—
For fear I could not make the grade—
I planned to make a testing raid—upon my wardr
I found one suit—cloth old and gray—
A derby hat from Greeley's day—
Two hard-boiled shirts—one red cravat—
A pair of pants in which I'd sat—
And they were over-shiny—
Four pairs of very holey socks—
A pair of shoes as hard as rocks—
Some collars with a saw-tooth edge—
Too small—they held me in a wedge—
I found some drawers—a union suit—
An old night dress thrown in to boot—
But oh sweet sirs—I'm much afraid—
My wardrobe will not make the grade.

Y.M.C.A. to Conduct Girls' Swim Classes

BERKELEY, June 1.—Girls swimming classes of the Berkeley playground department will open June 12 at the Y. M. C. A., Allston way and Milvia streets, it was announced today. Girls from 10 to 16 years of age are eligible to membership. The classes will meet Tuesday and Thursday mornings at 10 a. m. Enrollment must be made with Miss Jeanette Gause at the Y. M. C. A.

R. S. V. P.

We have invited ourselves to be among those present at every June wedding. Aside from the fact that we are particularly fond of Mendelsohn's Wedding March and Wagner's Bridal Chorus, we will accept every invitation because we want to send a set of home-making advice as a present to every lovely bride.

Dear June Bride:

However much you may think so now, you can't live on love. Back from the Honeymoon, and in your own home you will find that to be successful, well and happy, mere man must have three square meals a day. Many a divorce has been traced to the frying-pan—to the quarrel that indigestion starts. In your first order from your grocer, get a pound of NUCOA, THE HEALTHFUL SPREAD FOR BREAD. It is the utmost in good taste, yet offers a saving in cost that will allow you many extra table delicacies you could not afford if your income is limited. And Nucoa is so easily digested there isn't a chance of a morning grouch, however generously you may use it.

Yours for an Everlastingly long honeymoon,

Nucoa

DISCOVERIES IN SURGERY BLAMED FOR MANY ILLS

Tonsil Operation Cited as Cause for Increase in Catarrh.

PARIS, June 1.—Many modern medical discoveries were scored by Dr. Paul Trudeau, Canadian physician prominent here, in a remarkable and exclusive interview granted Universal Service.

"We have been getting too far from nature and it is time we retraced our steps," said Professor Trudeau, and pointed to the growth of catarrhal maladies as an instance.

"Fifty years ago catarrh was an almost unknown disease," he said. "Today it is universal. Three out of every five Americans have it in some form or another.

"The principal reason for this lies in the popular faith in the operation for the removal of the tonsils as a cure-all. The tonsils are a vital part of the human anatomy in that they act as a filter of the air we breathe. Take them out and that filter is removed, impurities lodge in the bronchial tubes and a catarrh is almost certain to result.

CATARRH OFTEN DEADLY.

"Better a swollen tonsil than permanent catarrh, which may and very often does lead to tuberculosis, pneumonia, pleurisy and death.

"When the tonsils operation began to be practiced in 1896 there were only a few isolated cases throughout the world. The operation was a dangerous one then and often resulted in fatal hemorrhage. But the surgery became simplified into an operation no more immediately dangerous than the extraction of a tooth, and public ignorance made a fetish of the so-called 'remedy'."

Similarly Professor Trudeau condemned hasty operations on the nose.

"The nasal membrane is one of the most delicate in the entire system and very little surgery is permanently damage it," he asserted. "Yet there are thousands of specialists in the removal of the septum—a protective bone placed there by nature—who cannot take care of their would-be patients, so numerous are they."

LIGHT CITED AS CURE.

Dr. Trudeau recommended the exterior application of light as the best means of curing nasal maladies.

"Plenty has been written condemning hasty abdominal surgery," he resumed, "but despite this more than [illegible] people annually go gladly under the knife.

"I do not hesitate to say that not 10 per cent of appendicitis operations are justified by the patient's condition.

"At the same time I do not condemn surgeons for practicing the appendicitis operation if they genuinely believe in its efficacy.

"Most diseases, other than infectious ones—and many of those are included, too—are caused by three things: Mistaken diet, mistaken clothing, lack of exercise.

"Good food, porous and light clothing and a moderate amount of exercise remain the great preventive mediums, serums and 'medical discoveries' to the contrary notwithstanding."

John R. McLean Gains 18 Lbs. Taking Tanlac

Lost Losing Ground for Five Years, Says Los Angeles Man —Declares He Now Feels Fine As In Younger Days.

When John R. McLean, a cabinet [illegible] Los Angeles, said: "Tanlac was what I needed to put me in first class working trim," he corroborated the statements of thousands of others who have used the medicine with the most gratifying results.

"Before taking Tanlac" he explained, "I had lost considerable weight and was in a badly run-down condition. Every year, for five or six years, I had been getting thinner and thinner and feeling more and more run-down.

"I at last realized the importance of getting something to stop my decline and build me up and, as my aunt had gotten such good results from Tanlac, I turned to the [illegible] that it has added eighteen pounds to my weight and made me feel as good as I ever did in my younger days."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

SHE WASHED DISHES.

Behind the story of the selection of Martha Van Rensselaer as one of America's twelve greatest women and behind her selection, again, as the American woman who is to go to Belgium to outline a program for the betterment of the profession of home making, is the story of a country girl who looked out of a kitchen window while she washed the family dishes.

The girl lived in Randolph, Cattaragus County, New York. What she could see out of the window held little for inspiration and she did not like to wash dishes. As a way out she studied to become a school teacher and, later, was made superintendent of the schools in her county. This meant she must drive through the country, visiting 155 schools, and at nights she stayed in the homes of the farmers. Here was more dish-washing, a daily encounter with the problems of the housewives in days of few conveniences. Martha Van Rensselaer, whose one ambition was to teach school in a large city where there were no farm kitchens, could not escape the shadow of the dishpan.

At Cornell University men remember yet the day she appeared to interest the educators in a campaign for the betterment of conditions for women on the farm. She was given a room in the basement, a pine table and a chair, and told to go ahead. Today the plant there, and of which she is head, receives 60,000 letters a month and is worth a million dollars. The country girl has been at work just twenty-three years in the task of her choosing.

A part of Miss Van Rensselaer's work in Belgium will be to lay the plans for a Better Homes Campaign for late in the summer, one to follow the lines of a similar campaign to be held in America June 4 to June 10. She will confer with governmental and university authorities for the establishment of a service center for educational work among farmers' wives. The girl who washed dishes in a country town, who helped the women of her county, and then of the whole country, sails for Belgium on June 18 to carry the program across the Atlantic.

NOT A HEROINE.

Crowds met her at the stations and whatever she said was sent to the four corners of the country. Clara Phillips, who has been called a tiger woman and "the hammer woman," was given the attention of a conquering heroine. At Houston the crowds cheered in the careless manner of those who mistake notoriety for celebrity and Clara Phillips lost no opportunity to issue high-sounding statements aimed for sympathy and to shorten the prison term that is to be hers.

Out of all of this cheap and clap-trap demonstration, out of the excitement of escape and hiding in a foreign land, the tiger woman is to step when she reaches San Quentin. Then the heavy doors will swing upon her coolly calculated bids for sympathy, her spectacular methods of the stage, and her rehearsed speeches of self-praise. The change will be as abrupt as the clicking of a lock: the contrast as wide as that between freedom and liberty.

Those who are weary of Clara Phillips and wearier yet of the demonstrations the thoughtless have made in her behalf do not rejoice because a woman is being placed in the penitentiary. They are assured, however, that justice is not to be balked by a physical and sentimental appeal and are relieved at the passing of a disgraceful spectacle.

With the change in color of the Berkeley and Contra Costa hills the annual fire menace has arrived. It is a menace which is lessened by such efforts as were put forth last year by the Contra Costa Hills fire protection committee when a season's bill to the flames was kept within $800. The Eastbay has had demonstrations of the returns of inattention and attention to this problem. It was a disastrous fire which stirred the committee to action, put a fire ranger and deputies on the job, and set a record for low losses. The committee is organizing again. By expending $2000 it stands to save from $20,000 to $100,000 in damage to property. What it saves in preserving the beauties of the hills is beyond calculation.

Can there or can there not be any significance in the fact that Poincare offered his resignation the day after he had an interview with Senator Hiram Johnson.

Conan Doyle says he has no mediumistic power. And yet look how he brought Sherlock Holmes back to life.

That Desert Island Again.

Fothergill Finch was busy making up one of those Desert Island lists about which we have been printing so much in the Lantern recently.

"If you could take only ten women with you to that Desert Island," we asked him, what "ten would they be?"

Without an instant's hesitation Fothergill turned in the following list:

Phryne,
Cleopatra,
Helen of Troy,
Catherine of Russia,
Thais,
Mme. du Barry,
Camille,
Semiramis,
Nell Gwynne,
Salome.

"You are ambitious," we said to Fothergil.

"I can get liquor all right," remarked The Old Soak, "but what I can't get is the next-mornin' sympathy.

"That there sort of kindness vanished when the old-fashioned bartender turned hisself into a soda clerk or a bootlegger.

"You get up in the morning, an' you ain't feelin' right on account of puttin' an enemy into your brains the night afore to steal away your blues, as the Good Book says, an' you needn't expect no sympathy from your wife, nor from none of the righteous.

"The only place you'll get lovin' kindness an' understandin' is from some other mammal of iniquity like yourself.

"In the old days I useter drift in to Jake's place in the mornin' with a headache onto me that would of been worth a million dollars in hades if you could of got it there without bustin' it, an' tell Al I guess I had a little too much the night afore.

" 'Never blame it on the booze,' Al would say.

"And he'd begin to take a little somethin' out'n this bottle, an' a little somethin' out'n that, and mebby a little white of egg into it, an' mix 'em and shake 'em an' strain 'em, all the time utterin' kind an' sympathetic words, an' finally tell you to throw your lip over that an' cheer up.

"An' purty soon way down deep in your innards, where there wasn't nothin' for hours but fire an' disaster an' the ruins of Babylon, there would begin to fall a cool shower onto the face of the desert, an' purty soon somethin' would twitter like a bird in a tree.

"An' after the second one of them things your soul would come to life again and look up at the sun, like the groundhog comin' out of his hole.

"An' after the third one you would say to yourself, shucks! there wasn't no use reformin' an' leadin' a better life, after all! For you had been feelin' so sick when you got up that you had actually begun to think serious about reformin'. But after three of them fix-ups of Al's you feel so strong an' good again that you make up your mind to continue right along bein' a mammal of iniquity.

THE WAR ON CRIME.

The establishment of a national bureau for the identification of criminals means much in the tireless war against crime. The bureau will function as a central depository for identifying records of criminals and as a clearing house for such. It will also be a broadcasting agency that will flash identifying data on criminals to every nook and corner in the country?

Lack of such an agency has made it possible for criminals to ... district, thereby lessening risk of capture, and has enabled fugitives from justice to make escapes that, with it, would have been impossible.—Washington Post.

EXCERPTS from the NATIONAL PRESS

Kansas City Star: "An encouraging sign is noted from an article in the Literary Digest, to the effect that American concert audiences have begun to hiss American audiences have never been able to do much except applaud, which requires no critical faculty. Hissing, besides requiring some critical skill, requires also courage and conviction. Hasten the day when Americans can hiss as well as applaud. Concert audiences wishing practical lessons in mob criticism should visit the baseball park occasionally. There may be witnessed real critical ability, and there is demonstrated the way it is put into effect."

New Orleans Item: "The new senator from Colorado is classified as a conservative Democrat. He was appointed by one of the most radical governors in the United States. He was appointed, too, in preference to a candidate endorsed by Mr. Wilson and another candidate endorsed by Bryan and McAdoo. The Governor of Colorado took the position that the senator was to represent the State and not one of the party leaders. His view is sound."

New York Herald: "TheHousewives Sugar Committee announces that in addition to continuing its boycott on sugar it will ask President Harding to remove the tariff from that sweet commodity. The intent of the housewives is ... but there is no hope of speedy results through executive action. The President's hands in the matter of the tariff are tied so tightly that if he were a Houdini he could not loose them in a hurry. The framers of the tariff law saw to that."

Christian Science Monitor: "News reports have it that Sir Ashley Cooper, general agent of the Cunard-Anchor lines for the United States, said that the vessels of his line on westward trips would probably carry just enough liquor to last as far as the American three-mile limit, if the recent Supreme Court ruling should be upheld. It would be interesting to know by what means he thinks such a delightfully exact determination could be reached."

Detroit Free Press: "If William Jennings Bryan had started in on the job early in life, he probably would have been a bang-up evangelist. But his mind took a different slant, and he became first the Boy Orator of the Platte, later a perennial candidate for the presidency, and still later, a factional leader in the Democratic party, a prolific inventor of 'issues,' and a chronic propagandist."

Goldfield Tribune: "The president of the New York sugar exchange says prohibition is responsible for the sugar shortage. That ought to end the discussion, but probably it won't some—people just can't be satisfied with a simple explanation of anything."

Medford Mail-Tribune: "The President made a speech today. He tells some plain truths. Do not believe your president. He is a tool of Copenhagen. Believe the guy who collects your assessments. All the president desires to do is to preserve the nation; but maintain your hysteria and fool him."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE HAPPIEST FISHERMAN.

Oh, it's good to go out fishing when the skies are blue above,
It's good to go out fishing with a pal
you've learned to love,
It's good to watch the clouds go by and hear the singing stream,
It's good to give your soul a rest away from hissing steam—
But when a man's a father, then the utmost peak of joy
Is fishing in the river with a wide-eyed, happy boy!

Oh, I have fished with fishermen and waded brooks for trout,
And I have heard the tales they tell when all the stars are out,
And I have heard the wise old men,
the grizzled men and gray
Who know the stories of the streams, and that was yesterday.
But I'm a young boy's father now,
and truth it is I tell,
It's glorious to go fishing with the boy you love so well.

It's good to see his eyes aglow and hear his shouts of glee,
It's good to hear him want to know the name of every tree;
It's good to watch him row the boat and see his muscles bend,
There's joy in everything he does until the trip shall end.
And happy is that fisherman,
though luck be good or bad,
Who's had a day of honest sport and shared it with his lad.

There's something in a fishing trip which can't be told in rhyme,
It seems to heal the hurts we've met and soothe the aches of time;
The running streams and singing brooks and shining seas of blue Restore the faltering strength of man and all his hopes renew.
But when a man's a father and his boy is at his side,
Then whether luck be good or bad, that day will long abide.

MEMORIAL DAY.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Visiting our beautiful Mountain View cemetery to decorate the resting places of loved ones and friends on Memorial Day, some few things were much in evidence—the delightful weather, which seemed ordered for this solemn occasion, the great mass of people, the handling of the traffic by our police department in such a skillful manner. But why allow all sorts of honking, screeching, smoking automobiles, trucks and particularly motorcycles to invade the place and desecrate the day by their presence—an offense to eye, ear and nostril. Keep them out on this one day in the year and let people walk as did the veterans of the G. A. R. some 90 years of age.

Then, again, the use or abuse of our dear flag, Old Glory. There are rules to be followed in this respect. Note the speaker's stand with the flag used as a decoration with Union in upper righthand quarter. Credit to some buildings downtown for having colors on staffs at half mast in the morning and at full mast afternoon. But others kept the flag at half mast all day.

AUTOINTOXICATION AND THE ARTERIES.

Almost every person thinks he or she knows what autointoxication means. He or she knows it means poisoning of the system by the absorption of waste matter which has been too long retained in the bowel, or something like that. What could be simpler than "removing the cause," with some physic or an enema.

The notion that any poisoning of the system occurs from the absorption of waste matter from the intestines is purely fanciful; as a matter of fact, such an occurrence is as rare as complete intestinal obstruction. Even in complete obstruction of the bowel, as in strangulated hernia or in certain cases of peritonitis, it is questionable whether the poisoning of the system is attributable to anything absorbed from the intestinal contents, or, what is more likely, due to septic matter produced by putrefaction in the gangrenous tissues. At any rate, the evils generally ascribed to a fanciful autointoxication in ordinary constipation do not materialize in the case of an individual who has not become obsessed with the autointoxication notion; the protean symptoms alleged to depend on such poisoning cannot be experimentally produced.

The scientific conception of autointoxication is a very different thing. It has not particular bearing on the function of the bowel, and certainly does not depend upon any deficiency in that respect. When one looks into this question closely it becomes clear that the popular misapprehension is founded upon nothing else than misleading "literature."

The scientific conception of autointoxication is nobody's pet theory, and does not lend itself to the exploitation of any particular line of treatment nor fit in fortuitously with any new fangled system or "school" of healing. For that reason, it has not been "explained" to the laity so painstakingly as has the fishiological conception.

The only kind of self-poisoning which may be scientifically recognized and actually measured with instruments of precision is that which occurs when there is some fault of metabolism, such as the state of acidosis, or acid intoxication, which develops in various diseases or illnesses. The simplest example of such a definitely measurable autointoxication is perhaps the coma which occurs in some advanced cases of diabetes; this is directly caused by the accumulation of butyric and acetic acids in the blood; sometimes the patient may be quickly brought out of coma to full consciousness by an injection of a solution of sodium bicarbonate into the veins.

In all instances of demonstrable autointoxication, there is one important feature apparent, namely, under-oxygenation. Be it a question of too much uric acid in the blood (as is found in various diseases) or of uremia or of a diabetic coma or of that tired feeling, at bottom there is a shortage of oxygen.

Now please don't get angry. Honestly, I try not to harp on the same old string, but the truth will bob up. If you want to keep your arteries nice and soft, get your two miles of oxygen on the hoof three times a day in all weathers.

HARRISON ST. ENTRANCE OF TUBE CHOSEN

City Council, Supervisors Formally Decide On Site for Approach On Estuary; Broadway Plan Rejected

Harrison street was formally chosen as the Oakland entrance of the new estuary tube yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the City Council and the entire Board of Supervisors in Mayor Davie's office, and City Attorney Leon Gray, District Attorney Ezra Decoto, County Engineer George Posey, City Engineer W. W. Harmon and Harbor Engineer Ralph Beebe were instructed to draw the necessary plans and legal papers so that the city council may set aside lower Harrison street for tube purposes.

Several suggestions were made for other sites for the tube. Among them were Broadway and Webster street. The foot of Broadway was suggested as, in some ways, the most logical site; but it was agreed that there is so much trackage and traffic that Broadway is inadvisable.

With the agreement concerning Harrison street, it was also agreed that the street must be widened along the cut portion of the tube to allow surface traffic to continue. This, according to the officials, means that the street must be widened from the estuary to a point between Fifth and Sixth streets, where the tube emerges to the surface.

Proceedings toward widening Harrison will be outlined by the city attorney and district attorney.

Those present at the meeting included Mayor Davie, Commissioner A. E. Carter, the city and harbor engineers, the city attorney and district attorney, and the entire membership of the Board of Supervisors, headed by Chairman W. J. Hamilton.

Water District Directors Adopt Tax-Levying Plan

Faced by two courses in the financing of the new Eastbay Public Utilities district, the directors of the district, meeting last night in the Civil Service rooms of the city hall, elected to avail themselves of the tax-levying bodies of Alameda and Contra Costa counties rather than create a separate entity for the water district by itself.

Deputy District Attorney Earl Warren, present at the meeting, fought against the decision.

"The best system is to start anew, with your own machinery," said Warren. "The addition of a water-district system of assessment and taxation, within the county systems, will create havoc in the latter."

The utilities district directors, however, believed that the quicker and better way is to hitch on to the present county systems. They adopted an ordinance worded somewhat as follows:

"The directors elect to avail themselves of the assessments made by the assessors of Alameda and Contra Costa counties, as a basis for utilities district taxation; and hereafter assessments for the district will be made through the county assessors."

MAY LEAD TO COURTS.

It was admitted by all present that this presents a certain legal obstacle which may have to be threshed out by the State courts.

The county assessments are already in the making. The assessments, as of March, will be completed about August 4. But in March there was no water district. The district was not created until the April 18 elections. Hence, according to the directors last night, they must either finance themselves by hitching onto the March assessments, which do not provide for them, or they must wait a year.

During the discussion Director Louis Bartlett advised extreme cautiousness as to procedure.

"Persons who are against the water district are eager to seize the opportunity to discredit it by bringing taxpayers' suits," he said.

WILL PROCEED WITH PLAN.

It was agreed, nevertheless, to proceed with the plan of taking the present county assessments as a basis for valuing the properties within the district.

"If we wait a year," explained the directors, "we cannot proceed. If we erect our own assessment machinery, that will also take a long time. Either way, we are handicapped. It is a dilemma, but we can only strive to proceed in the quickest way possible to finance ourselves."

INCOME TAX CHECKING IS BEGUN HERE

Force of Revenue Men Are Busy Inspecting the Books to Discover All Possible Errors in Returns Made

A force of internal revenue collectors, headed by Revenue Agent W. H. Henry took possession of the city tax offices on the first floor of the city hall today, and started the task of checking over and correcting income tax returns which do not seem to be logical or correct.

Citizens whose returns do not "tally" with previous returns, or who skipped a year in their returns, will be asked to meet the agent at the city hall.

"The object of our visit is not punitive," said Henry. "To the citizen we always say 'we are not the government; you are the government, and it is our job to help you keep your accounts straight with yourself.'

"There are many questions that come up for adjudication, among them being the depreciation of lands or buildings. A property owner may claim more depreciation than is justified. Again, there is the matter of claims for automobiles classed as business cars. Now, a doctor's car may be used entirely for business, while a dentist's car may only be used on a hurry call once a week. The former may be justified in a 100 per cent exemption on his car, while the latter is entitled to much less.

"Our object is to straighten out the income tax accounts of the citizens of Oakland, where errors exist. In this way, no citizen will be called up in the future for some error that happened two or three years before. We are keeping the accounts up to date."

The revenue force is a sort of traveling caravan, visiting each town for few weeks until all the accounts are regulated. Oakland's income tax accounts, says Henry, are in about as good shape as any city's.

COLUMBIA CALLS DEAN OF GIRLS

Miss Sarah Sturtevant, dean of girls in the University high school, has been called to the position of dean of women and associate professor of education in Teachers' college, Columbia university. She will assume the position made vacant by the death of Roxbelle S. Rouse, one of the foremost deans of women in the United States. Miss Sturtevant's particular work will be the carrying on of a definite course of training, preparing women for the positions of dean.

The successful program which Miss Sturtevant has built up in the University high school has attracted the attention of the eastern universities. Last year she inaugurated a training course for deans in the University of California. The association of faculty advisors and girls in the high schools about the bay was founded under the leadership of Miss Sturtevant. The organization offers a common forum to students and deans for the discussion of their mutual problems.

Miss Sturtevant is a graduate of the University of California. She took her master's degree from Columbia.

Tefft Divorce Case Reaches Final Decree Stage in Superior Court.

The married life of Clinton E. Tefft, Berkeley undertaker and civic worker, and Lulu Mae Tefft, Berkeley poetess, which has been [illegible] in the last three years with sensational incidents, is at an end today with the signing of Mrs. Tefft's final divorce decree by Superior Judge T. W. Harris.

The divorce, which is the second one to be brought by Mrs. Tefft against Tefft, is the outcome of the shooting of Tefft in the arm in 1921 by Mrs. Val Yancey, young remarried divorcee of Berkeley. Mrs. Yancey followed her action with charges against Tefft which the latter's wife used as some of the principal allegations in her divorce complaint.

Since the spring of 1920, the matrimonial affairs of the Tefft's have excited public interest with numerous episodes, including the following: The waging of a divorce suit against Tefft by his wife, on the ground that he lacked interest in her poetry; her withdrawal of the suit, coupled with a plea to her husband for forgiveness; the shooting of Tefft by Mrs. Val Yancey, wife of a friend of Tefft's, and her declaration that she and Tefft had entered into a suicide pact; the "beating up" of Tefft by his former friend, Lester A. Yancey, Berkeley cigar dealer and husband of Mrs. Yancey; insanity examination of both Tefft and Mrs. Yancey, on charges which each made against the other; the filing of Mrs. Tefft's second suit for divorce, this time naming Mrs. Yancey as "the other woman"; and declarations by Mrs. Tefft that neither of the divorces which she successively sought against her husband would in any way interfere with their existing business partnership.

MILLS WILL NOT LOSE ITS ENDOWMENT

Students, Alumni, Friends of College Believe New York Offer of $350,000 Is to Be Saved to the Institution

Students and alumni of Mills College and Eastbay persons interested in the institution will, in all probability, save the college from losing the $350,000 offered by the General Education Board of New York, by raising the $650,000 locally that is required under the conditions of the gift, members of the committee which has been working on the endowment fund campaign announced today.

Within the next few days, the committee believes, the money will be in hand, as the result of last-minute subscriptions and pledges that have been received.

At the end of the recent campaign to raise the $650,000, the workers found that they were $42,000 short. This amount was apportioned between the Eastbay, San Francisco and other parts of the state in various quotas, and a new campaign was undertaken. This campaign has now virtually closed.

Present indications which, however, have not yet been completely verified by the workers, are that the sums promised within the past few days by a number of present and former students of the college will completely make up the shortage.

The local committee consists of Joseph F. Carlston, Joseph R. Knowland and A. S. Lavenson.

FINAL TOUCHES BEING PUT ON 'OH, OAKLAND!'

Dramatic Spectacle Comes As Prelude for Big Fall Festival.

Final rehearsals are under way for the presentation of the dramatic spectacle "Oh, Oakland!"

Coming as a prelude to the big fall festival planned for the shores of Lake Merritt in September, "Oh, Oakland!" will be presented in the Municipal Auditorium theater next Thursday evening. It was written by George Cummings, originator of the Ad Masque and he will direct the spectacle.

To Miss Marie Allen, Oakland's noted dancing teacher of the Lakeview school, the originator of the annual duck pageant and for several years the dance-director of the successful Ad Masques, goes the honor of originating the dances in "Oh, Oakland!"

Miss Allen will present such clever dancing maidens as Burdette Spencer and Ruth De Witt.

And back of the fun and the frolics, back of the color and the fantasy will be the big story of Oakland's great fall festival now under preparation.

While "Oh, Oakland!" is sponsored by the Oakland Advertising Club, other organizations are helping to put the event over big.

The Oakland Real Estate Board's Glee Club and members of the Oakland Press Club will appear in the next extravaganza while the Business and Professional Women's Club, through Miss Zanette W. Potter, is offering a chorus of thirty-five girl singers.

Alameda Resident Is Laid to Rest

ALAMEDA, June 1. — Funeral services were held in Alameda today for Mrs. Jacobina McLagan Dorward, well known resident here for many years, who died at the family residence, 1242 Bay street, Tuesday night after an extended illness.

She was a native of Perth, Scotland, 62 years of age. Mrs. Dorward was the widow of the late David Dorward of the Dorward Engineering company of San Francisco.

Surviving her are the children, David, John J., George D. and Robert R. Dorward.

RUHR POLICE FIRE ON STRIKE MOB DURING ATTACK

Workers Charge the Police; Street Car Workers Defy Leaders, Quit Jobs.

COBLENZ, June 1.—(By International News Service.)—Virtually all the mines in the Ruhr, except some in the region of Dortmund, were working again today as a result of the collapse of the Communists' general strike. It is now estimated that 43 persons were killed and 300 wounded in the recent outbrek of fighting between the reds and German police.

BERLIN, June 1.—Two persons were killed and six wounded in an over-night clash between workmen and police at Bautzen, near Dresden.

Workers charged police ranks and the casualties occurred when the latter fired a volley into the crowd.

COLOGNE, June 1 (By the Associated Press).—The street car employees yesterday struck for higher wages. The strike was called notwithstanding the fact that the union leaders opposed it.

The strikers have agreed to maintain the services required by the British occupation forces.

RHINE SMUGGLERS SHOT.

MANNHEIM, June 1 (By the Associated Press).—Smugglers along the Rhine are resorting to the use of rafts in trying to avoid the Franco-Belgian ten per cent export tax on goods going out of Germany. This fact was revealed here today in a despatch from Roxheim, which said a party of citizens of Roxheim were surprised Wednesday night while attempting to take goods across the river from the Palatinate. Soldiers opened fire when the smugglers tried to flee and two of the smugglers were wounded. One of them has since died.

BERLIN, June 1(By the Associated Press).—A statement issued by Vice President Von Glassenapp of the Reichsbank reveals precautionary measures which were in effect at the Essen branch of the Reichsbank when 92,000,000,000 marks were seized recently.

Learning that a seizure might be attempted, the bank had installed a type of burglar alarms. An employee was stationed to set the alarm in action the moment he detected anything suspicious outside. When the alarm sounded, vaults were to be locked and the keys hidden.

CAUGHT OFF GUARD.

On the day of the recent seizure, according to Von Glasenapp, the watchman was on guard, but the moment the bank opened two French detectives in civilian clothes overpowered the guard before he could give the alarm. By this time a number of persons had entered the bank, among them five Frenchmen, who held up the bank employees at the point of revolvers. They then completed the seizure.

BERLIN, June 1.—The French are reported to have expelled 14 of the leading officials of the Hoechst Dye works. A despatch to the Vossiche Zeitung says that the police of Bochum today raided Communist headquarters and arrested 16 of the leaders. Documents relating to the Communist organization were seized. By means of these documents arrests of conspirators and the seizure of explosives in other towns were made possible.

GARAGE BURGLARIZED.

ALAMEDA, June 1.—A. E. Osborn, 2436 Santa Clara avenue, reported to the police today that his garage had been entered during the night and a new tire and tools stolen.

ODD LETTER 'M' AIDS CAPTURE OF S. F. 'BROKER'

Alleged Forger Arrested for Bad Checks Fraud On Bay Banks.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—A slight peculiarity in the forming of the letter "M" led to the collapse of one of the cleverest forgery careers in a decade and as a result Thomas H. Barnett, 35, a broker, is being held in prison here after a confession of peculations amounting to $8000 from banks of San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley.

Barnett's young wife was ignorant of the source of his money for the last year and a half and broke down completely when she learned of her husband's arrest.

"I thought he got his money from big commissions in the stock market," she sobbed when questioned by detectives from the Burns agency.

FACES TELLERS.

Following the trail of the peculiar "M," the operatives of the Burns agency and the California Bankers' Association yesterday took Barnett to the Burns headquarters, where he was brought face to face with tellers from banks of the bay cities. He vehemently proclaimed his innocence until two safe deposit box keys were found concealed in his socks, say detectives.

Barnett, according to the detectives, used the discarded deposit slips on the desks and in the waste baskets of the banks to obtain the signatures of depositors and an inkling to the amounts they had on deposit.

The first trace of the forger's work was reported to the Bankers' Association in January, 1922. Subsequently every forged check that was cashed and passed through the bank was photographed and turned into the association for analysis. The work was particularly difficult because of the variety of names used by Barnett.

After months of study, Frank L. Schribner, manager of the protective department of the association, had compiled a summary of the forger's handwriting peculiarities. The detectives working on the case reasoned that the forger probably used a safe deposit box as a base for his operations.

DEPOSIT BOX FOUND.

After scrutinizing the signatures of the safe deposit box owners of the banks of the cities, Schribner was attracted to the similarity of the "M" in the name of "M. Higgins" for a box at the French-American bank.

When "Higgins" came to the vault in the bank he was followed, and thus it was learned that he had a second box at the Bank of Italy. The detectives then were certain they were on the right trail. Their next move was to arrest Barnett.

The detectives say they found in the deposit boxes the checks, stubs and other proof of Barnett's fraudulent operations, along with an elaborate collection of "systems" for playing the stock market. To these Barnett attributed his downfall.

Barnett is being held for the forgery of a $750 check on the Humboldt bank. His checks are said to have ranged from $85 to $1750 in amounts, and to have totalled more than 30.

AVERAGE BILLS ON DEFECTIVE METERS BANNED

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The practice of public service corporations supplying gas and electricity of demanding payment of average bills when meters are found defective and registering less than the amount consumed, was ordered discontinued today by the railroad commission. The complaint came from Southern California, where a consumer was threatened with a discontinuance of the service because he refused to pay an average bill after his meter had been proved defective and showed a less amount of current than it was claimed had been used. The commission investigated and discovered that the concern had not maintained its meter testing department at the proper state of efficiency.

"A utility is responsible for ... any loss occasioned by their inaccuracy should be borne by it," declared today's decision.

Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry Fares to Be Raised

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—The Rodeo-Vallejo Ferry company was granted permission by the railroad commission today to increase fares between Vallejo and Mare Island. The new rate is to be five cents for a single trip or three cents for a single trip and six cents for a round trip on the purchase at one time of 25 tickets. The present rate is two and a half cents one way and five cents round trip. Residents of the territory had reached an agreement with the company for a seven and a half cent round trip charge, but the commission found that the rate ordered in effect today would give an adequate return on the investment.

Nippon Fishermen Seized By Russians

TOKYO, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Russian authorities of the Soviet administration in Siberia have seized a Japanese fishing vessel and imprisoned the crew of seventy-two for operating within the seven-mile limit.

Heretofore fishermen have not been molested unless they were within three miles of shore.

SAN LEANDRO

Officers Threaten Cherry Thieves

SAN LEANDRO, June 1.—Cherry thives have been unusually active this year according to Deputy Marshal J. G. Brown who has received several calls to visit cherry orchards, estimated damages and captured thieves.

Many orchardists have notified the officials that the abundance of the crop warrants them in giving away many cherries, which producers are doing. But they claim that great damage is being done by the thieves who break the trees in their vandalism. San Leandro officers have notified the public that they expect to deal with cherry thieves hereafter with a stern hand.

Sunday School To Hold Big Picnic

SAN LEANDRO, June 1.—Pupils of the Presbyterian Sunday school are to hold the annual picnic at Mosswood Park, Oakland, tomorrow. They will be taken in automobiles, and the church motorbus. The picnic party will leave the church at 10 o'clock and will spend the day at the park.

Scouts Spend Day In Mountain Camps

SAN LEANDRO, June 1.—Boy Scouts of Troop 2, San Leandro spent Memorial Day in Calaveras canyon where they demonstrated the open air field work of the Scouts. There were twenty-five youths who made the trip. They were in charge of L. J. Kelly, scoutmaster, and L. B. Stanger, assistant.

Native Daughters Plan Big Jinx

SAN LEANDRO, June 1.—Members of El Cereso Parlor, Native Daughters, are preparing to make their annual high jinx this year eclipse those of previous years. The committee at a special meeting last night voted to hold the yearly jinx on the night of the last meeting this month, June 25. It will be participated in by women only, and this year will be a costume party. Mrs. John J. Goodman is in charge of the commitee which is planning the details of the affair.

The parlor will also have charge of a candy and Kewpie doll concession stand at the Cherry Carnival. This committee will be in charge of Mrs. Manuel Madera. The Native Daughters will take turns at the stand, and the money earned will go into the parlor treasury.

Berkeley Mobilized Women Plan Drive

BERKELEY, June 1. — The Berkeley Mobilized Women will hold their quarterly newspaper and magazine drive tomorrow, and all householders wishin to assist them in their Americanization program have been urged to contribute their old newspaper and magazines, and to have them tied in bundles and placed on the curb early tomorrow.

The Berkeley Mobilized Women do not ask for cash donations and have no budget in the Community Chest, carrying on their work from funds received from donations of waste.

Classes in English, sewing and millinery are held at the Americanization House, Ninth and University avenues, for the foreign women and girls of the district. Other activities sponsored by the Mobilized Women at their headquarters, are mothers' and girls' clubs, nursery school and supervised playground, Coda club and choral club of foreign singers. Mrs. Lewis A. Hicks is president of the Mobilized Women.

FUND DRIVE PROGRESSES.

RICHMOND, June 1.—The canvassing committee named to raise $3500 as Richmond's current quota for the Salvation Army, met last night and reported the public are responding generously to appeals. Thedrive will continue till June 7.

AT SCIOTS SHOW

Boxing will be added to the already extensive program of Pharoh's Frolics, the Sciots show at Cottage Baths Beach, this evening, when Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion, will appear in a special exhibition bout. The San Francisco Pyramid of Sciots has taken over the program this evening and the appearance of Ritchie will be his first in public since his decision to re-enter the boxing arena.

Other special attractions to be offered this evening will be the Pharaoh's Frolics Jazz Girls, a bathing girl revue and Evelyn Cavaganaro, contortionist dancer. These attractions are in addition to band concerts, solos, swimming races, diving contests and canoe tilting tournaments.

Final scenes in the two-reel motion picture being made at the Beach will be "shot" today and tomorrow. This picture, it is explained, is a regular two-reel comedy with a well defined plot and regular actors. It is announced it will be placed on exhibition next week in the Alameda theaters, and those in attendance will be given the opportunity of appearing in the picture.

Final performances of Pharaoh's Frolics will take place tomorrow with a special matinee starting at 2 o'clock.

COUSIN SUES FOR NEGRO'S ESTATE

Claiming that William T. Ewing, wealthy negro who died on April 18, last, was possessed of an "insane delusion" that his relatives connived at and desired his death to inherit his money," Ella F. Kinkade, a first sousin, has filed a contest to the will which left the $60,000 estate to the Tuskeegee Institute of Alabama.

In the will, dated August 19, 1912, Ewing knew very well that she and several second cousins were living.

These contentions are all denied in answers to the contest filed by the Tuskeegee Institute and by John Ruby and Robert J. McMullen, executors of the estate.

MOTHER WORKS FOR COMFORTS FOR CHILDREN

Not Vanity or Finery Drives Them to Do Hard Labor.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—(United Press.)—Why do married women seek gainful employment? What is the answer to the problem presented by the working mother?

The Children's Bureau of the Labor Department set out to answer these questions. It's report might be entitled "How the Other Half Lives."

For bureau investigators, who went into 11,000 cases of mothers who are employed found that actual need, and not vanity or love of finery, was the motive that impelled the great majority of the 11,000 mothers to leave their homes and children to help earn the family living.

NEEDED MONEY.

The bureau went into the cases of working mothers in Baltimore, in the Chicago stock yards, in gulf coast oyster canneries, in the cotton fields of Michigan and Colorado and the cotton fields of Texas. They found that by far the largest percentage of these working mothers were from homes where the husband's earnings were relatively smallest, and where the children were the most numerous.

They found a set of human facts which showed how menacing to the future health of the nation is this problem.

The health of babies was lowered by change of food or improper feeding; the home surroundings were of a lower standard because of the lack of the mother's care; they found some families orphaned because the mother broke down under the double load of her household duties and her outside employment.

They found mothers arising at dawn to get breakfast and get the children off to school, and then going to a day of toil in field or factory; they found them late at night baking, cleaning, mending, unremittingly spending their strength for their children.

EXAMPLE CITED.

The case of one Chicago mother was cited today as an example. This young woman, who works for a packing company, puts her three year old child in a day nursery and sends a six-year-old to the nursery for lunch and after school. She keeps her house "immaculately clean" the bureau investigator reported, but to do it she works until after 11 every night, and when she does the family washing, she stays up until five in the morning.

A colored mother who cleaned cabs every night for 9 hours bought the day's provisions on her way home from work in the morning. She got the family breakfast before going to bed. She was usually up again at noon to prepare lunch for the children, and was always ready with their dinner in the evening. Every week on Wednesday she did the family washing and the ironing on Thursday, and often on other days she did the general housework and the family's plain sewing. Evidently most of her housekeeping was attended to when she should have been sleeping.

WORKED HARD.

A mother who worked in the stockyards from 3:30 in the afternoon till 11:30 seldom got to bed till 1 o'clock and the children kept her from sleeping late in the morning. She prepared the breakfast and lunch and did all the work except the washing and scrubbing. Her husband was an unskilled factory laborer, earning $[illegible] a week, and he did the scrubbing on Sunday and got the supper every evening for himself and the children.

A mother of three children doing nearly all her housework in addition to 9 hours' work at a tailor shop started dinner the night before, so it had to be warmed up when it was eaten the next day. Laundry was sent out, but she did the ironing herself in the evenings. For the weekly cleaning she tried to take Saturday off, but this was [illegible] in the busy season.

U. S. News Will Be Swede Radio Stunt

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Radio [illegible] International Aero Exhibition at Goetborg, Sweden, during July and August, according to despatches from Consul Sholes to the department of commerce. A special radio section is under preparation, and several foreign and American firms are expected to exhibit apparatus, especially radio sets suitable for interplane and plane to ground communication.

A feature of unusual interest will be the daily receipt of news by radio from the United States for the American visitors at the exposition. Through the co-operation of a Swedish-American News Association and the Naval Communication service, NAA will broadcast daily 500 words of "home news."

GRAIN.

TOPEKA, Kas., June 1.—Kansas will produce 90,000,000 to 100,000,000 bushels of wheat this year according to estimates made public today. It is estimated that Texas will require 10,000 harvest hands. By the time this army moves north with the harvest into Oklahoma and Kansas, about 30,000 will be required.

CLOTHING.

BEAUTY TO ORDER NOT IMPOSSIBLE SAYS SCIENTIST

But Warns That Perfection Will Bring Longing for Ugliness.

LONDON, June 1.—When all men are supermen, as it is declared by Dr. Kammerer, famous Viennese scientist, they may be within the next few generations, what will their wives be like?

Will science be able to give perfect beauty of form and feature to every woman in the world?

In the meantime, we may safely leave the broadcasting of beauty to the biologists, and make the bold assertion that here and there the superwomen are already we shall see the change even more beautiful day by day. Hygiene is responsible for the greater triumphs than physiology. The modern woman has already achieved more beautiful hair, a more perfect complexion, and a lovelier body than any of her predecessors since the golden age of Ancient Greece.

BEAUTY'S CHARM WANING.

Those who recruit mannequins, or show girls, or dancers, or film stars, can tell you that there is an embarrassing and overwhelming response to every call demanding beautiful young women.

Already mere beauty is insufficient to win the fame and fortune it brought its possessors in former times. In the reign of King Edward society would stand on its chairs in the park to behold a famous beauty pass by in her carriage driven by snow-white horses. The loveliest debutante of the season created a sensation in every ballroom. Her portrait in the academy was surrounded for weeks by crowds of worshippers.

Already there are marked signs that a mere passive exquisiteness of form and feature may fail to win the triumphs that come crowding to personality, brains, and a sense of humor.

RAREST BEAUTY ESTEEMED.

When all women have beauty we shall see the change even more [illegible] We shall watch, while we weep over our useless perfection, the glorious career of the woman who possesses the characteristics that a few of the most modern painters are already seeking in their models, the unusual, the bizarre, even the downright ugliness, that will then be as rare and as highly prized as sheer perfection is today.

Man esteems the rarest quality as the highest. When all women are beautiful he may have to scour the world—and he certainly will—to find the [illegible] to our present imperfect type of charm on whom to lavish his adoration and his possessions.

592 STATIONS TO BROADCAST RADIO

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Radio broadcasting stations total 592, according to a recent department of commerce survey. Of this number, 113 are Class A stations, 36 high powered Class B stations, 1-KDKA, designated as a broadcasting development station, and the balance, 442 Class C operating on 360 meters.

Many old stations grouped temporarily as Class C and directed to operate only on 360 meters have been reclassified as A stations and assigned special district waves. There remain 442 in this class today, either awaiting new wave lengths or satisfied to continue on 360 meters. New stations, however, are still coming in, about thirty being added in the last thirty days, while twenty dropped out.

During the past week, four new A stations were licensed; one each in Pennsylvania and South Dakota, and two in Colorado. Fourteen C stations were transferred to Class A during the week ending May 26.

Messages Are Sent By "Huth" System

BERLIN, June 1.—Germany recently had a demonstration of wireless telephonic communication [illegible] nary receiving and transmitting stations, according to Consul Richardson, at Berlin. Messages were exchanged between the president and officials in Berlin and other officials on a train, moving at thirty miles an hour, half way between Berlin and Hamburg, by means of the "Huth" system. This system is a combination of wireless and wire transmission. The sending apparatus was installed in a compartment on the train and the [illegible] ran over the tops of two cars. The line telegraph wires along the track are said to have picked up the messages and transmitted them to Berlin where the line was connected with a receiving set.

Radio Equipment Exports Increasing

During the first three months of 1923 the value of exports of American-made radio and wireless apparatus exceeded $500,000. An increase of over $30,000 a month, since the first of the year, is shown by figures just issued by the department of commerce.

In January these exports were valued at $141,577; in February the value increased to $173,909, and in March the figure was $213,094.

Of the March exports, $70,273 worth went to Quebec and Ontario, $37,030 was purchased in Cuba, and $25,068 worth was shipped to Mexico. The weight of the shipments was approximately 58 tons.

GERMAN WOMEN NEED AMERICAN HOUSE METHODS

"Big Wash Day" Once National Affair, Eliminated Since Wartime.

BERLIN, June 1.—"The Americanization of our households is the only possible solution of the servant problem in present-day Germany," says Frau Margarete Caemmerer, one of the moving spirits of the League of German Housekeepers. "With conditions as they are nothing remains for the German housekeeper to do but emulate the example set by American women and dispense with domestic help. It is not only that family budgetary conditions make retrenchment imperative all along the line, but another factor to be taken into consideration is the general deterioration of house servants in Republican Germany."

"The influence of the Soviet system is strongly felt in Germany and household servants have sacrificed their once proverbial efficiency which issue the orders concerning working hours and service performed.

What Frau Caemmerer deplores is not so much the elimination of domestic service, but the pertinacity with which the German housewife clings to the old-fashioned conduct of her menage.

MODERN WAYS NEEDED.

"German women still cling to hand-made methods of housekeeping, whereas in America electricity [illegible] are the driving forces of a household. Every American woman who, before the war, had an opportunity of getting in touch with the German domestic problem smiled at the antiquated methods still in vogue here and could not understand why the German woman had not long since cast overboard all superfluous ballast in the way of traditions and household fetishes.

"What amused them most of all was the sacred and solemn ceremony of our 'Grosse Waesche,' or periodical 'Big Wash-Day,' always spelled with capital letters by reason of its importance. While this was in progress, the entire household regime was completely disorganized, the house was pervaded with the aroma of soap-suds, the otherwise immaculate maids were transformed into veritable furies of the laundry kitchen, and every family comfort was subordinated to the exigent demands of the great God of Utility.

"Today we can not even enjoy the luxury of 'Big Wash-Day,' as the cleanliness which was akin to [illegible] is practically on the decline, owing to the shortage and consequent prohibitive prices of coal, soap and labor.

"Housekeeping, so I am told, is more or less of a side issue with the average American woman, as either she is in a position to maintain a menage on a large scale, or if in moderate circumstances is able to make use of all the modern mechanical labor-saving devices."

Frau Caemmerer thinks it is doubtful as to whether American methods would be wholly sympathetic to the German housekeeper, who refuses to be separated from her inherited and acquired household goods. Even young married couples show no inclination to "Americanize" their households, partly from sentimental reasons growing out of the traditions of their forefathers, and for the further practical reason that they can neither afford to invest in electrical machines, nor to operate them, owing to the high cost of electricity in Germany at present.

There is only one other possible solution of the servant problem and that is a systematic course of training housekeepers, whereby they would be made independent of domestic help. For if the truth must be told, the virtues of the German "Hausfrau," which have become almost proverbial, are not entirely justified.

GOOD MANAGER.

She was, and is, an admirable manager, who knows to the last pfennig how to balance her budget and her expenditures, how to get the maximum of work from her [illegible] and how to have an altogether admirably conducted menage.

But she has always been more of an executive than a practical worker in the kitchen and the house, a fact that was emphasized at the autumn meeting of the Central Union for German Rural Housekeepers, where the only theme discussed during the three-day session was that of the systematic training of this particular category for the practical duties of housewifery.

Throughout Germany these household training schools have been established where young girls and women receive three years' course in the culinary, nursery, sewing and laundry aspects of housekeeping. After passing a satisfactory examination, the students are ready either to be installed in households as paid servants, or to take their places at the heads of their own families.

Frau Caemmerer is deeply interested in this phase of the problem and is bringing great pressure to bear upon the official Housekeepers' Union and the Municipal Councils in placing this infant movement on a permanent basis.

HOUSES RAZED AT VATICAN TO PROVIDE GYM

Houses several centuries old, bearing historic association with ecclesiastical and artistic history of Rome, have been ordered demolished by the Vatican authorities to provide space for the Knights of Columbus Vatican American playground and gymnasium, now under course of construction on Vatican property donated by Pope Pius XI for the purpose.

It is the first time that such [illegible] operations have been attempted on Vatican property. Commissioner Edward L. Hearn of the K. of C., has had engineers assigned to him by the Vatican to carry out the work. The gymnasium and playground will be completed, it is expected, by the late autumn. In the meantime the K. of C. welfare work is being carried on at various centers throughout the city of Rome, with the personal approval and assistance of Pope Pius.

IRON AND STEEL.

HIBBING, Minn., June 1.—Iron ore shipments from state-owned mines for the week ending May 19 amounted to 141,598 tons.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 1.—Bars, plates and shapes are on the United States Steel Corporation level of prices. A few weeks ago these products commanded premiums. Bars are quoted at 2.40 cents and plates and shapes at 2.50 cents. Heavy melting scrap iron has sold at $22 a ton delivered. The peak price a few weeks ago was $27@27.50.

ROCK ISLAND REPORT.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Net revenue Chicago Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company for April was $1,309,263, compared with $1,547,293 in the preceding month and to $1,341,432 for the corresponding month last year, it was announced today. Balance of income, after deductions, totalled $49,905, compared with a deficit of $153,007 in March and a deficit of $332,200 in April, 1922.

Inca Mummy Is Discovered In Argentina

CHRISTIANA, June 1. — (By the Associated Press.)—The remains of a settlement estimated to be at least 7000 years old has been unearthed at Holmegardsmos, Denmark. Numerous [illegible] implements, bone harpoons, arrow heads, grindstones, chisels and tooth spears were discovered. No human bones have been found, but the excavators uncovered skeletons of several animals.

BUENOS AIRES, May 29.—(By the Associated Press.) — A perfectly preserved mummy, believed to be that of an Inca Chief, has been unearthed from a hill in the province of Saltan Argentina, near the Chilean border. It was brought here today together with many implements and artistic carvings and art objects of stone, copper, earthenware and onyx which were buried with it. The discoverer, Senor Leonardis, said he found the mummy sealed in a large earthen jar after he had carried out excavating work to a depth of six feet.

The teeth, the nails, and most of the hair of the ancient chieftain are in a perfect state of preservation, as are the vital organs, indicating a method of embalming that may be superior even to the Egyptian.

The [illegible] implements, fashioned in copper, and also copper receptacles, carved heads of cats, monkeys and other animals, parrots and serpents.

The methods used to unite the different parts of the implements suggest handiwork like that of the Egyptians.

Senor Leonardis has presented his find to the National Museum.

Summer Session

Typing Class to Open

BERKELEY, June 1.—An opportunity to learn shorthand and typewriting will be given to high school students during the coming summer session at the University. The classes are open to any high school student who is recommended for the work by his principal. The classes will be small, and they will be under the general supervision of Dr. Beygrau of New York City. Dr. Beygrau will conduct a course for teachers of typing. The members of the course are advanced students, and therefore, in each case, the instruction will be of great value to the pupils.

Since the enrollment in the demonstration classes, as the high school classes are called, is limited, any high school student who wishes to take advantage of this opportunity should notify the summer session office as soon as possible.

'FORGIVENESS' TO BE SUBJECT OF EASTERN DRIVE

GLOUCESTER CITY, N. J., June 2.—The country has just finished celebrating "Boy Week," "Music Week" and a lot of other weeks. The latest is "week celebrations" will begin here June 17, when "Love Thy Enemy Week" will open. Every pastor in the city has been asked to preach on the subject and every resident has been asked to hunt up his enemies and extend the hand of friendship and forgiveness or fellowship.

Mayor McNally has sanctioned the week of "forgiving."

The Modern Aladdin's Lamp

The "DX" Receiver

This receiver is a single circuit regenerative set, employing the same circuit as is used in the Grebe CR-5, one of the best known sets in the country. It has been designed especially for radiophone reception, and has a receiving range under normal night-time conditions of 900 miles.

All parts are mounted on a bakelite panel. It uses the Westinghouse WD-11 vacuum tube, or "peanut tube," and therefore does not require a storage battery.

The set comes "knocked down," with full instructions for assembling and wiring. The panel is already drilled to fit the instruments, and the only tools necessary to put it together are a screw-driver and a pair of pliers.

The "DX" Receiver is complete in every sense of the word. Both the "A" and "B" battery, the vacuum tube, and a pair of Frost or Murdock 2,000-ohm phones are included. A "DX" Receiver is on display at all times at the E. M. Sargent Co., 1200 Franklin Street, Oakland.

MACKELLAR TO APPEAR HERE IN 'THE STORM'

Broadway Star Will Open Oakland Season at Fulton June 17.

Helen MacKellar, one of the best known of the A. H. Woods stars, left New ork today to come to Oakland for a special starring season, according to word received by Geo. Ebey, managing director of the Fulton theater.

[illegible] closed a successful season in "The Masked Woman," in which she was supported by Lowell Sherman, will open her season here June 17 in "The Storm," the play by Langdon McCormick, in which she starred three years ago and which was rated as one of the most spectacular melodramas produced in New York.

Prior to appearing in Oakland, Miss MacKellar will go to San Francisco for a week in "The Storm." The repertoire of the star here will include her four most successful plays, "The Storm," "Back Pay," "The Masked Woman" and "Lawful Larceny."

George MacQuarrie will head the supporting company.

In honor of 101st anniversary of General Grant's birth, CAPTAIN BAYARD ALBERTSON, New York, unfurled the flag carried by his greatuncle through the Civil War.

FRED EMERSON BROOKS, NOTED POET, SUCCUMBS

Man Who Won Fame for the State Dies From Sudden Heart Attack.

Fred Emerson Brooks, poet, lecturer and traveler, died at midnight at his home, 2535 Hillegass street, Berkeley. Although he had been ill for some weeks, Brooks' convalescence was so assured that his family did not entertain fears for his ultimate recovery. A sudden heart attack caused his death. A widow, Mrs. Emma Brooks, and two daughters, Mrs. Albert S. Wheeler of New York and Mrs. Marion Tregidgo of Vallejo, survive.

Brooks was widely known [illegible] verse. Since his residence in the bay cities he has contributed largely to the Oakland TRIBUNE. A Fred Emerson Brooks club was organized in Oakland in 1916 to secure what the members believed proper recognition to the poet and acceptance by the legislature of his poem "California" as official state verse. Judge E. M. Gibson was president of the local organization. Similar clubs were organized in Alameda, Berkeley, Lodi, San Jose, San Francisco and Isleton, San Jose San Francisco and even as far south as San Diego.

Born in Waverly, New York, Brooks was 74 years old. During the past 14 years he had made his home in the Eastbay cities. Some 30 years ago he made his first residence on the coast, returning to the east, however, for a time. He was a popular entertainer on the Lyceum circuit, with which he was associated for many years. In 1917 Brooks made a tour of the United States, presenting his California poems.

Brooks was a graduate of Colgate University in the class of 1873. He was the first of college men to be offered a salary in professional baseball. His father, William Brooks, [illegible] making a hat from felt; and as the inventor of the car coupling which succeeded the link coupling; the forerunner of the vacuum cleaner in separating dust from carpets; and the safety pin.

The Speech Arts Association of California of which he was a member, made much of Brooks and his work. On several occasions he was named poet of the Grand Army of the Republic at their National Encampments. He was poet for the Society of the Army of the Potomac.

"California," one of his best known verses on the coast, was the official poem of the Panama Pacific Exposition. Brooks claimed among his personal friends during an eventful life: Cardinal Gibbons, Theodore Roosevelt, General Nelson others.

A movement was started some years ago in the interest of a proposed bill to be introduced before Congress naming Brooks the national poet laureate.

Brooks was a member of Cresent Lodge, No. 402, F. and A. M., and of a long list of literary organizations. He published many collections of verse. His newest work was "The Grave Digger."

During the past year Brooks had been in ill health. Three weeks ago he was stricken with pneumonia, from which he was apparently recovering.

HUSBAND DENIES WIFE'S CHARGES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Charging that his wife had made a practice of caressing and kissing other men in restaurants and cafes of San Francisco, San Mateo and Oakland, and that she disported herself in pink pajamas while in the presence of another man, Andrew L. Kerr yesterday filed an answer to the suit for divorce brought by his wife, Mrs. Leonora Kerr.

Kerr further charges in his complaint that his wife asked him for $20,000, threatening to sue for divorce if he did not give her that amount.

Kerr denies his wife's charges of cruelty, and denies that he told her he would be glad to go to her funeral. He also denies that he was too friendly with another woman.

DOCTOR CAN USE HIS HOME OFFICE HOURS

Permission to go to his home, where his office is located, for four hours daily, between 2 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and again between 7 and 8 in the evening, was granted to Dr. Wallace L. Meyers, physician of Hayward, who appeared in Judge Koford's court today to show cause why he should not pay alimony.

Mrs. May Meyers brought suit against her husband several weeks ago asking for $500 a month alimony and $1500 for attorney's fees. Judge Koford allowed her a temporary alimony of $200, $100 and $250 on account for attorney's fees.

Testifying in court this morning, Dr. Meyers said his offices were located at his home, where Mrs. Meyers resides, and that it would be impossible for him to secure offices elsewhere in Hayward that would be suitable. He asked that he be allowed to continue his practice at the office established in Mrs. Meyers' home.

Mrs. Meyers did not object to the exclusive use of the office space, but did object to the court to her husband going to the kitchen to sterilize his surgical instruments. Dr. Meyers said he could provide an electric sterilizer for the purpose. He was then instructed by Judge Koford to stay away from the house except during the hours specified.

Mrs. Meyers charged in her suit that her husband had become attached to another woman and that when she asked him about it he boastfully admitted that the "other woman" was "a mighty fine little woman" and that he "liked her."

The "other woman" has not as yet been revealed in the proceedings.

DECEPTION IS CHARGED TO 6 RAIL HEADS

Counsel Says Government Ownership Not Purpose of Conference.

CHICAGO, June 1.—(By the Associated Press)—Donald R Richberg, general counsel for the railroad valuation conference held here by a "progressive" group last week, charged six railroad presidents with "dragging the stale red herring of government ownership across the railroad highway" in an answer issued last night to the charge by the presidents that the real purpose of the conference had been the furtherance of government ownership of the railroads

"The real issue which they evade is whether they shall be permitted to turn watered stock, unearned increments and other fictitious values into a mortgage of $10,000,000,000 against the American people, payable in hard cash through an increase of $500,000,000 annually in freight charges," Richberg said.

He said it is because the railroads are opposing valuation on the basis of actual investment and are seeking to establish claims for reproduction cost, unearned increment, capitalization of land grants, "going concern" value and other items that bear no relation to genuine investment, that the conference had found it necessary to assert the public interest

"The six presidents declare 'that the best available measure of the investment is the cost of the roads and equipment as shown by their books, and this exceeds $20,000,000,000'" he said Ever since the first efforts at rate regulation, State railroad commissions, the interstate commerce commission and the supreme court have repeatedly denounced the investment accounts as shown in the books of the railroads as unreliable grossly inflated and wholly unrepresentative of the facts of actual investment.

"The six presidents imply, but do not assert, that the railroads are only seeking a valuation of approximately $20,000,000,000. They dare not make such an assertion even in a newspaper statement. They know that if they committed the railroads to seeking a valuation of only twenty billion dollars they would lose their jobs.

"When labor organizations demand higher pay the railroad presidents clamor about increased operating expenses, and consequently excessive rates. But when governors, senators, representatives and shippers demand a reduction of excessive charges for capital, the railroad presidents fly to the defense of these high wages"

PARK BOARD IS CONSIDERING UNIT

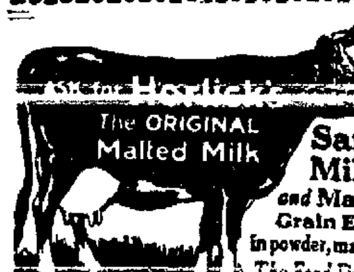

RICHMOND, June 1. —The parks and playgrounds commission of the city of Richmond met yesterday and discussed the matter of acquiring a unit in the area bounded on the north by Barrett avenue, on the East by Sixth street, on the south by Chanslor avenue and on the west by Third street. Chairman John A Miller says there is a plot to be had at a cost of $6300 This will provide a park for little tots and their shopping mothers.

Recently the city bought a tract from the John Nicholl company paying $60,000 for it There now is a balance of $90 000 available for the purchase of nine small units to complete the system authorized by the $150 000 bond issue. Other members of the commission are Mrs Earl Scofield Larkin J. Younce, Carl Alexander and Mrs Madge Ripley, the last named being secretary.

NEWS and GOSSIP
FROM STAFF VRITERS AT HOME AND ABROAD

LOS ANGELES June 1—Automobile and automobile accessory thieves are doomed in Southern California. Officers in nearly every city in the southland have declared war on this particular variety of bandits While an automobile thief makes a great haul when he succeeds in taking a machine and selling it, stripping an automobile of various "parts" and tires has been found, it is claimed to be almost equally as profitable and with much less hazard.

Deputy sheriffs in Southern California have been instructed to launch a concentrated drive against petty thieves who strip machines as they stand beside the road. The officers were told also not to hesitate to shoot if the bandits showed signs of fight. The campaign Harry Wright, deputy in charge of the theft bureau of the sheriff's forces, says was decided upon because of the brazen activities of the bandits, who have become so numerous that stringent methods must be taken

It has been estimated by deputy sheriffs that approximately $1 000 000 worth of accessories are stolen from automobiles annually in Los Angeles alone. It has been pointed out that an accessory thief will strip a machine and then dispose of the parts at a price far below the market price

One gang of such robbers was interrupted near the Los Angeles river recently When observed by deputy sheriffs they were busily engaged in stripping a new machine of all the parts they could get loose and dispose of easily The officers pounced down upon them as they tried to escape and in a gun battle that followed one of the thieves was shot He was captured, but three others escaped

"Auto accessory bandits' have become so menacing in Southern California that should an autoist experience a serious breakdown while on such highways as the ones leading south to San Diego and the one north to Santa Barbara he hardly dares to leave it to go to a nearby town for repairs for fear little will be left of the machine when he returns

It is a habit of such thieves to lurk along the highways and strip cars which may have been wrecked while the driver has gone for assistance

It has been charged by the officers that a number of independent oil station operators purchase such stolen articles and dispose of them at a low price still at good profit

Motor meters especially are easy prey for the thieves Spare tires which are not locked on are also easy However, it is claimed that the modern accessory thief goes equipped with large shears and files and in many instances can remove an extra tire though it may be locked Stop lights spot lights and innumerable other parts are easy loot for the accessory thief

The official report to date this year shows that out of 1358 automobiles reported stolen 86 have been recovered

DEVIL DUST

A Story of the World Wide Traffic in Narcotics

By GEORGE C. HENDERSON

Colonel Curtiss Dall, millionaire opium importer, and Ho Fat Sen, master dope smuggler, are disturbed in their plans by the voice of Eleanor May Cullen, who has eavesdropped. Both plan to silence her.

Dall, shadowing Eleanor, learns that she is the "Black Angel," an anonymous philanthropist.

Eleanor awakens standing over the body of Gerald Patton, is suspected of murder, the police arrive and, through Dall's aid, she takes refuge on the yacht Typhoon.

She hides successfully from the police, suffering for want of Dr. Monroe's stimulant. Curt Dall provides her with the medicine.

Dall takes Eleanor away on the Typhoon, makes love to her and is repulsed, but is obliged to appeal to him for the "white pills," calling him to her in the night to relieve her suffering.

Ted Seaton, in San Francisco, discovers the conspiracy and flies to Mexico on a smuggling expedition to raise money to pursue Dall and rescue Eleanor. In Mexico he meets Stutterin' Sam, tool of Pete Towers, dope smuggler. On landing in the United States with a cargo of dope Ted is arrested, then is rescued and forced to return to Towers, as he is a fugitive from justice. He pretends to join Towers, discovers his dope traffic secrets and leaves for Hongkong with Sam on a mission for the smuggler.

Eleanor and Dall are married in Honolulu. He asks her to paint his portrait. A mysterious stowaway, Chub Bobbit, comes aboard. He is the same fat hobo Eleanor saw on Dall's estate. In order to prevent her from revealing his identity Bobbit shows Eleanor that Dall has made her a drug slave.

At Hongkong the fat man proposes that Eleanor flee, but she declines. A "mysterious" person calls at the yacht, seeking her. She thinks it is a detective.

Dall reveals to Eleanor that he is out to "corner opium." She is startled when Ted Seaton comes aboard and faints from relief when he leaves without finding her. Basil Wetherwaite makes love to her as she pumps him for information concerning the Chinese opium traffic.

Ted, disguised as a pirate, tries to fight his way aboard the Typhoon, seeking Eleanor, but is beaten off.

Eleanor faints from relief when Ted leaves the Typhoon without trying to reach her after he discovers she is aboard. When Dall picks her up an Italian stiletto falls from her bodice on the floor.

Wetherwaite reveals secrets of Chinese opium traffic.

His tale of trip through China's poppy fields is interrupted when "pirates" try to board the Typhoon but are beaten off. Eleanor suspects the "pirate" is Ted Seaton. Dall falls in love with his wife.

Ho Fat and Dall discuss opium monopoly war scheme. They plan secret visit to Macao factory.

Eleanor visits a hop den in Macao and sees Stutterin' Sam.

Eleanor visits an opium factory. Ted Seaton blocks the return to the Typhoon but does not see her. Chub Bobbit undertakes to dispose of Ted.

Ted continues to seek Eleanor. Stutterin' Sam, in a hop den, drunk on opium, reveals that Towers framed his arrest at San Jacinto.

Sam tells of seeing a girl, whom Ted immediately suspects is Eleanor. The port authorities verify this and he takes up his post near the Typhoon anchorage to await her coming. A fat man tells him Eleanor wishes to see him and leads him away. They fight, both are arrested; the fat man bribes himself free. Ted goes toward Macao jail.

Stutterin' Sam bribes Ted's captors. Ted finds the Typhoon has sailed. Sam reveals that Ho Fat Sen has been buying opium. Ted reasons that Ho Fat is with Dall and that both are bound for Calcutta. He pursues.

Eleanor and Dall board the Typhoon without meeting Ted. Bobbit runs after battle, much battered. Eleanor works on Dall's portrait. Arriving in India, they go to Benares.

Eleanor and Chub visit Dr. Haupt to undertake her cure. At the hotel Eleanor sees Ted Seaton watching her husband.

Again they escape Ted and visit the poppy fields, where Wetherwaite reveals secrets of opium culture. Wetherwaite says to Mrs. Dall: "I admire you. If you ever need a friend, call on me."

Ted comes for Eleanor. She is forced to tell him that she is married. He persists. She confesses she is a hophead.

Eleanor and Ted both are hard hit by her confession. Ted finds Sam coked up, cleaning his guns. He finds an empty shell on the floor. Sam refuses to account for it. Ted boards the Typhoon, hides in Eleanor's cabin, overhears Dall say Ho Fat is missing, concludes Sam killed him, and confronts Eleanor after Dall leaves.

CHAPTER 48.

Ted Plays a Part.

Eleanor May sank on the bed with her hands clasped to her heart at sight of him, but she made no outcry, as he had feared she would.

She opened her mouth to speak, but no words came. She had thought that the ordeal was over, after she withstood him there in the garden of the Calcutta hotel. Now she found that her victory had been a temporary respite.

The peril of the situation was redoubled. If Dall discovered this man in her room his wrath would be unbounded. He might attack Ted then and there. She understood how ruthless he was.

Seaton was the first to speak.

"I have thought it over," he said. "I think I understand everything. He was to blame. He introduced you to the drug. You took it innocently. He has engineered this whose dastardly scheme for the purpose of making you marry him.

"You must come away with me, Eleanor. I am armed. When the ship is quiet and only two watchmen are at the gangway, you can walk out there in the moonlight. That will cloak my movements. I can slip up on them. I will hold them up. I need not shoot, Eleanor. They will put up their hands. We can escape together."

He spoke rapidly vehemently. She tried to interrupt him, but he continued:

"You can be cured, Eleanor. Drug addiction is a disease, not a crime. I should have recognized that. I was a fool ever to let you go."

"No, no, Ted," she protested. "You must be mad to think of such a thing. I am married. I cannot go with you like this. It would be righting one wrong with another. I will stay with Dall."

"You are making a martyr of yourself," asserted Ted. "I cannot permit it."

She lowered her head.

"No, I am not," she said, speaking uncertainly. "You are wrong."

"I do not understand your attitude," said Seaton, cooling off a bit and regarding her critically. "You love me. You say so, at least, by your actions. You told me that once. We were to be married. And yet you will not leave this Dall."

"You must go, Ted. Please do not ask me to explain. Think what will happen if you are found here."

"And yet you know Dall is a damned opium dealer," said Ted brutally.

Eleanor rose to her feet and took a quick step toward him.

"How—how do you know that?" she asked incredulously.

"I didn't until you just admitted [illegible] ter to remain with this hop peddler?"

She caught his hand and held it.

"Ted, you must never tell this," she pleaded. "It is a secret. It would ruin everything. I cannot imagine how you found out. Promise me you will not tell."

Ted walked toward the stateroom door. His face was set sternly and his eyes were cold.

"I did not understand after all," he snapped. "You really love Dall. You want to protect him. You know he is a scoundrel and yet you ask me to save him."

She flew to the door and barred his path.

"Please, Ted, please try to understand," she cried. "Won't you trust me? It is something I cannot explain. If you ruin Dall, everything is lost. All my sacrifices—"

She hesitated when she saw Ted whirl on her at the word.

"Your sacrifices!" he exclaimed.

"I do not mean that," she objected. "I mean my plans."

"You have broken faith with me," declared Seaton, angrily. "I cannot understand you. I will go."

Eleanor turned the door knob and pushed it ajar.

"I will have Dall in the drawing room," she said. "You wait here until the coast is clear. Then [illegible]"

And with that she was gone.

Ted stared out of the stateroom window thoughtfully for some minutes. A look of determination swept over his features.

He opened the door and stepped boldly on deck.

Several Chinese sailors came directly toward him. He paid no attention to them. Instead he walked to the drawing room entrance and halted there for a few seconds, looking in.

It was rather an unusual spectacle upon which he gazed and an entirely unexpected one to him.

Eleanor May stood before a great easel in one corner of the salon, painting. She wore a smock and she boasted all the necessary paraphernalia in her profession. Posing grandiosely in an easy chair was the master of the yacht Typhoon, the subject of the oil painting, Colonel Curtiss Dall.

"You are nervous, Eleanor," Dall was saying. "Are you excited about something?"

Ted noted then that the brush wavered in the girl's hand.

"No, no," she replied hastily. "I am not nervous."

"But I cannot understand your wanting to paint at this time of night."

She ceased work and looked toward her husband.

"Remember, Curt, what you promised. You said if I would finish this you would pose whenever I asked you."

"Oh, I know, I know," replied Dall, "I have no objections."

"Pardon me," interrupted Ted, speaking quietly.

Eleanor wheeled as if she had been struck. Dall jumped to his feet, voicing an involuntary oath of surprise.

Seaton advanced into the room leisurely, smiling, apparently oblivious to the sensation that he had created.

"I am at a loss to understand this intrusion," said Dall sharply, confronting the youth in the middle of the room.

Ted debouched to the corner where the easel stood. He ignored the Colonel's wrath.

"What a wonderful portrait, Dall," he exclaimed. "How are you, Miss Cullen? I missed you when I came aboard at Hongkong."

He moved close to Eleanor and extended his hand. She met his eyes boldly, indignantly, then lowered her head. He held her fingers tightly.

"I didn't know you were touring with Dall," he continued pleasantly. "You have everyone guessing, you know." He sauntered over to Col. Dall. "When I was aboard the Typhoon at Hongkong I understood you to say you were traveling solitaire? I consider it an unfriendly act, concealing Miss Cullen's presence from me."

Ted's effrontery astounded the yachtsman. The Colonel raised his arms helplessly, and looked at Eleanor for an explanation. The girl apparently was equally puzzled.

[illegible] walking up and down in front of Dall's portrait, scrutinizing it from various angles. He stepped back to a far side of the salon, cocked his head to one side and regarded the canvas critically.

"A marvelous likeness, Dall," he declared. "Marvelous."

He beamed on the Colonel. Then apparently for the first time he saw the chagrin in his face. It sobered him. His glance shifted to Eleanor. The consternation written on her countenance also evidently puzzled him.

"Well, you are a happy couple," he exclaimed. "This is no kind of a welcome to extend to a friend from the old home town."

"Just how did you come here without being announced?" queried Curtiss Dall coldly.

"I walked in," declared Ted, nonchalantly. "I didn't expect to collide with a couple of icebergs. Really as compatriots you are quite a frost. I'll trot along and get an overcoat. This atmosphere is too frigid for me."

Dall's foot touched a call button on the floor near his chair. Two Chinese sailors appeared at the door.

"What is your hurry, Seaton?" asked the big man casually. "Be seated. Since you choose to make this midnight call, you might as well stay a while. You must pardon me if I appeared surprised. It is not customary for people to intrude on my yacht without invitation."

It was Seaton's turn to be puzzled. Dall's attitude had changed too quickly. In one moment he was angry and in the next suave and hospitable.

"Miss Cullen's secret is safe with me," he said gravely, "I believe that is what disturbs you. I know she is innocent quite as well as you do, Curt. I think you did very wisely in taking her away. It would have been fruitless for her to go to jail. Feel no alarm, Eleanor. I would say nothing for the world."

"I do not quite understand, however, how you came aboard," said the Colonel. "It is rather a queer coincidence that you followed the Typhoon from Hongkong."

"And yet it was a coincidence," insisted Ted. "I am globe trotting. And when one globe trots, one may bob up most anywhere. If my presence here is offensive to yourself and Miss Cullen—"

"Mrs. Dall, now," corrected the Colonel.

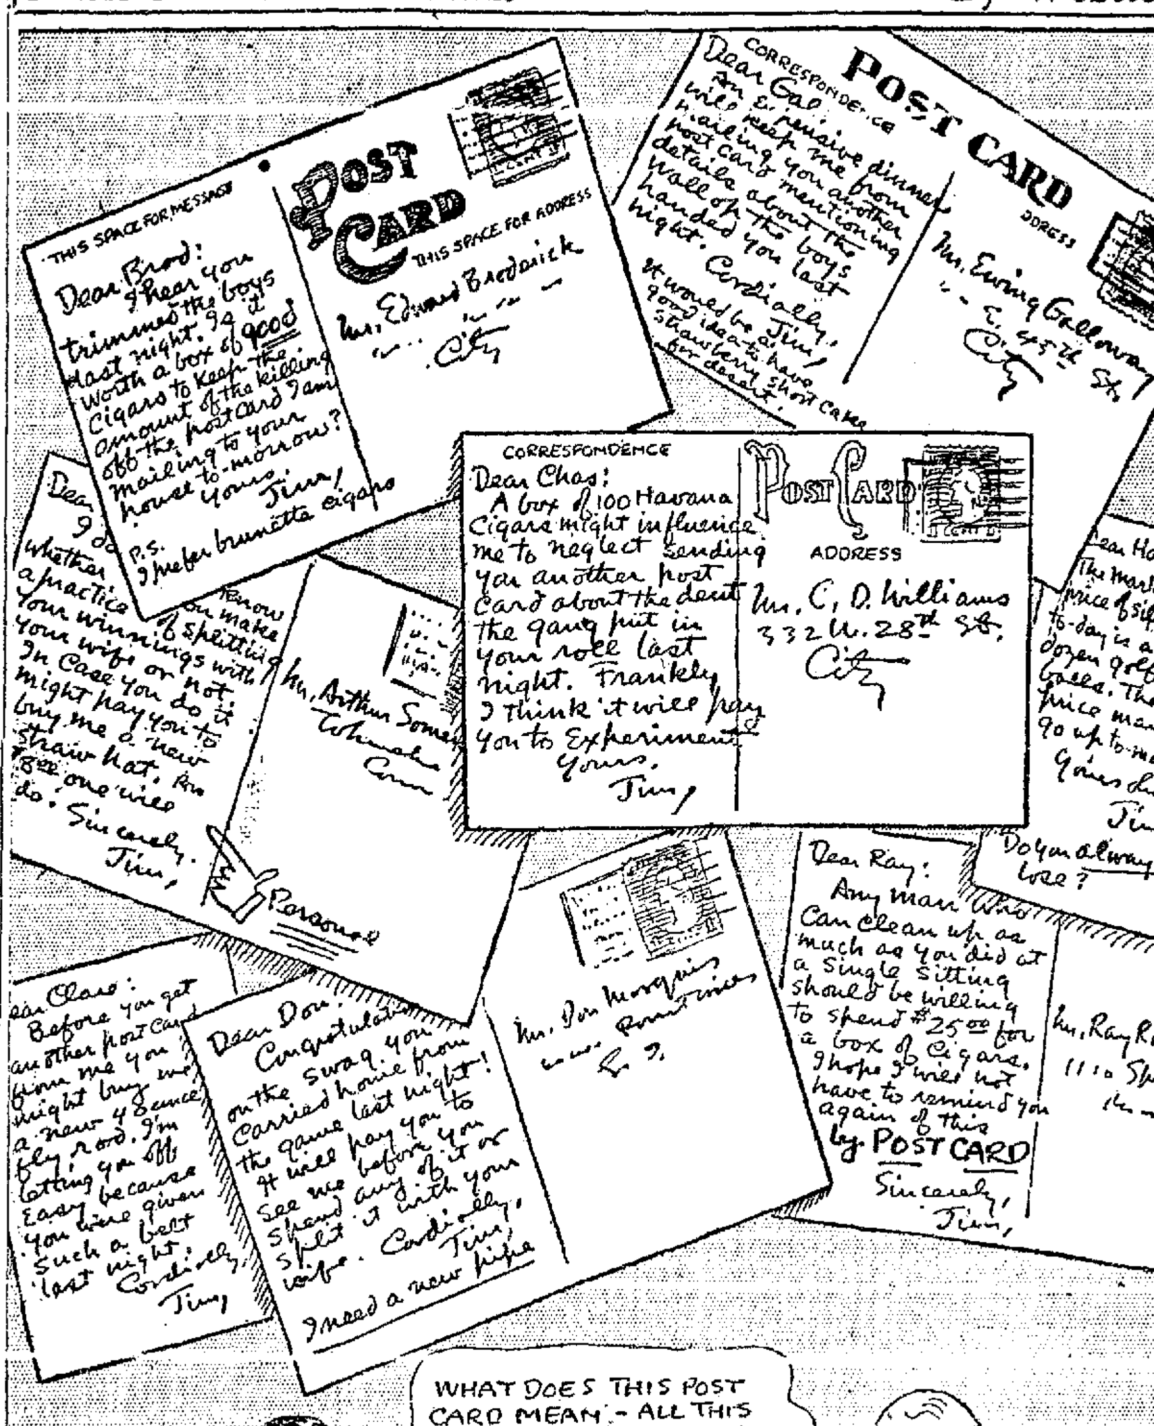

Ted glanced toward Eleanor. She was toying with a brush and regarding him reproachfully. As he watched her he saw her eyes turn toward the door of the stateroom. She took a step forward, speechless, pointing.

Stutterin' Sam, the killer of Ho Fat Sen, poised unsteadily in the doorway.

A Red Man With a White Soul

A True Story of Early California

By Dorcas James Spencer

The amazing density of the unbroken pathless forests provided forage, shelter, refuge and escape for the natives. The great living trees, the masses of dead and fallen timber, with an impenetrable undergrowth, fortified and defended the natives, and made white men unable to cope with them. Appeals to the government were in vain. The civil war in the east came on with overwhelming demands. Federal help was impossible, except by promises to pay volunteers on the ground. The difficulties of transportation made their provision a matter of extreme uncertainty, and added to the hardships of the men.

Humboldt county, with an area larger than some states of the east, the ocean on one side of its entire length, and otherwise surrounded by mountains, was peculiarly isolated. Communication by sea was infrequent and irregular; by land, practically impossible. An order from Washington could not reach these outposts in less than six weeks, if no mail connection was missed. So the Indian war was fought to a finish, as best it might be, by both races.

The subdued and decimated tribes, in their terror, hid away in the depths of the great forests, keeping settlers in fear of the destructive raids they were no longer able to make. Like a smothered fire, their craving for revenge smoldered in its impotence, threatening to blaze at any spark of aggravation or current of ill will. Thus for another five years these larger valleys prospering in a qualified state of peace, yet watchful of danger; the wretched natives, remnants of many tribes, driven to the inaccessible refuge of uninhabited mountains. In the last two years the volunteer force was enabled by state aid to be in continuous service, and by deployment of their men force a surrender of the Indians.

Among the widely scattered farmers there were many to whom the outrages perpetrated by desperate white men had be... revolting, but in their remoteness they were helpless even to create a sympathy for any Indians.

It is difficult to realize all the influences contributing to the racial antagonisms of that time. Among the earliest settlers had been men of the southwestern frontiers, backwoodsmen, unable to join the Confederate forces in the Civil war, cordially hating the conquering foe, whose occupation of their native states had caused them to seek another. They thought Indians an encumbrance on the soil, with no rights whatever, and not even property of others as cattle might have been. Naturally, as a colored race they were subject to whites, and must sooner or later get out of the way. The many little halfbreeds found among very young Indian girls were adding to their number and justified the killing of Indian children, or condoned it. As they belonged to no one, there was no loss when Indians disappeared.

A kind-hearted Dutchman had taken up a few acres of land and took into his cabin two Indian boys, giving them home and employment. An Indian had been guilty of some depredation on a white man's property, and at once an organized but fruitless hunt had been made for him. The Dutchman, fearing that serious results might follow, proposed to the injured party, "If you will call in your men, my boys can go out and find the man you want." They did so, and the guilty Indian was shot for his crime; his captors were shot because they were Indians, and the [illegible] cause he had harbored Indians.

A young man hearing the matter discussed, indignantly exclaimed, "If I was an Indian I'd burn white men's houses, and the rising smoke would tell it to others as their fires always do."

He was promptly warned that "he would get what the Dutchman got, if he talked that way."

Household HINTS

Vinegar.

Hot vinegar will remove paint from windows.

A few drops of vinegar added to the water when boiling fish will make the fish firm and white.

Vinegar rubbed into the hands after a great deal of washing has been done will keep them soft and prevent cracking.

School Hankies.

Most children are hopeless when it comes to keeping track of their handkerchiefs. Buy a yard of cotton material and cut it into squares. This can be hemmed neatly on the sewing machine and used for school use. The linen ones will then be available when needed.

Will Stay Shiny.

Wrap the silver in waxed paper when you are putting it away for any length of time and it will not tarnish.

When Manicuring.

Lemon juice in hot water will remove stains from the fingers and nails and loosen the cuticle better than a sharp instrument.

Child's HISTORY of the HUMAN RACE

By Ramon Coffman

RALEIGH'S HISTORY OF THE WORLD.

The "Tower of London" is really made up of a group of towers. This picture shows the tower where Raleigh was kept for 12 years.

Many a true tale might be told about the Tower of London. For almost a thousand years, it has been used by English rulers as a kind of "safe deposit vault." Instead of containing money or jewels, it has been used to hold human beings—persons whom the rulers thought dangerous.

The real reason that Raleigh was put in the Tower was this: King James feared him, because he was [illegible] was afraid to let him be killed just then, but was not afraid to put him in prison.

Raleigh was unhappy to be shut away from the world, but he did not lose heart. His will was firm and he decided to make the best of his life in prison.

One thing he did was to write. Among other things, he wrote what he called a History of the World. It was published as a book and King James read it. The king thought it did not show enough respect for rulers. He tried to stop its sale.

I cannot say very much in favor of Raleigh's history. It is almost all about wars and generals—as if that were the chief part of history! There is one chapter, however, which is very fine. It speaks of how important it is for people to be truthful and to keep faith with one another. There is a lesson in that for every one of us. If we could only learn to tell the truth always this would become a happier world.

Besides writing, Raleigh did some work on chemistry. He tried to see what would happen if different chemicals were mixed. This work he carried on in the prison hen-house!

By a great gift of fortune, Sir Walter was allowed to have his wife come to the Tower and live. [illegible] with the man she loved than to remain outside without him.

The end of Raleigh's life is sad indeed. After staying in prison for 12 years, he was allowed to lead a voyage to South America in search of gold. The trip was a failure because some Spaniards blocked the way.

On his return to England, the king accused him of "making war on Spain." That was thought to be a good enough excuse to put him to death.

When Raleigh died at the age of 64, he left behind him the memory of a great man who had performed many a splendid deed.

My Marriage Problems

Adele Garrison's New Phase Of Revelations of a Wife

THE REASON MADGE RUSHED TO OPEN KATIE'S DOOR

Lillian gave me no time for further introspection concerning Dr. Pettit's mysterious reference to Dicky's whereabouts. With her hand compellingly on my arm she rushed me down the hall and into her room, putting me into a chair near the light and turning its illumination full upon my face.

"Lucky dear mama-in-law has the children," she commented, as she turned my bruised and grimed face up to hers. "Sit still and close your eyes until I come back. I won't be five minutes."

She lowered her own record-promise in her return, laden with a basin of warm water, soap, an antiseptic lotion, a healing unguent and plenty of soft cloths.

"Now," she said, tucking a big bath towel around my neck, "we'll have you looking like the cricket's chirp in no time. But I warn you some of this will smart."

Her warning was justified. Some of her remedies did smart almost intolerably, but though I am an arrant coward where physical pain is concerned, I set my teeth, determined not to wince, when only a few feet from my door, Tom Chester had undergone—indeed, was undergoing still—agonies which made my hurts seem the merest annoyances.

But it was over at last, and with my face feeling comfortable, and my nervous tension relaxed, I opened my eyes when Lillian gave me permission, and smiled at her.

"I feel like a new woman," I said gratefully.

Lillian tipped her head to one side, looking at me critically.

Plans in Detail

"You look like one, that is, like the militant variety used to look after having been dragged from a heckling stunt," she remarked dryly. "No," as I rose involuntarily, "you can't have any mirror. Your face will be healed over in a few days, and there's no use upsetting your vanity before then. I've something more important on hand. Tell me everything that happened since you left the house. Of course, I know you did the job, someway, but I'd like the details."

The note of pride, of absolute confidence in her voice was most gratifying, but when I finished recounting the incidents of my expedition, including Tom Chester's disablement, and my own wild ride upon the back of Smith's limousine, the loving, impetuous clasp of her arms, and her lavish commendation so rarely bestowed, thrilled me greatly and made me flush deeply.

"You brave, resourceful, idiotic girl," she exclaimed, with her arms close around me. "How easily you might have been killed! But how wonderful to think you turned the trick! That link in the chain is finished now. Sooner or later Smith will lead the way to the man we want, the wealthy, trusted, seemingly 100 per cent. American, who is the spider in the centre of this monstrous web of treachery and infamy. And if my hunch is good, Katherine is going straight to a house, which if not the home of the man we want, is that of some one very near to him."

"Turn Up the Light—"

"I wish she weren't going," I said impetuously. "I feel as though—"

"You feel as though you needed a good night's sleep to get the tremors out of you," Lillian retorted. "Of course you are imagining everything in the calendar that could happen to Katherine just now, and I don't wonder after your experience this evening. Katherine won't be in any danger—that is," she amended conscientiously—"the chances are at least ten to one of her coming through safely. And tonight you had less than a fifty-fifty. No, events are moving very smoothly. We can afford to rest on our oars a bit. Listen! Isn't that some one crying?"

I listened for a second or two, then rose abruptly.

"It's Katie," I decided. "I was afraid she'd be frightened when she awakened. Hurry, or she'll rouse everybody in the house."

I was in the hall before I had finished speaking and racing down the corridor to the kitchen wing. Katie's cries—mere whimpers at first—were becoming louder, and I knew my volatile little maid's tendency to hysteria when frightened or angry. Lillian's footsteps sounded behind me, and she had caught up to me by the time I had managed to open Katie's door.

My little maid was sitting up in bed, her hands clutching at her still swollen throat upon which Smith's brutal murderous hands had closed, her eyes wildly darting around the dimly-lighted room, her lips uttering hoarse cries, which were increasing in volume with every second. I sprang to the side of the bed, throwing a crisp command over my shoulder to Lillian: "Turn up the light—high!"

JUNE 1.

Sabbath Legislation.

A PICTURE of a Sunday of this date in the forties is significant of the stubborn opposition of Californians then and now to Sunday blue laws. See then vaqueros, mulleteers, rancheros riding to town, for the cock-fighting, monte gaming tables, the puppet show, arguardiente shops, the fandango. They pass an outward stream of creaking ox wagons with hoods of sheeting, and a spread of hides for flooring. On the hides are senoras and dark-eyes senoritas and children. Guitars, song, laughter. By the wagons canter men and boys on spirited horses. They go to a shaded dell, for fun and frolic; there will be a sham battle with egg shells filled with scented water, and perhaps a bear will be lassoed and set to fight a bull. Blue skies, strong sunlight, the twangy out-of-doors of California. The solemn Sunday of our New England cannot acclimate here. In 1847 the Reverend alcalde of Monterey tackles the Sabbath problem; raids the cock fights, the gambling halls; forbade the fandango; tries to curb the wild free spirit of California with fines and jail sentences. Thence on local ordinances from time to time tack the problem. But such restrictive enactments do not suit the temper of the people, and, as is the way with unpopular laws, they soon become inactive. In no other part of the United States, nor of the whole world, has there been so much liberty of conscience and disregard of what other people think as in California. In 1858 the state legislature closed all stores and shops of every description, exempting only eating houses and hotels, on Sundays. But the supreme court declared the act unconstitutional, on the ground that the legislature had no right to forbid a lawful occupation on any day of the week more than it could forbid it altogether. Another attempt to harness the California Sunday was made in 1881; an act was passed, and this time it got the sanction of the supreme court. But it still lacked the sanction of the people, and so fell into disuse. An effort to revive it in 1883 brought about its repeal.

On a Sunday morning this June, 1923, the people are going to the beaches, the parks, the hills, arroyos, with knapsacks, picnic baskets; going with certain promise of a cloudless day. They will not be legislated into church.

Listen, World

SHOULD Mrs. Hal Woods go to the Emporium and look for a job or brush up on her typewriting and try and find a place in an office? To be sure, she has a husband and two babies and does all her work herself, but is she failing in her duty unless she does her eight hours per behind the counter? Professor W. C. Allee of the University of Chicago thinks she is.

Professor Alee has been discussing the problem of marriage at a late age and the consequent falling off in the birth rate of children. He says that the economic conditions of today hinder the early marriages.

"We can only find the solution, in my opinion, in married women taking their place in the business and professional world and contributing their share to the family budget," he says.

"This is the only way we can get back to the basis of partnership upon which our grandmothers and gra..dfatners reared their families. In the early days there was actual work for the mother to perform, ways in which she could help in providing for the family food and clothing, and in sharing the economic burden. The married woman of today should be a wage earner, a contributor to the family pocketbook, and not live, as she does, in comparative idleness, just keeping house.

"Women's new economic status, that of a joint wage earner, is being recognized more and more," he continues. "More and more women are rearing their children and continuing their business and professional activities. Their husbands are not going forward as rapidly as heretofore, nor are they going as far, but the whole family is progressing."

What do you think of it, Friend? Her new industrial freedom and responsibilities are undoubtedly doing much for woman. The working girl is preparing herself to be a better wife and mother, and an infinitely better citizen. But when she has become a wife and mother —what then? How about the effect on the home if she tries to carry on both a professional and domestic career? Masculine nerves couldn't stand the strain. Can feminine nerves?

If you can read the following little story without a lump in your throat, have your blood pressure tested. It's a comment on the letter of the unhappy wife whose threatened desertion was stopped by the husband giving her his two weeks of vacation time every year, letting her go off for a visit while he stays home and takes care of the babies. The wife told of this state of affairs without any seeming comprehension of its unfairness. Here's the story of another life, of a life which, according to Puritanical moralists, should hae gone on the rocks but instead has worked out in lasting happiness for all.

"Dear Jerry: I want to answer that letter that was in the paper yesterday. I believe I've forgotten the woman's name, but the one who was giing us such an idea for happy home. The one who was going to leave her husband and whose husband now gives her two weeks vacation and one night each week while he stays home during vacation and takes her out during the week when he should spend his money on the vills. I don't agree with her at all, Jerry. What will those children think when they grow up? If anything happens to separate the father and the mother, the children will more than likely stick by the father as he is sacrificing much more than the mother ever will. He gives up his two weeks of vacation so that his wife won't run away. I suppose if he refuses to stay with the children after working all year his wife will also run away again and leave the children again. Then he takes her out one night a week. That is perfectly O. K. Nothing wrong, but why can't this family all go on a vacation? Why can't that woman play fair? I'm only 20, Jerry, but I can see the unfairness of her proposition. She was the one who wanted to give up the children, home and everything, and this time it was the father, not the mother, who is giving everything.

My mother ran away from my father when we were youngsters. I had a brother and one sister. Well, believe me Jerry, she took us with her and kept us by her every minute of the time, too. My Dad was mean, and he wouldn't support us or anything. He drank and abused my mother and I didn't blame her either. She was sick all the time too. Finally mother was desperate and packed her clothes and us along with it and took us away. There was a man there who stayed with us and he helped support us and mother worked too while she could. Finally she got a divorce from my Dad and married this man. He has been wonderful to us and just because my mother was away from her first husband and wasn't his wife even though we all stayed together, he has treated her with the highest respect. He knew my mother was no flapper. And every vacation we would take our little Ford and the whole bunch of us would go somewheres for two weeks. That was sometime ago. I was just 8 when all this happened and I am now 20, my sister is 24 and my brother just 16 and he expects to graduate from high next June. I am in my second year at University and my sister has graduated. My stepdad is now a successful business man and he says that he wouldn't be if it hadn't been for my mother. My own father never contributed a cent towards our support and died in an auto accident about two years ago, very highly intoxicated. Just think, Jerry, if my mother would have left us like that other woman was going to do where would we all have been More than likely in some orphan home as my Dad wasn't like that other man. And our family is now one of the nicest and best dressed family in Oakland. We also have graduated from the Ford class and have a car that runs into the 4 figures. It is some car too. We are very proud of it as we have only had it a month. Dad bought an enclosed one especially for mother. This must be all for today, but I do love your column and have more fun. We all read it every night. Usually Dad reads your column out loud while Mother embraiders and the rest of us try to study. But we all love you Jerry for your broadmindedness. More success to you Jerry from

ONE WHO HOPES TO BE MORE LIKE YOU.

Thank you, little Sister. And tonight when Dad reads the paper and comes to this part I hope that you all will feel, reaching out thru printed words to you, Jerry's love for a brave woman, a fine man, and a bunch of youngsters who were worth it all. Happy days to you, and my cheerfulest, six-cylinder grin to The New Car. Long may it rattle!

Petting Parties

I was amused—
When first I read—
That men with scientific minds—
Would try to classify the thrill—
That animates our spooning—
And scientific men are old—
And long ago should have found out—
Like I did—and you did—
By practicing the world old art—
Of making love—
For any man that's hale and hearty—
Who can't recall a petting party—
With only two invited guests—
Has missed a trick he should have turned—
For when the fleeting years have burned—
Away all youth's emotions—
Still will there linger in his mind—
The days when as a boy—love-blind—
He paid heart-felt devotion—
To many maids in many lands—
That give love's token—
Oh men of science don't you know—
As long as there are eyes aglow—
That give love's token—
That men will answer to the call—
Though nations crumble—thrones may fall—
When lips have spoken—loves decree—
A baby in its mother's arms—
Has luring charms—
That somehow we cannot resist—
Nor do we try—
Until that infant's lips we've kissed—
And baby smiles nor would deplore—
If we but took a dozen more—
It's her first petting party—
And as she grows with heart atune—
To love—each kiss a boon—
Her every day is one long petting party—
For love to babies is like rain—
That falls upon the growing grain—
It teaches her to love in turn—
So does her heart forever yearn—
Unto that day—
When youth's first warm enthralling kiss—
Makes reason sway—
And ripened years will find this Miss—
With memories of her first sweet kiss—
Oh men of science don't you know—
The glow—
That comes when red lips meet—
Makes life complete—
It started long ere Adam's time—
It's just sublime—
Although it lasts too short a time—
And when you have grown gray and old—
You'd give all of your hoarded gold—
For just one spooning party.

AN ADVENTURE

Phil Norton and Matt Jenkins were going on a vacation in the mountains. They were to start on Tuesday. It was Monday, and they had their things packed and were ready. That night, as Matt sat by the fire a knock was heard and in came Phil.

"Well, how about a long talk tonight?" he said.

"Sure," answered Matt, "what about?"

"Well," said Phil, "I read in the paper that there had been a hold-up last night and the fellow went toward the mountains. How about trying to get him?"

"I'm on," answered Matt.

tomorrow, Phil."

The next morning they were both ready at six o'clock and were off. Pretty soon they came to a little hut. They heard a voice saying, "Pretty good haul last night, eh Bill?"

"Ya bet yer life," said the fellow called Bill.

At this Phil and Matt looked to see if their automatics were in good order. They pushed open the door and hollered "Stick em up!"

The men obeyed. They were strickly drove down the mountain to the police station and the police gave them the reward of $5,000.

WITH HIS PRINCIPAL

A little boy named Fred didn't like to go to school and didn't live far from school.

One day after school he thought he would run away, so he wouldn't have to go to school any more. So that day after school he started to run away. He got three or four blocks away when a man came up to him and asked him where he was going.

"I am running away from school cause I do not like school," said Fred to the man.

Fred got about a mile from school and thought he would go back cause his mother might be worried.

All the time he was out walking with his principal!

THE RUNAWAY

Once there was a little boy named Billy. He lived with his grandpa in the country. Billy had a pet pony. This pony was very scared of cats and dogs. One day Billy went for a ride on his pony. When they were a block away the pony got scared and began to run so fast that Billy fell off the pony.

The pony kept on running and some boys caught the pony. They came toward Billy. The boys asked Billy if he knew who the pony belonged to. Billy said the pony was his.

He took the pony and went home. He told his parents the story of the runaway.

The Adventures of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy by Johnny Gruelle

Copyright by JOHNNY GRUELLE. All Rights Reserved.

RAGGEDY ANN and Raggedy Andy and Grinny Bear and the Snoopwiggy and the Wiggysnoop all felt very sorry for their friend, old Mister Hokus, the Magician; for, when the Magician tried to make his whiskers grow real nice and long like story book magicians, why! his whiskers started to grow and kept on growing until they were much too long.

Then when the Magician tried cutting them off, that made it twice as bad. Each time the Magician cut off his whiskers, they grew twice as long, so in a short time the whiskers were ten or twelve feet long.

Then, the Magician asked Raggedy Ann if she could wish all his whiskers away, but although Raggedy Ann wished so hard she ripped four stitches out of the back of her head, the whiskers did not quit growing.

THE WITCH PEEPED OUT OF A CHINK IN THE DOOR.

Instead of quit growing, the whiskers changed from the gray color they had always been to an emerald green and this was worse than ever.

"Dear me! I do not know what to do!" Raggedy Ann sighed. "I wished just as hard as I could, but I seem to have made things worse!"

"The only thing I know to tell you," Grinny Bear finally said, "is that deep in the center of the woods there lives a Witch, and maybe if we go to her she can undo the Magician's magic."

"Then we had better take poor Mister Hokus to the Witch at once!" Raggedy Andy said, "for pretty soon, if his whiskers continue to grow, they will be so long he will be unable to drag them through the woods."

"We had better start right now," the Magician said, as he stood up and stepped upon his long whiskers and fell down again.

"I know what we will do," the Snoopwiggy said. "I will take the first part of the Magician's whiskers and the Wiggysnoop the next part and Grinny Bear the next part and then Raggedy Andy the next and then Raggedy Ann the next part. In that way we can keep his whiskers off the ground so that he can walk. If we do not do that way, then someone will have to carry him." And that is the way they arranged it.

They made a queer-looking parade as they walked along and the Magician felt very sad.

They walked and walked until they came to the Witch's little tumbled down house, and the Snoopwiggy, who was in the lead, knocked upon the door.

The Witch peeped out of a chink in the door and when she spied who it was she said, "Go away from here!"

"But we came to get you to unmagic the Magician's whiskers," the Snoopwiggy said.

"I know you did!" the Witch howled. She was a mean, peevish person. "I shan't unmagic my own magic. I made his whiskers grow longer and longer on purpose because I do not wish anyone else in the woods to use magic except me."

"Then you are very selfish and unkind," Raggedy Ann spoke, "and I am sorry that we came to you. We thought you might be a little kindly witch like Betsy Bonnet String, or Missus Witchie."

"Aha!" Raggedy Ann cried, "we will take him to Betsy Bonnet String; she will help us."

Uncle Wiggily Stories by HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE BOB CAT.

Once upon a time as Uncle Wiggily was hopping through the woods, he chanced to stop for a rest. A large mulberry bush grew beside the path. And as the bunny gentleman rested there he heard, on the other side of the bushes, some voices talking.

"We can have a party," said one voice, "and the animal with the most beautiful tail will get a prize."

"Then I shall easily win the prize," barked a voice that Uncle Wiggily knew to be that of the Fox. "For my tail is finest of all."

"Nonsense!" bellowed the Skillery Scallery Alligator. "My tail is much larger and stronger than yours, Mr. Fox."

"Both of you are wrong!" declared the Wolf. "I have the best tail and I can prove it."

"My goodness! I hope they don't quarrel," thought Uncle Wiggily, hidden behind the mulberry bush. "If they get to fighting over their tails they may discover me and then—oh dear!"

But the Fox, the Wolf and the Skillery Scallery Alligator were so busy talking about their tails that they did not see the bunny rabbit gentleman.

"Now, don't forget," said the Fox at last, "we shall all be at the party tomorrow night and the animal with the best tail gets the prize."

"Who shall be the judge?" asked the Wolf.

"We'll get an old Bull Frog to be judge," barked the Fox, "for the Bull Frog has no tail and therefore he will be honest with us."

"What about the Bob Cat?" asked the Skillery Scallery Alligator. "He is sure to come to the party, but with his queer little fuzzy tail he will have no chance for the prize."

"Of course not," assented the Fox, who was very proud of his tail, which was like a dusting brush. "In fact," went on the Fox, "I think we ought not invite the Bob Cat to the party at all. He hasn't a tail worth the name. Let's leave him out."

"All right," agreed the Wolf and Alligator.

"Well," thought Uncle Wiggily walked away. [illegible] the Bob Cat, but certainly he has as good a right as any one else in his class to go to the party."

The Bob Cat won the prize.

Thinking what fun it would be if he could only hide and watch the savage animals measuring their tails, Uncle Wiggily hopped along through the woods looking for an adventure. All of a sudden he heard a rustling in the bushes and out popped the Bob Cat.

"Oh ho!" snarled the Bob Cat. "I am just in time to nibble your ears, Uncle Wiggily. Get ready for me."

The poor bunny gentleman did not know what to do until, all at once, he thought of what he had heard while hidden behind the mulberry bush.

"Look here, Mr. Bob Cat," spoke Mr. Longears, "if I do you a favor will you let me go this time and not nibble my ears?"

"What kind of a favor can you do me?" asked the Bob Cat.

"This favor," answered the rabbit, "Your animal friends are going to have a prize party but they aren't going to let you come because you have such a stubby little tail."

"Oh, is that so?" snapped the Bob Cat, trying to look at his tail, but he couldn't as it was so short.

"Now if I tell you a way to fool them will you let me go?" the rabbit gentleman asked.

"Yes," agreed the Bob Cat, "I will. Tell me how to fool that proud Fox, who thinks his is the only tail in the woods, and I'll let you go."

"Come with me," whispered Uncle Wiggily, and he led the Bob Cat to a place in the swamp where grew many of the brown plants called cat tail flags. On slender stems were round, brown fluffy things that looked exactly like tails—and they were about as large around as the Bob Cat's tail.

"Take some sticky gum from the pine tree, fasten one of these cat tail plants on your own tail and go to the party," said Uncle Wiggily.

"I will, and thank you for telling me," said the Bob Cat. True to his promise he didn't nibble the bunny's ears. And later on the rabbit heard that the Bob Cat won the prize for having the funniest tail at the animals' party. The Bull Frog laughed until he cried when he saw the Bob Cat's stuck on tail and gave him the prize which made the other animals angry.

So the bunny did the Bob Cat a favor, you see, and if the ball of string doesn't get all tangled around the little pussy's feet when he tries to make a cat's cradle, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the pepper.

The STORY of JACKIE COOGAN As Told By His Mother

To the Reader:

Jackie "Understands"

From the very first we made it a practice never to "talk films" at home. Jackie's screen life and home life were, and are, absolutely separate and distinct. It is as if his work were a garment that he tosses on and off. From the beginning of Jackie's screen success his father and I have discussed it. "It's his gift for emotion," Mr. Coogan would say.

"If it were only that," I insisted, "his talent would soon burn out. It's his brain just as much as his feeling that makes him work so well and so absolutely without strain."

"Perhaps you're right, Lil. It certainly is wonderful how he forgets his work the instant it's over. He seems to turn his brain on and off like a spigot!"

And then Jackie's father would go on to tell me some incident of the day's work which always proved, to me at any rate, that the child is not just an emotional freak whose baby years are a prelude to barren maturity.

If I thought that, I would take Jackie off the stage instantly. I have watched him as no one else has, and I see it is his brain-power that supplies ballast to his emotions. He can think a thing so hard that it becomes real for the moment. But that his mind has control over his feelings I never doubt, and I believe Jackie will not be merely an infant prodigy and fizzle out with the coming of his "teens." I believe in his mind. I believe he will go on and on as an actor, just as Mrs. Fiske has gone on without a break in her stage work since the age of three!

Let me illustrate what I mean by the mind controlling the emotions, thus keeping the whole character balanced and safe.

E. Mason Hopper, a year or so ago, was directing Jackie in a picture and told him that he must be ready to cry during the next scene. The action of this scene had not been explained to Jackie, but Mr. Hopper, being very busy, walked off without saying anything more. Jackie trotted after him. "Hey, Mr. Hopper!" he called, looking very troubled, "I can't cry in that scene unless you tell me what it's all about. Just give me the idea and then I'll cry."

The majority of screen film players who can cry to order, usually turn on the flood-gates quite mechanically, without realizing why or wherefore. Mr. Hopper had not supposed Jackie was any different from the rest. Much amused, he took the boy aside.

"Now this is how it is," said he. "You're a poor little chap with no parents, see? The one friend you had has been taken away and you're left there alone—no home, or folks, no place to go, no one to turn to. Get the idea?"

"Well—I should—say—I—DO!" said Jackie, staring solemnly into space.

Mr. Hopper went back to the set and the action continued. When it came time for Jackie to go on, and the camera-men were ready for the signal to grind, the child held up his hand.

"Wait just one second, will you?" he said to them, "I'm going to turn away a minute, and when I turn back again, you start the cameras."

And sure enough, when he "turned back again," there were the big brown eyes filled with tears just on the brink of spilling. A turn of the handle and the tears fell.

The instant the scene was finished, while the last of the tears were still wet on his face, Jackie grabbed a ball and was out in the lot yelling to another boy to "come play catch" with him.

ART CONANT, walking the highway, approached Willistown. He paused at a small stream to wash his face and hands, brushed his coat vigorously with his sleeves, and summoned again his courage. If he did not land a job in this place he was going to be hungry.

Into the office of The Willistown Courier the lad stepped. "Is the chief in?" he asked of an auburn-haired girl who greeted him with a smile.

"If it's a job," she said, "it won't do you any good. We only have one editor, who is also reporter and occasional ad chaser."

"Just the same, if you'll let me I'll see him."

Frank Wade, owner of The Courier, looked up at the youth. "Been walking around the world? Expect me to get excited, print your picture and your story, and stake you to a meal? Man, we have had a transcontinental hiker in here every morning before breakfast."

Art grinned feebly. "I did start out to see the world. Sort of had an idea I could work on a paper here and one there and make my way around. It was a good theory and sometimes it works. I need a job now, and I'm ready to settle down. Give me a chance and I'll show you what I can do."

"I've gotta man and can't use another. Let you know if anything turns up." Art walked out. At the desk he stopped and wrote his name on a piece of paper.

"Just in case there is a job," he said to the girl, "send me a [illegible] Freetown. That's my next stop. If I don't get on a paper I'll be washing dishes or something. Do you know, I wish I could work in this town."

Daisy, of the front office, smiled again.

"Newspapermen are never too down or out not to be fresh," she said, and watched him walk away. Daisy liked the confident [illegible] had stopped out on his quest.

"It wouldn't be so bad if he worked here," she decided.

In Freetown Art sat on the grass in the park and watched a man throwing food to a flock of ducks. He watched the fowl dart for the crumbs, lift their flat bills and gobble the food. They crowded and fought, but seemed to get all they needed. Art began to wish he were a duck.

Two girls from a department store sat near him opening paper packages which crackled. He moved uneasily as the pungent odor of an orange assails his nostrils. The girls ate pickles, pastry and bananas and finished by nibbling slowly on sandwiches. If they would only go away and leave a part of the sandwiches, Art thought, he could move over and no one would notice. He tried not to look at the girls, and turned around. A fat man with a heavy watch charm was sitting on a bench close by. The man smiled.

"Beats me how girls can eat truck like that and not get sick."

The lad, who willingly would have tackled a combination of charlotte russe and tripe, pretended interest.

"It does seem queer," he ventured, "all those indigestible things."

[illegible] "and let me tell you this"

—the fat man was off on a favorite subject—"they don't cook things out here the way they do back where I came from. I like the plain, substantial food, rich gravy and plenty of everything. When I have a steak I want it two inches thick and done to a turn. When I have a roast. . . ."

"Excuse me," said Art, and he walked back uptown. The world was conspiring against him.

Back in Willistown, Jim Little, editor and reporter, sat on the edge of Daisy's desk and voiced his woes.

"I only stuck around here because of you," he said. "I'm too big a man for this burg and for two cents I'd quit."

Daisy reached in her desk and counted out the two cents.

"Think I'm fooling, do you? Well, I mean it. You watch, I'll be gone in the morning. I'm off to the city and you can tell the boss."

Art Conant washed dishes for his breakfast and for three other meals before he found Daisy's note at the general delivery window.

"The boss needs a man," it said, "and maybe you will do."

"Do you think," Frank Wade asked when Art appeared again to ask for the place, "you can stick? I want a steady man who has no ideas about conquering the nearby metropolis."

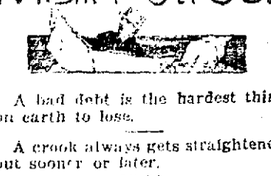

Art looked over at Daisy, and answered when she smiled.

"I'll stick all right. I like this town!"

A Bare Statement

The eminent Dr. Blank, specialist in bone and muscular diseases, was a busy man. The routine in his offices was devised with a view to facilitating the handling of cases. He had a full staff of nurses, clerks and attendants. On a certain morning a neatly dressed and diffident-appearing youth entered the outer room and told the nurse in charge that he wished to see Dr. Blank.

"Have you an appointment?" she asked.

"No, ma'am," he said.

"Then this must be your first visit?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Very well, then. Go to that dressing-room down the hall, second door on the left, and remove all your clothing, including your shoes. Presently a bell will ring and you may then enter the adjoining room where Dr. Blank will be waiting to see you."

Blushingly, the young man started to say that he didn't think all this was necessary. With an authoritative gesture the nurse checked him.

"If you really desire to see Dr. Blank you must do exactly as I tell you," she stated. "This is the invariable rule for all who call upon him for the first time."

Still protesting, the stranger repaired to the disrobing chamber. Sure enough, within a few minutes a bell tinkled, and, wearing [illegible] his embarrassment, the youth stepped timorously across a threshold into an inner room where the distinguished specialist sat at a desk.

"Well, sir," snapped the expert with professional brusqueness, "what seems to be the matter with you?"

"There ain't nothin' the matter with me," said the newcomer.

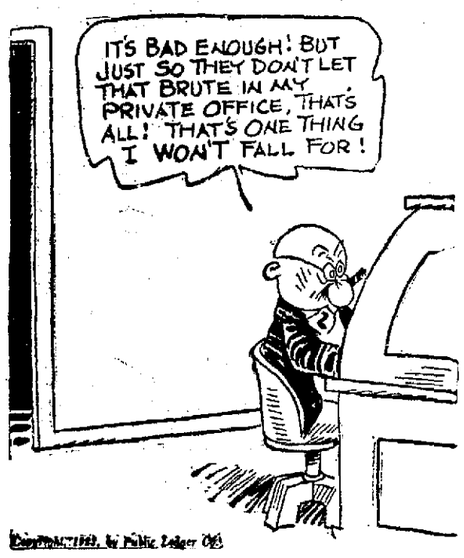

"Well, then, what do you want? What did you come here for?"

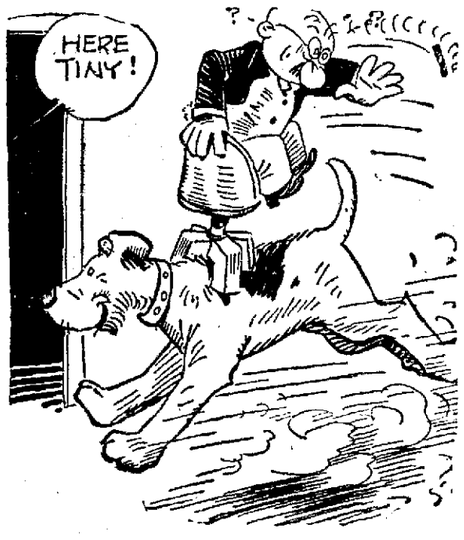

"I came," said the youth, "to see if you didn't want to renew your subscription to The OAKLAND TRIBUNE.

"Matty" Back in the Game as Bravest of the Braves

Sports World Doffs Its Hat to Plucky Pitcher of Old Who Returns to National Sport as Boston Magnate After Wonder Uphill Fight for Health

OUT of the world of box scores and batting averages, a world that interests hundreds of thousands of persons, but not quite everybody, comes a story that does interest every one.

It is the story of Christy Mathewson.

It is gripping because it has to do not only with baseball, but with life, with the welfare and happiness of a man and his wife. In it are the details of a home over which death hovered menacingly, threatening for years to shatter the romance, the romance that continued unabated after marriage, of Christy Mathewson and his courageous wife.

There was, and is, a boy, too, the son of the sick man and his wife. The boy is named for his Daddy—Christy, Jr. Today that little family stands victorious after bitter battle for that greatest of trophies—health. Not long ago Christy Mathewson, vigorous and happy, stood before several hundred business men in Boston and with good-natured raillery and banter, told them—the Boston Chamber of Commerce—what he hoped to do for Boston from a baseball point of view.

For Christy Mathewson has become president and part owner of the Braves—the Boston National League baseball team.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON had T. B. That's a rough way of putting it, but, nevertheless, Christy Mathewson had T. B. Tuberculosis crashed the career of the brilliant pitcher of the New York Giants. A neglected cold did it, a summer cold, in June, 1920. By July the "cold" had reached a stage where it became necessary for Mathewson to go to Saranac, N. Y. There he was told that "one lung was slightly affected." They put Mathewson to bed and the fifteen-year-old Christy, Jr., wondered. The woman stood by her husband's side and helped him fight his fight. It's always the way—or almost always. It was this time, in any event.

"Of course, Daddy will get well," she told sonny.

Talk about your ninth innings, three men on base, tie score, two out, two strikes and three balls—no crisis in baseball ever approached in intensity the moment when the spirit of Christy Mathewson flickered feebly and almost went out.

And then the breath of the pines and the tang of the air began to heal. Slowly, oh, so slowly, the man came back and when the buds burst into glory in the spring of 1921 a woman could be seen pushing a wheel chair about Saranac, and in the wheel chair was Christy Mathewson, smiling gamely. One of the things that had wrought this improvement was the fact that Mathewson during the preceding winter had sat on a veranda while the thermometer sank to twenty below zero. Beside him sat the quiet heroine who had married him.

SO TODAY Christy Mathewson is back in baseball.

"I knew I couldn't re-enter the game as manager," he said. "After my experience with Cincinnati and then with McGraw, I realize that managing a team is too nerve-wracking for me.

"In what way, then, could I come back except as a part owner, I asked myself," he added. "When I conferred with Judge Emil Fuchs, who used to be Deputy Attorney General of New York and long a baseball enthusiast, and this opportunity presented itself, I grasped it. So bet all the hats you can that the Braves will not finish in the cellar."

It was a cheerful Mathewson that went to Boston to meet his new neighbors. The Chamber of Commerce received him as a guest of honor at a luncheon. Mathewson spoke on a variety of subjects from King Tut to the fourth dimension and declined to be serious on any subject, even including baseball.

AT HIS hotel in Boston a few days ago, Mathewson talked frankly of his uphill fight for health. His appearance was at variance with the facts of his condition. He isn't cured; he must be very careful not to overwork; he must not apply himself too assiduously to any job. These are doctor's orders.

"But my doctor feels that if I do not become too ambitious the presidency of the Braves will be a diversion. For a time, at least, I shall go back to Saranac every fortnight; perhaps later, if I find the climate here in Boston agrees with me, I shall make my home here. Meanwhile, Mrs. Mathewson and my boy will remain at Saranac and I shall spend as much time as possible with them. In the fall my boy will go to Bucknell."

"Did you get a jolt when you first learned you had T. B.?" he was asked.

"No," he admitted. "As a matter of . I didn't know much about T. B. I figured it was something persons had. then took care of and finally cured. But during the eleven months I spent in bed I learned it was something entirely different.

"I had been in gas and flame work in France, and quite often at schools, where we gave instruction, we opened bombs for examination. We were careful, but there is no doubt the accumulated gases affected my lungs. For instance, if you stayed in this room long enough and mustard gas was released only a little at a time, eventually it would get you. So I guess I developed a susceptibility to the disease. Then I got this cold and finally it was diagnosed as T. B."

"What was the blackest moment of it all?" the reporter asked.

"I don't think there was a blackest moment," replied Mathewson. "You see, my wife didn't let me know how sick I really was until after I had begun to get better; then it was too late to worry."

Since the days when he pitched for Bucknell, his alma mater, Christy Mathewson has been famous for two outstanding characteristics: his gameness and his fairness. He fought what seemed a losing battle for his health, which had been undermined by his service to the Nation in the World War, and now he is back in harness again as head of the Boston Braves.

Then the talk turned to baseball. Had Mathewson any new ideas he intended to put into practice?

"I haven't," he confessed. "I intend merely to give Boston the very best team possible under the circumstances. Boston finished badly last year, but I believe that was because Boston had a bad start. There were many accidents to players that took the heart out of the team. You take a team with its first pitcher and catcher gone, and no matter how well the remainder of the team may play the loss is felt by everybody. The second battery isn't as good, because if it was it would be out there anyway, instead of the other pitcher and catcher. So Boston was up against that jinx and as the season went on they lost hope.

"Contrast last year with the Braves in 1914. Spirit is the thing that counts most of all. I believe spirit is 90 per cent of victory. In July, 1914, the Braves were down in the cellar. They started a winning streak that made them world champions by the end of the season. They just couldn't be defeated; they just didn't know how to lose. It was spirit."

"And what have you to say to your old Alma Mater, Bucknell?" was the final question.

Mathewson smiled.

"I guess Bucknell knows what I think of it. My boy is going there this fall. You can tell Bucknell, though, if you will, that I hope it gets its stadium. I'm strong for it."

it is difficult to fix on any one achievement in Mathewson's career as marking its peak, as his performances in the box were uniformly excellent. Back in the 1905 world series, however, he broke into page one with what to Philadelphia was distressing frequency, when he blanked the Athletics three times. He shut them out the first game by a score of three to nothing, allowing but four hits ıe Famous" One Whiffs Nine and Eddie Mulligan Falls a Victim Three Times; Maderas Shines Around Third Sack.

AILS IN RARE FORM SO OAKS TAKE FIRST VICTORY FROM SEALS

By MARTIN ROTKE.

Valter Mails had his chest expanded and his southpaw flipper ood shape yesterday at Recreation Park, and the Oaks took r first game of the series from the Seals by a score of 6 to 2. ɪn Mails threw the first ball over to Joe Kelly, lead-off man the Seals, Umpire Toman called it a ball. Thereafter Walter one excited pitcher. He whirled the ball over the platter a shot out of a cannon, and had practically the entire Trans-club eating out of his hand. Walter threw 'em over with ı cunning that nine Seals were sent back to the bench via the ɛeout route.

ɔb Geary, leading pitcher of the ‹ League, according to the ıt averages, received a dandy ing, as the Acorns nicked him ı total of 14 genuine base hits. ɛer and Maderas led the swat- with three bingles apiece, e Baker, Knight and Mails, ɪelf, garnered two each. Besides g his bit with the mace, Mas handled himself like a major ɥer around the third sack, and y fans thought they were gaz- ɪpon a second edition of Heine ι.

ʂ Score Three Third Inning.

ɔth teams failed to do anything ɪe first two stanzas, but in the 1 Oakland practically cinched ball game by crossing the pan e times. Geary fanned Smith, Maderas clicked out a double scored when Mails pasted a lé to right field. After Knight Mails to third on a long single, tt fanned and Cooper drove out ɪe-ply swat to bring in Mails. ɪer's single filled the bases, and ɣette walked, forcing in Knight the third tally.

ɪe Acorns had a chance to tally n in the fourth, but with Mas on third, Mulligan made a ɣ stop of Knight's hard-hit nder and tossed him out at for the third out. In the fifth ɪd Ivan Howard's lads scored more. After Arlett was an in-out and Cooper skied to Kelly, er singled, Lafayette walked both runners scored when ɪr lined out a two-bagger to eft field boards.

er Drives In With Double.

ɪn Francisco tallied her two ɛers in the fifth. Kilduff re- ɪd a free pass. Rhyne singled, after Agnew fouled out, Geary ɛ a lucky single to right field, ɪall taking a bad hop over Lafayette's head. Kelly's one-ply swat brought in Kilduff and Rhyne.

Lafayette's walk and Baker's second double gave the Oaks run number six in the seventh spasm. In the eighth the locals had a chance to put across a few more markers, but singles by Maderas and Knight went to waste when Arlett and Cooper were easy outs. Geary issued his fourth walk to Lafayette in the ninth, but Baker smashed into a double play to end the inning.

Mails seemed to get better inning by inning, and in the final round he whiffed Kilduff and Rhyne and forced Agnew to pop out for the final out. Eddie Mulligan fared worse than the other Seal players, and fanned the last three times at bat. Mails' performance at striking out nine men was quite an achievement, for it must be considered that the Seals are the heaviest hitters in the league.

Hagen Has 72 Card in Open Title Tourney

LYTHAM, England, June 1.—Walter Hagen, American golfer, who holds the British open title, repeated his performance of Wednesday in the northern professional golf championship by turning in a card of 72. Frank Ball of Langley Park, however, went around in one less and is tied with the American star for the lead with an aggregate of 144 for the 72 holes.

Jim Barnes had a 75, bringing his total to 148; Gene Sarazen also took 75 for a total of 149, and Johnny Farrell 78, making his total 151. Edward Ray, the British star, and Tom Walton, the home professional, also aggregated 148, while James Ockenden, Raynes Park and J. Brews of South Africa, are tied with Sarazen at 149. Jangle, another South African, was among the three who drew level with Farrell.

Angels Make It Four Over Tigers

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—Marty Krug's Los Angeles team made it four straight over Vernon yesterday, by copping a hard fought 6 to 5 contest. The Angels won the game in the ninth frame, when Jelly, pitching for Vernon, walked Byler with the bases full and two out, forcing Deal across the plate with the winning run. Hughes and Thomas did the mound work for the winners, while James started for the Bengals, and was replaced by Jelly in the seventh.

Ex-Champion Is Sued by Old Manager

Doyle Says Willard Deserted Him After He Gained Prominence.

LOS ANGELES, June 1.—Gene Doyle, formerly publicity agent for Jess Willard, heavyweight pugilist, announced here he had filed in New York a suit against his former employer for $12,000 which he asserted was due him for "services rendered."

Doyle said he persuaded Willard to attempt a comeback after being out of the ring since losing the title to Jack Dempsey in 1919 and that it was publicity which he gave Willard that brought him offers for bouts.

Willard was served with summons just before the match with Floyd Johnson at the Milk Fund bouts in New York, said Doyle.

Willard began light training at the Hollywood American Legion stadium yesterday for a bout with Luis Angel Firpo, July 7. He will continue light workouts here until Wednesday, when he will leave for Wichita, Kas., on the way to New York.

Solons Win Another From Portland Club

PORTLAND, June 1.—Sacramento defeated Portland here yesterday, 2 to 0, for the third straight time. But Prough, [illegible] Coast Leaguer, and Jim Yarrison, both twirled excellent ball, but Prough was unhittable in the pinches. Brazil smashed out three hits in four times at bat, while Cochran garnered two of the Senators' bingles.

Eight Horses Burn to Death In Track Fire

CLEVELAND, O., June 1.—Eight thoroughbred race horses and a pony were burned to death in a fire which destroyed five barns at the Ohio State Jockey Club's race track at Maple Heights, near Bedford, Ohio, late yesterday. Nearly 150 racers were trapped in the barns and that not more were lost was due to the heroism of scores of race goers and attendants, who cut the animals loose and let them run at large. Several were so badly burned they may have to be destroyed.

Those killed were well known to followers of the running race horse. They were Suslana, a 3-year-old winner of two events at the present meeting; Huron II (7), and Shortstop (8), owned by J. A. Parsons of Cheyenne, Wyo., and Long Island (4), Port Light (10), Mambi (5) and The Ulster (3) in the stables of A. S. Eastman of Toledo. All have been winners on various tracks of America. The eighth horse was unidentified.

Port Light lost his life when, after being cut loose, he ran back into the flames.

Plummer Is Pitching Well For Seattle

Indians Make It Four in Row by Defeating the Salt Lake Team.

SEATTLE, June 1.—Bill Plummer, pitching recruit from Oakland, gave the Indians their fourth straight win over Salt Lake here yesterday, by defeating the visitors, 8 to 4. Myers started on the mound for the losers, and after being pounded for five runs on the same number of hits, he gave way to Gould in the third stanza. Crane and "Brick" Eldred smashed out three bingles apiece.

Cincinnati Climbs Into Fifth Place

Reds Take the Chicago Cubs Down the Line for the Third Time.

CHICAGO, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—In winning their third straight victory over the Chicago Nationals yesterday, 3 to 2, Cincinnati advanced to fifth place, two points within St. Louis' insecure notch in the first division.

Brooklyn trounced Boston, 5 to 2, and kept ahead of the St. Louis Cardinals, who met Pittsburgh and won, 4 to 1. Wheat, leading National League batsman, failed to hit for the first time in 21 games.

Jack Bentley, of New York, won his third game out of seven yesterday, beating the weak Philadelphia Quakers, 4 to 1.

The Philadelphia Athletics were idle, but because of their double defeat on Memorial Day, they slipped into third place while Cleveland was trimming Chicago, 5 to 4.

The New York Yankees also took advantage of the Athletics' idleness and advanced farther into the league lead, trouncing Boston, 8 to 1. Wally Pipp hit safely in his twenty-first consecutive game. Detroit, however, was unable to make up lost ground, losing to St. Louis 8 to 3, because of poor pitching.

Heinie Groh, the Giants' hot corner guardian, had a good day at bat smashing out a single, double and triple in three times at bat.

JOHNNY KILBANE AND EUGENE CRIQUI MEET TOMORROW

SPALLO, ITALIAN HEAVYWEIGHT, CHAMPION, USED TO BE SPARRING PARTNER IN NEW YORK

Eugene Criqui Says He Will 'K.O.' Kilbane

French Fighter Says That He Will Stop Champion in Sixth.

By HENRY L. MERRILL,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Eugene Criqui, European featherweight champion, today announced that he would knock out Johnny Kilbane in the sixth round when they meet here tomorrow.

The 34-year-old Frenchman, who fought his way to the European championship after he had part of his jaw shot away at Verdun, said he felt fine, that he weighed 124 pounds, and that he was ready to take the title.

SOCS NOT WORDS.

Kilbane, on the theory that socks and not words win fights, refused to venture a prediction on what he would do.

"I'm the champion and I feel as good as I ever did. You know what I mean," he said.

The champion said he was also underweight and that he would spend the rest of the time doing nothing. He finished his training two days ago. Tom O'Rourke, who is staging the contest in the park of the New York Giants, said the grounds would hold 60,000 spectators and he expected to have customers hold all the seats.

DAYLIGHT CARD.

The card starts at 3:30 p. m. (Eastern daylight saving time), with a bout between Jackie McCoy and Davie Jones.

The second event will be six rounds between Al Ziemer, Kilbane's chief sparring partner, and Billy Levine.

Two eight-round bouts will then follow between Jack Sharkey and Johnny Curtin, and the semi-final will be staged between Babe Herman and Kid Kaplan, two contenders for the featherweight crown.

If all the bouts go the limit, the main event is expected to get under way not later than 5:30, and if the preliminaries do not go the full distance the final will be staged earlier.

Kilbane is ruling a 7 to 5 favorite in the betting and there seems to be very little French money on the market.

DELHI, June 1.—Sailor Steve Biss, former middleweight champion of the navy, and Kid Mexico, of Huntington Beach, fought a draw in the main event of a boxing card staged here last night.

Italian Champ

ERMINIO SPALLO, former New York boxer, now European heavyweight champion, who is careless enough to want to fight Jack Dempsey.—Copyright, Keystone.

KEDDIE.

Weather clear and warm. Fishing good in all streams. Flies, spinner and helgamites are used in Spanish, Butterfly, Black Hawk and Clear Creeks. No reports from Crystal Lake.

BELDEN.

Good sized fish being caught in all streams. Helgamites and salmon eggs good bait and some fishermen are getting results with Coachman and other flies.

BLAIRSDEN.

Weather conditions past week have been rainy and cold, with more or less wind. Fishing in all streams rather poor and few catches have been reported. Anglers are using salmon eggs and angle worms. All streams are high and clear. Roads in good condition at present and will continue to improve. Road to Gold Lake is open, but there is quite a little snow in the low places near the lake. Road to Sierra City will be open in next few days.

SPRING GARDEN.

Feather River is still a trifle high but trout are beginning to rise to the fly, Royal Coachman and the Governor being favorites. Good bait fishing in the creeks, using angle worms and shell worms.

PULGA.

Fishing not very good this past week. Weather has been cool and cloudy. No limit catches reported. Water in the Feather River is very low account Great Western Power Company working on dam at Intake and snow melting slowly.

QUINCY.

Weather has been cool with frosty nights. Streams clear and fish biting freely at worms, grasshoppers, helgamites, salmon eggs and salmon flies. Several limit catches were reported, three and four pounders being caught. Looks as if this would be the best fishing season had in the last few years.

Carpentier-McTigue Bout Is Postponed

NEW YORK, June 1.—The bout between Mike McTigue and Georges Carpentier was postponed today from July 14 to August 11 by Tex Rickard, at the request of the Frenchman, who recently injured one of his hands.

Memorial Meet To Take Place This Sunday

Shellmound Park Will Be the Scene of Festivities; Many Stars Entered.

The Frank Foster Memorial track and field meet to be held at Shellmound Park, Sunday, under the auspices of the Knights of the Red Branch, has practically smashed all picnic record entries. Competition should be keen, as all the events, with the exception of the 176-yard dash, will be handicap affairs. A total of 148 track and field men have signified their intentions of taking part in the affair in memory of the former well-known Olympic coach.

Following is a complete list of entries:

One hundred and seventy-six yards scratch—Minsky (Stanford), Silverman (H.), Ed Mancuso (H.), Smith (H.), Newhoff (O.), Hayward (O.), Sudden (O.), Williams (O.), Kirksey (O.), Drew (O.), Pyne (O.), O'Brien (O.), Merchant (O.), Ryan (H.), Bruschera (H.), McDougal (H.), Kreuger (O.).

BOXING BOUTS.

Willie Ritchie, former lightweight champion of the world, vs. Fred Murphy, former amateur welterweight champion of the United States.

Jimmy Dunning, runner-up for coast bantamweight title, vs. Ray Fee, Pacific Coast amateur featherweight champion.

Bill O'Brien vs. "Curly" Jeanseau, both of the Humboldt Club.

Boxing Bouts In Sacramento Baseball Park

SACRAMENTO, June 1.—Boxing and baseball, America's two red-blooded sports, are to be twin brothers in Sacramento's Pacific coast League park. On the Fourth of July, the knuckle dusters of the district will do their turns in Moreing Park. President Lew Moreing has consented to let Joe Maloney stage a boxing show there.

Willie Ritchie of San Francisco will be urged to meet a suitable lightweight in the main event.

Meantime the old L street arena is being enlarged to twice its present capacity.

Grist from the Sport Mill

BY BOB SHAND

ERMINDO SPALLO, otherwise known as Joe Sapola, the new heavyweight champion of Europe, wants to come over and take a crack at Dempsey for the heavyweight title and the short end of a fat purse. In Europe they are hailing Spallo as a super-fighter since he knocked out Vanderveer, the Holland champion, and there are those in Rome and Milan who honestly believe their countryman is the next champion. It has been so long since Italy had an honest-to-goodness native heavyweight that the folks over there can be excused for their exuberance, but it might be well if they were tipped off to the inside of the layout. Instead of being a native trained and developed heavyweight Spallo is a product of the New York gymnasiums. He acted as sparring partner for a number of fighters, including Jack Dempsey, and then the smart managers sent him back to Italy to become a home-town boy again. Spallo of the Bowery vs. Jack Dempsey, the heavyweight champion of the world, would not draw flies, but Erminio Spallo, heavyweight champion of Europe, vs. Jack Dempsey would look good on paper. Gents desiring to get ahead of these New York fight managers won't have to get up early in the morning. They better not go to bed at all.

Eastern Managers Are Hard to Beat.

It is just as well that a welterweight knocked out Joe White in a Havana training camp before Joe went into the ring with Luis Firpo. No matter how rank a greenhorn Firpo may be, the big South American can hit and he probably would have killed the White boy. As it was, a Cuban welterweight with only a local reputation, knocked White out twice in the gymnasium and the Havana folks got wise. Yesterday came a picture from New York showing Smith hanging a "terrific" right hand on our old pal Cliff Kramer's chin. The picture was made on the roof of Billy Grupp's New York gymnasium and was intended to convey the impression that Smith is a wonderful fighter. That's another little way the New York fight managers have. Kramer, by the way, is acting as sparring partner-in-chief at the Grupp glove works and is taking on all comers. Ultimately he expects to get into the money. Frank Dunleavy is with the big fellow.

Simpson Thinks Tom Will Worry Dempsey.

Tommy Simpson does not think that Jack Dempsey has any setup in Tommy Gibbons. Tommy does not pick Gibbons to lick the champion, but he thinks Tommy will give Dempsey a lot of trouble.

"Look up Dempsey's record and you will find that he always did have trouble with the smaller boxers. With Willard and Fulton and that kind he can level and get away with it, but it took him a dozen rounds to beat an old-timer like Brennan. Local fans may also remember that Dempsey leveled on Bob McAllister for four rounds at the late lamented Emeryville arena and he couldn't knock him out. Dempsey has got to have a target to score a quick knockout. A fighter who "gives" with the punches and bobs like Meehan, for instance, will always cause Dempsey plenty of grief.

Quite a number of local fans intend going to Shelby to see the festivities and most of them will go on Jakey Baumgarten's special train. Jakey thought he had Jim Griffin lined up for a carload of San Francisco sports, but Jim and his pals are going and coming via Vancouver, and they are going to cross the line only to see the battle. Canada has a peculiar attraction for the boys since Mr. Volstead got in his deadly work and there are others who will make the trip to Montana through moist territory instead of crossing the arid lands on this side of the border.

Farrell Will Join Dempsey Training Camp

Champion to Resume Training Monday; Is in Good Shape.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 1.—Jack Dempsey, holder of the world's heavyweight title, who will battle Tommy Gibbons in Shelby, July 4, is taking a real lay off from training this week and the Dempsey camp at Great Falls is being avoided as much as possible. Returning last night from a three days' fishing trip, Dempsey skipped from camp at 7:30 this morning and was roaming the streets of the city before the business houses had opened. With friends he went motoring and visited the several falls of the Missouri river and the copper refining plants.

Dempsey appears to be in the best of condition and declares he enjoyed his outing immensely. He will enter training again Monday at the camp and not leave it until he goes to Shelby July 4, according to plans.

Lee Moore, 126 pound boxer from Los Angeles, arrived here last night as a sparring partner of the champion and is located at the camp. Marty Farrell, coast middleweight, is also announced to arrive here next week.

Pete Herman Will Become Fight Manager

Former Champion's Eyesight Has Been Restored; Quits Boxing.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.—Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion, his eyesight partially restored after almost a year of total blindness, declared today he hoped to return to the boxing game.

"I am planning on getting back into the manager's end of the fight game," Herman said today. "I do not expect my eyesight will ever be good enough again to warrant my return to the ring."

Herman lost the sight of his right eye shortly after an exhibition charity bout in Philadelphia seven years ago. He continued fighting, however, and won many big decisions until a year ago, when his left eye began to fail him and he was soon totally blind.

Yesterday the bandages he had worn over his eyes for three months were removed and he discovered he had regained partial sight.

"It was one of the happiest moments of my life," he said today. "When those bandages were removed and I saw the light of day once more, I felt like a new man."

Pinkey Still Holds Junior Welter Title

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 1.—Pinkey Mitchell of Milwaukee retains the junior welterweight championship belt regardless of the outcome of his bout with Benny Leonard in Chicago Tuesday night, because the legality of the Illinois contest was in question and because Leonard refused to weigh in before the contest, acting chairman of the Wisconsin commission ruled.

Last Night's fight results

SAN PEDRO, Colo., June 1.—Weldon ("Tuffy") Wing, defeated Sailor Frank Kramer, and Jackie Norman scored a technical knockout of Frankie Jeromer in a double main event at the Chief Petty Officers' club here last night. The referee stopped the Norman-Jerome battle in the fourth round, declaring the San Diego boxer was "not fighting," and awarding the decision to Norman.

TACOMA, Wash., June 1.—Solly Seeman, New Work, outpointed Johnny Jordan, Tacoma lightweight, in the six round main event of the boxing program here last night.

Morgan Jones won from Eddie Shannon, scoring four knockdowns in the six round semi-final.

STOCKTON, June 1.—Willie Ritchie appeared here tonight as the feature of a boxing card in a four round exhibition against Buck Holly. While it was an exhibition, the last round was turned into a farce by the boxers. Freddie Bonillas defended the San Joaquin valley lightweight title against Bert Morgan, Lodi, winning all the way and almost finishing his man in the last round.

Other events were:

Wallace, Stockton, beat Berry, San Francisco, lightweights.

Bromeo, Sacramento, beat Burns, San Jose, lightweights.

Werner, San Francisco vs. Williams, Oakland, lightweights, draw.

Gray, Stockton, vs. Harris, Oakdale, featherweights, draw.

Anderson, Stockton, knocked out Sands, Chicago, heavyweights.

PORTLAND, Ore., June 1.—Joe Gorman and Bud Ridley fought 10 rounds to a draw here last night. Ridley knocked Gorman down for the count of nine in the third. Otherwise the bout appeared to be about even. Gorman weighed 129 and Ridley 128 pounds.

Frankie Grandetta took a six round decision from Abraham Gordon.

Following are the results of association fights at National hall, San Francisco:

Billy Gordeau won the decision from Kid Bucumk in the main event. Tommy Gardner defeated Al Hong in the semi windup.

SAN MATEO, June 1.—Mickey O'Donnell whipped Young Farrell in the main event at last night's boxing show. Joe Ryan and Louis Garcia fought a draw. Ad Renny and Jimmy Risso also fought a draw as did Johnny Lawson and Pedro Villa. Eddie Helm stopped George Buffett in the second round. Joe Barry and Eddie Feeley fought a draw. Joe Delmont defeated Joe Abad.

"Goat" Fighter Butts Boxer in San Jose Bout

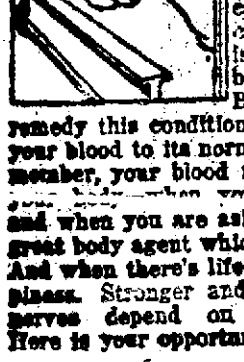

SAN JOSE, June 1.—Laboring under the illusion that he was a goat instead of a boxer, Young Dudley, colored fighter, butted Chick Roach in the West End club bouts last night. Referee Steve Nyland promptly disqualified Dudley for using his head as a battering ram and awarded the decision to Roach on a foul. Two knockdowns were the urge which caused Dudley to try the wild sheep style of fighting. Battling Ortega has gone so far back that Cyclone Gavvy stopped him in the second round with a straight left to the torso.

Harry Scott defeated Joe Powell; Mason Griggin outboxed Ned Rodgers; Harry Hartley outfought Jimmy Stanton and Young Dave defeated Dancing Santos.

Steady nerves depend on the condition of your Blood

YOU know that! You also know that your loved ones' sympathy and comfort will not correct the cause. Neither can impoverished blood rebuild the body. But you can remedy this condition by restoring your blood to its normal state. Remember, your blood flows through your body—when you are awake and when you are asleep. It's the great body agent which makes life. And when there's life—there's happiness. Stronger and more useful nerves depend on blood-power. Here is your opportunity. S. S. S. will prove to you its "why" and "how" reason. S. S. S. contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. Because S. S. S. does build blood-power, it routs rheumatism, stops pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema, beautifies the complexion, improves the appetite builds you up when you are rundown, and makes your nerves steady!

Mr. W. T. Hooker, 2321 Proctor St., Port Arthur, Texas, writes: "I suffered from Eczema for seven years and was afflicted with nervousness. I tried S.S.S. and six bottles cured me. I now enjoy good health. I think S.S.S. the only sure cure for blood disorders on the market."

Try it yourself. S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical. Get a bottle today!

PICK GOLDEN BEARS TO WIN BIG PACIFIC COAST TRACK MEET

Many Records May Be Lowered at Annual Games at Pullman, Washington, Tomorrow, Where Western Champions Meet.

Walter Christie's Intercollegiate championship track and field team has a royal chance to win the Pacific Coast conference championships at Pullman, Washington tomorrow afternoon.

Track and field experts pick the Berkeley champions to pile up enough points to win with something to spare.

With the exception of the pole vault, the California Bears should make almost a clean sweep in the field events. Spearow of Oregon, a divinity student, has cleared the bar at thirteen feet and is the logical favorite for this event Norris of California tied with Owen of Pennsylvania at twelve feet nine inches on Franklin field last Saturday and should have a real chance to out-vault the sky pilot.

True to tradition, Christie's team of weight and discus throwers, vaulters and leapers aren't counting on many first places in the track events Becker of California should win the high hurdles but Hurley of Washington and Loomis of W S C should outfoot him in the low hurdles. Saxby of the Bears may finish in the medals in the 440-yard runs. Mecker and Saxby are likely to be the only Berkeley point winners in the runs.

Class in Weights But Not in Sprints.

For some unaccountable reason the Californians haven t developed the class in the sprints they have in the weights Coach Christie's men have the strength, the stamina and the technical skill to defeat any college aggregation in the country in field sports, but he has no hiking hot foots on his squad who can burn up the track in the 100 and 220-yard runs. In the distance runs there are no prospective champions either from the Golden State Northern college athletes are generally assigned all places.

More than one Pacific coast record may be shattered at Pullman tomorrow. Dodge of Oregon Agricultural college, for example, may lower his own time of 1:56 4-5 in the 880 yards run. Hollinger of O A. C., Ferry of Washington or Casebolt of Idaho may lower Hendrickson's record of 49 3-5 for the quarter mile run if Saxby of the Bears pushes them hard enough.

Brick Muller of California Bolen of the Bears or Bowles of Oregon are all capable of beating Jack Merchant's record of 22 feet 9½ inches in the broad jump

Neufeldt and Sorenti To Break Tuck's Mark.

Captain-elect Neufeldt of California and his teammate Sorenti are both liable to break Tuck of Oregon's javelin record of 190 feet 4 inches

Witter and Neufeldt of California should excel Pope of Washington s shot put record of 45 feet 8 inches

While Al Becker, the Bear's brilliant timber topper, is in rare form, he will hardly be able to erase Wells of Stanford's mark of 15 3-10 seconds from the A C conference record books

Oregon A C and Washington are evenly matched in the sprints These rivals also have well balanced athletic teams and should fight a see-saw battle for secondary honors. University of Oregon should finish in fourth position according to the wiseacres who estimate that the American champions may possibly score fifty points to twenty-five each for O A C and Washington and perhaps 2[illegible] of Idaho may possibly score a total of five points and may be shut out entirely Only three places count so that contestants have to have real class to escape being set down as also rans.

Hurley Will Try to Win in Three Races.

In Hurley Washington has a first class sprinter but he is hardly in Paddock's class If Obertcuffer of Oregon gets off the mark with the pistol he may force Hurley to do 9 4-5 seconds to break the tape The sharps are chary about picking winners for this event and say that these athletes are on a parity If Hurley loses in the 100 yards dash he may be able to reverse the verdict on the Oregon flyer in the 220 Hurley of Washington is also a prospective winner of the 220 yards hurdles In trying to win three events he may overtax his powers and fail to score points

Capt Brick Muller of California and his Berkeley buddie, Trever should divide the honors in the high jump

All in all the intelligence should be flashed after the totals have been computed that "California wins coast conference title 2 to 1."

Dempsey Will Not Wed Until He Quits Ring

By HENRY L. FARRELL, United Press Sports Editor.

CHAPTER III

NEW YORK June 1 (United Press).—Jack Dempsey has always been extremely popular with the newspapermen Jeffries was a rather sullen sort of a person Jack Johnson was irresponsible and Jess Willard was openly antagonistic They assumed the attitude that their position entitled them to space and service from the papers and Dempsey might have been pardoned if he inherited the same idea, but he never did

Dempsey is just naturally genial and affable and he has made himself accessible to newspapermen at any hour of the day or night When he was in Atlantic City training for Carpentier he showed as much concern in seeing that the sport writers were provided with every convenience as he did in getting himself ready for the defense of his title. Feature writers were always after him with trick lunches for stories and he was always willing to do or say anything he could that would provide a foundation of facts to make their stories good

The champion has a keen sense of humor and he takes a pet delight in [illegible] though he is careful not to do anything that would get the object of his jokes in trouble with his boss

GETTING "MARRIED."

One of his favorite pastimes is getting himself married for the "newspaper boys" When he returned from a tour of Europe, which turned out to be a personal triumph for him, he was drawn away from the crowd at the pier for a "star chamber" interview with one of the veteran New York sport writers.

This writer had been tipped off that the champion was going to be married and he wanted all the inside dope. Dempsey, with a very serious face, filled him in on all the details. He mentioned all the charms of the young lady, gave her dimensions, hinted at her place of residence, but he refused to give her name on the ground that it might embarrass her. Dempsey was joking but when the story was printed, a "beat" for the writer, he was careful to back it up and protect the writer who had taken him seriously. He never denied that he was planning to be married, but he maintains that the date "hasn't been set."

Dempsey once told a close friend that he would not marry again as long as he held the title, because he felt that he could not get the [illegible] he wanted as long as he was such a prominent fighter. The champion, according to another very close friend, who traveled a lot with him, is still fond of the wife who divorced him several years ago. He speaks of her very frequently and on several occasions when their train passed through the city in which she now lives Dempsey was said to have remarked

Heres where the wife lives Wonder how shes getting along If she had stuck to me she d be right along with me now

MOVIELAND GOSSIP.

Dempsey's work in the movies caused many reports that he was about to be married to film celebrities and the stories all fussed him "I wouldn t care so much about myself, but think how it must make some of those girls feel" he said several times

Dempsey still remains more or less a boy outside of business He doesn't like to confine his conversation to boxing, but he will argue for hours if any one questions his ability as a wrestler and in the emergency he is willing to demonstrate his skill with "holds and grips" He also likes to talk about acting and he really believes that he could have had a career in the movies if he had the time "

The champion doesn't like to be called a prize fighter and he chooses to be known as the world s heavyweight boxing champion He [illegible]

Dempsey has a high regard for James J. Corbett one of his predecessors and it is apparent that Jack wants to become a useful and substantial citizen like Corbett did when he stepped down as the heavyweight champion Dempsey, in all probability, will do that very thing as he is doing it right now He has made a fortune—and he is keeping it He told one of his friends once that—"They ll never hold a benefit for William Harrison" and he is making his promise good

DEMPSEY AND THE ARMY.

It has been the opinion of the writer that Dempsey was persecuted for failing to join up during the war Some day the real facts of Dempsey's actions may be known and it will be learned then that his heart was right.

Dempsey knows that he missed a chance to become the greatest of all heavyweight idols If he had his way about it he might have come back from France as "Sgt. Dempsey of the Second Marines" and he would have been the American Carpentier. But he didn't go and years and years from now it will be held against him.

(The End.)

Collins Is Coming With Fight Tickets

SHELBY, Mont., June 1 (United Press).—Reserved seat tickets for the Dempsey-Gibbons fight to be staged here July 4 were delivered here today and are being prepared for distribution. Blocks of ringside tickets will be sent east by airplanes and mail and Mike Collins will go to the Pacific coast cities to take charge of the distribution.

Jack Dempsey is on a fishing trip and Tommy Gibbons is at his home in St. Paul. Gibbons is expected to return the first of next week with his family and he will start final training.

Baseball Gossip

One more TRIBUNE Mid-Winter League player has advanced to the Major League. Taylor Douthit of the Del Monte Cafe team has been signed by the St. Louis Cardinals and leaves this week.

Milt Steengrafe unloaded the bases with a two bagger Sunday, playing with Angels Camp at Sonora and was greeted with a shower of silver. Milt won his game, 7 to 6.

Lefty Fein is pitching swell ball for the Modern Woodmen and has won all his starts. He will receive a good test next Sunday against the Melrose Merchants at Melrose.

There has been in the past some great excuses for cancelling of games, but we had one last Sunday which was a corker. A real estate man of Rodeo tore down the backstop and staked out some lots and forced the boys to cancel their game on Friday night, for Sunday.

Healdsburg has added that peppery first sacker, Chick Autrey, to their pay roll, and he made a big hit with the fans last Sunday by playing a bang-up game at first, and secured a hit.

"Smiles" Hoover of the Del Monte Packers team, looks to be one of the best prospects in the semi-pro ranks. He showed a lot of stuff against the Coast Tires Sunday, but did not receive any too good support.

"Red" Powers would make a good man for some club to sign as field captain. "Red" certainly knows the game and is still capable of giving a good account of himself on the field.

"Bill" Keane, formerly of the St. Mary's college, will again don the pad and mask and will be seen in action with Dick Parker's. Don Lee team in the Automotive League.

"Dummy" Land pitched a two hit game for the Durant Motors Sunday at Los Gatos and will go big on a return game.

Czechs Win Doubles In Davis Cup Match

TERRITE, Switzerland, June 1.—Czecho-Slovakia won the doubles match in yesterday's Davis cup competition with Switzerland's lawn tennis experts by a score of 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 8-6. The Swiss won both of the singles matches yesterday, making the score thus far two to one in their favor.

Golf Cup Is Won By Woodland Women

WOODLAND, June 1.—Mrs. Forrest B. Caldwell of this city yesterday won the President's Cup for women offered by Arthur C. Huston Sr., head of the Yolo Country Club, to the woman holding the best golf score at the close of a nine-hole conaest. Mrs. Caldwell defeated five skilled players with a score of 43 for the nine holes. She defeated Mrs. A. C. Huston Sr., and Mrs. J. D. Stephens, both of whom made a score of 46; Mrs. Harry D. Porter with 47, Mrs. Fred R. Fairchild, 51, and Mrs. T. D. Cummins with 52.

Mullins and Wills Think Kearns Serious

NEW YORK, June 1.—Harry Wills and his manager, Paddy Mullins, have taken literally the promise of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, that the titleholder will meet Wills next providing he is champion after he meets Tom Gibbons.

Meehan vs. Lamson At the Auditorium

Willie Meehan and George Lamson may box three main event here next week with Young Brown and Dick Hoppe appearing in the special event. Promoter Tommy Simpson was busy this morning trying to line up this card and expects to have the boys signed up before night.

Marathon Golfer Is Out With Sore Knee

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 1.—Clarence B. Mangham, professional at the Brackenridge Park municipal course, who was forced out of the Marathon golf race yesterday on the 79th hole when his left knee went bad, announced that as soon as his knee would permit he would attempt to better the record which is now held by Charles Daniels, who played 228 holes at Long Lake, N. York, between 3:55 a. m. and 7:55 p. m. several years ago.

Mangham covered the first 18 holes in 56 minutes and turned in a score of 79. This is thought to be a record for a low score at that speed.

Alameda-Lick Game Set For Next Week

Alameda high will meet Lick-Wilderming high at Ewing field, San Francisco, either Monday or Wednesday, for the Northern California interscholastic championship. The game was originally scheduled for Saturday but the authorities postponed it.

Lick plays San Mateo tomorrow afternoon.

Take Over Rickard's Two Boxing Plants

NEW YORK, June 1. — Incorporation papers have been filed with the secretary of state for the new Madison Square Garden corporation, designed to take over the present business of the Madison Square Garden corporation as well as the interests of Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, in the arena at Boyle's Thirty Acres, Jersey City, it was announced today.

Pick Chicago Runner To Succeed Paddock

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 1.—Eugene Goodwillie, sprinter of the University High school of Chicago, will be the runner to succeed Charles W. Paddock as the world's champion sprinter, according to coaches of the California athletes who returned yesterday from the national interscholastic track and field championships at Chicago.

They say Goodwillie is a faster runner now than Paddock was when in high school and that the Chicago sprinter possibly is faster than Paddock is today.

K. O. Berge Is Eager to Toss Shoe Ringers

Here's a horseshoe ringer from K. O. Berge, 2631 East Pleasant street, Oakland. Challenges have been flying around so thick and fast that this plate flinger wants to get into the game.

"K. O." writes the sporting editor of The TRIBUNE:

"I read in The TRIBUNE that Bob Fitts of Irvington wants to meet two Oakland horseshoe players. I have no partner, but I will play any one from Irvington or Oakland in singles. Yours truly,

"K. O. BERGE."

AGAIN Red Crown scores in Los Angeles-Camp Curry (YOSEMITE) stock car economy run

The annual stock-car economy classic has been run; again it sets new gasoline-mileage and economy records for what stock-cars can do.

Three hundred and sixty miles over valley roads and difficult mountain grades, 25 to 35 miles to the gallon! It took real cars, real motor-fuel to make the records shown above.

THE GASOLINE was RED CROWN —for seven consecutive years the ONLY gasoline used in this sensational power and mileage test.

Every car entered was a stock-model, every record—and in all classes the contest was very close—was made on the very same "Gasoline of Quality" you get at Standard Oil Service Stations and at dealers wherever you go.

What do these records mean in terms of your gasoline mileage? The cars and the motor-fuel being exactly the same as the public uses—it means that by careful driving, you can do as well or almost as well—if you use "Red Crown."

That's why this run is such an important one. The Los Angeles-Camp Curry Economy Run is probably the most famous event of its kind in the motor world; and if anyone realizes the importance of the fuel factor in the efficient and economical operation of a car—if anyone knows from experience which gasoline to use for maximum power and mileage, it's the automobile manufacturers and drivers whose stock-cars are entered to win this strenuous, competitive meet. Under these conditions, "Red Crown" has been chosen unanimously for seven successive runs.

Experts and the general public may lean to one type of car or another, but on the question of motor-fuel they agree.

"Red Crown—the gasoline of quality"—leads with the general motoring public as with economy-run officials—because they have found by experience that when the tank is filled with "Red Crown"—and nothing else—the car starts easier, travels faster and farther on a gallon. Moreover, the carburetor needs no adjusting, because "Red Crown" is uniform—always and anywhere.

What stock-cars did on the Yosemite run, your car may do. Fill at the Red Crown sign—at Standard Oil Service Stations, garages and other dealers.

PRICE OF COFFEE WILL ADVANCE IF BRAZIL BORROWS

Southern Republic Endeavoring to Get Money to Valorize Crop.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS
Special to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, June 1.—"And the cup of coffee."

Scores of millions of meals wind up in just that way daily throughout the United States. But the sum which that cup of coffee will cost in the next six weeks or two months depends largely on whether the republic of Brazil can borrow a large sum of money from some other nation.

According to the Department of Commerce, the United States now has only sufficient coffee in store here and bound to American ports to supply the country for five weeks. The coffee cups of this country require 840,000 bags a month to keep them full.

The price in Brazil from whence this country draws its main supply is higher than the price for raw coffee in this country. Brazil is attempting to keep it up through the process of valorization which simply means an attempt to give an arbitrary market value to a commodity through governmental interference. The methods may include purchase of coffee by the government to keep it from the world market or making the loans to producers which will enable them to hold their crops.

BROKERS NOT BUYING.

Under ordinary circumstances with only five weeks supply on hand or coming in prices for coffee here normally would rise to at least the level maintained in Brazil. Brazil, however, has a bumper crop in prospect. Estimates indicate an outturn of at least 12,000,000 bags from the Santos district alone and for the whole country more than the world can consume in the coming season.

As a result importers, brokers and merchants are not buying coffee at present, believing that lower prices are bound to come.

"There is an entire lack of confidence in the present situation on the part of brokers and coffee merchants in the United States in view of the prospective bumper crop in Brazil," P. Fallon of the large coffee firm of Lamborn, Hutchins & Company, said today.

"Already it is known that Brazil has been refused a loan by Great Britain to finance the coming crop and prevent it being poured on the market with a consequent break in prices. The only other alternative coffee men see for Brazil would be to buy the coffee from the planters by means of an issue of paper notes which would mean a weakness in Brazilian exchange which would be to affect the country detrimentally.

"An effort is being made to restrict shipments to Santos and Rio to 45,000 bags a day but if this is done it will put tremendous pressure on the planters who would have to store their unsold production and who have little chance of borrowing on it except from the government.

"The valorization plan in 1907 was successful but in that year output fell far below expectations whereas this year weather conditions have been ideal and a tremendous crop is probable."

The new crop will begin to come on the market about July 1. If Brazil cannot float a loan before that time and provide her planters with enough cash now that the crop will come on the market only in small amounts and brokers and dealers feel that lower prices are in prospect. Consequently they are not buying coffee at present prices and they hope that present stocks will last until after flood of the new coffee comes on the market. There admittedly is a narrow margin in these calculations and if the stocks run short there is a possibility of temporarily higher prices even though Brazil does not successfully negotiate a loan.

In addition the voyage from Brazilian ports to this country is not a short one and coffee shipped as soon as the [illegible] market would have a limited time in which to reach American consumers provided the present stocks do not hold out.

Grass Valley Mine Shaft Is 2000 Feet Deep

New Management Sink Deep On Old Property in Order to Facilitate Work.

GRASS VALLEY, June 1.—The Grass Valley mining district now boasts of a shaft which extends into the earth on a very slight incline to a depth of 2000 feet, making it the deepest gold mining shaft in perpendicular lines in California.

This shaft is at the Idaho-Maryland mine, and has been created during the last year by extending the old 1000 foot shaft an additional 1000 feet, the purpose being to eliminate a long incline shaft extending from the 1000 foot level. A drift was run from the lower level to a point beneath the shaft, the "holing through" to the shaft being by means of an up-rise.

The Idaho-Maryland, famous producer of more than $25,000,000 in gold, was re-opened four years ago by the Bulkeley Wells interests. Announcement of the discovery of new ore deposits have been made from time to time.

Cotton Condition Is Below Average

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Condition of the cotton crop on May 25 was 71 per cent of a normal compared with 69.6 a year ago, 66 in 1921, and 73.6 the average condition for the last ten years the department of agriculture announced today in its first cotton report of the season.

BUSINESS and FINANCE

By H. S. SCOTT.

Stocks stiffened today from a lack of public interest. Outside following was apparently indifferent to market movement and operators had a free hand and they pounded the short side on the theory that further reaction was due, following the six-point recovery in the industrial averages over the last ten days, in the New York market.

Another break in cotton carried prices down $4 a bale, reflecting the cutting down of activity in the textile trade. This development, in one of the principal commodity markets reacted in turn on stocks which developed larger volume on the decline in the last hour. Some selling of steel common and the independent steel shares, especially Republic and Bethlehem, was based on the failure of incoming orders to take up the current rate of production.

Considerable improvement in the ratio of both the local Federal Reserve Board and the system as a whole and another high record in weekly car loadings were encouraging developments which stimulated trading in early dealings. California Petroleum jumped to a further new high for the year at 117, a gain of one point over the previous close, while fractional gains were scored by American Can, Corn Products and other industrial leaders. Rails were steady.

Free offerings of the oil shares were attributed to the bankruptcy proceedings against the largest curb market house which dealt heavily in oil issues. California Petroleum still continued its rise to higher ground, establishing a new top at 117¾, up 1¾. Baldwin showed a net gain of one point. General Electric dropped 3 points on the initial sale.

Marland Oil followed California Petroleum into higher ground, but the other oils were heavy. Standard of California and Phillips Petroleum each dropping a point. Studebaker and Mack Truck each fell back a point and most of the active steels yielded continually. American Hide and Leather again bearish and the sagging tendency revealing only a scanty demand, bears experienced little difficulty in depressing prices considerably further in the afternoon. The vulnerability of industrial shares was emphasized by the weakness of Gulf States Steel, American Can, Dupont and Willys-Overland preferred, which lost 3 points or more. California Petroleum broke to 113¼ compared with 117¾, its earlier record figure. Losses of 2 to 4 points were numerous among other stocks.

The closing was weak. Investment railroad shares yielded with the rest of the list in the final dealings, Canadian, Northern and Union Pacific losing 2 to 2½ points. California Petroleum dropped nearly 7 points from its early high. Liquidation for the account of curb houses which have experienced a run as a result of the Jones and Baker bankruptcy, was an important factor in the day's operations. Sales approximated 950,000 shares.

The entire list of U. S. Bonds turned reactionary in the early trading today. Foreign government issues and railroad mortgages, however, continued to climb, but the advances were small. A gain of 1½ points by Minneapolis and St. Louis Consolidated 5¼s was the only outstanding change among the rails. I. R. T. advanced a point. Industrial liens were dull and price changes relatively unimportant. Morris and Co. 4½s, were in better demand, gaining 1⅛ points.

LUMBER PRODUCTION 32 PER CENT OVER NORMAL.

One hundred and thirty mills reporting to West Coast Lumbermen's association for the week ending May 26, manufactured 109,187,150 feet of lumber; sold 90,688,281 feet, and shipped 102,244,104 feet.

Production for reporting mills was 23 per cent above normal. New business was 17 per cent below production. Shipments were 13 per cent above new business.

Thirty-six per cent of all new business taken during the week was for future water delivery. This amounted to 32,308,215, of which 25,679,215 feet was for domestic cargo delivery, and 6,629,000 feet export. New business by rail amounted to 1743 cars.

Thirty-one per cent of the week's lumber shipments moved by water. This amounted to 31,413,938 feet, of which [illegible] feet moved coastwise and intercoastal, and 6016,895 feet overseas. Rail shipments totaled 2158 cars.

Local auto and team deliveries totaled 6030,166 feet.

Unfilled domestic cargo orders total 172,047,513 feet. Unfilled export orders, 93,798,741 feet. Unfilled rail trade orders, 7811 cars.

In the first twenty-one weeks of the year, production reported to West Coast Lumbermen's Association has been 2,043,377,957 feet; new [illegible] ments, 2,281,354,801 feet.

SOME PEOPLE ARE BUSY THINKING UP DEPRESSION.

"In all the history of this country there has probably never been a time when fundamental economic factors were so generally favorable to a continued period of prosperity as they are at the present moment. Everything points to prolonged industrial activity," says the American Exchange National Bank of New York. "We have all the money and credit we need for full employment of all the available labor, and the railroads are proving their ability to move all the goods the industrial plant can produce with its present complement of workers. The assumption that we are suffering for lack of foreign demand for our goods was brought into question by the import figures for March showing that we are buying more goods than we are selling abroad and that our total foreign trade is running at the rate of about $10,000,000,000 a year. Every department of government, every convention of business men, the trade papers, trade statistics, charts and barometers all add their testimony in confirmation of the generally accepted opinion that conditions are sound. Nearly all industries are shipping their full product into immediate consumption many of them are still booking orders at rates equal to production—yet with all this proof and evidence that prosperity is here, we are doing our best to think and advise ourselves into something like a business depression. Moreover, we have almost succeeded in convincing ourselves that we are entering upon another period of deflation.

"Before you can deflate you must first inflate, and there has been no recent inflation. There has been [illegible] expansion in credits. The loans and discounts reported by national banks in April were only moderately higher than those reported in January. There has been over-expansion of credit, perhaps, in some industries—in those in which prices have risen unduly and too rapidly—but in general there has been no undue expansion whatever. There is no similarity at all between present conditions and the conditions that led up to the slump in 1920. This fact has been emphasized over and over again, but the mass mind has failed to grasp the significance of the difference in the two situations, fears have been aroused, and if business is not gathering itself together in preparation for a headlong retreat, it is at least sidling away in the hope that it will get out of range should the flood break.

"Our lesson has been, once more, that confidence is the foundation of industrial and business activity, and that, as desirable as caution is, cautionary advice cannot be handed out promiscuously without danger of bringing about a suspension of business activity. In this form, advice is given to individuals, and if it is heeded at all, it must be heeded by individuals, and if all individuals take it to heart, business stops. The business cycle cannot be controlled by advice from the watch towers, it must be governed by the co-operative foresight of industry as a whole."

MAY REPORTS INDICATE HEALTH IN BUSINESS.

Trade reports for May indicate that increased confidence resting on a basis of conservatism was succeeding the feeling of uncertainty which appeared late in April. The hesitancy developed in April was partly due to a seasonal lull in business and partly the result of undue apprehensions aroused by warnings against excessive speculation and [illegible] of material and labor. On the whole, the effect produced upon the general situation by these developments was favorable, the reappearance of caution as the guiding influence in business presenting a basis for a more confident attitude toward the future.

Voluntary wage increases were put into effect by a number of railroads and by other employers, the increased demand for common as well as skilled labor resulting from the resumption of outdoor work on a larger scale forcing advances.

At the same time some prices showed a tendency to stiffen after having undergone a general revision in which recessions from the high points of the year occurred in practically all markets.

The healthy nature of underlying conditions was reflected in a general absence of cancellations on any important scale. Some cancellations were reported, but as a general thing the various trades found purchasers eager to receive goods contracted for.

From this time it may be assumed that stocks are generally low to normal and that buyers will be back in the markets again long before the manufacturers clear the orders already booked.

British Opposed to U. S. Cotton Ruling

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Signs of resentment by the British cotton trade have appeared over the U. S. cotton standards act, which becomes effective August 1, requiring interstate and foreign cotton sales and shipments to be based on American official standards.

In foreign trade quarters the effect of the plan has been designed to induce the rest of the world to adopt the U. S. official standard as a basis for all transactions.

Delegations from the Liverpool Cotton association and the Royal Exchange and Board of Trade of Manchester, England, are on their way here for a hearing which Secretary Wallace of the department of Agriculture has granted them for June 11.

San Pedro Port Sets New Record

SAN PEDRO, June 1.—The month's arrivals at this port totaled 496 commercial vessels with a combined tonnage of 1,364,234 tons, it was announced tonight, which is said to be an increase of 67,496 tons over the best previous month's record.

July Wheat Drops 4 Cents On Crop Report

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 1. Wheat for July delivery dropped four cents a bushel below yesterday's close in trading at the Chamber of Commerce here this morning. The sharp break sent July down to $1.12⅜, exactly four cents under the final quotation yesterday. Declines in Liverpool and Chicago, slack foreign demand, favorable weather and a bearish government crop report were factors.

LUMBER MEN NOT ALARMED AT BUILDING CUT

Unfilled Orders Will Keep Western Mills Running to End of Year.

BY CONSOLIDATED PRESS
Special to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, June 1.—The check to building, both actual and prospective, has brought no uneasiness to the lumber producers of the country. They are confident, according to reliable reports received today, that demand will keep loggers and mills moving at top speed for months to come.

"The lumber situation in the Pacific northwest is wholly satisfactory to manufacturers and loggers," Robert B. Allen, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's association, and an authority on western lumber conditions, said today. "This is because mill output is sufficient to keep all plants running both American and foreign buying being well maintained and prices at mill tracks, according to all reports, have not changed materially.

"There has been a backward season in the middle west but the check to lumber demand there is not unusual and will be corrected. Production of lumber continues well above normal. There is no surplus of logs in North Pacific coast waters and the mills of that section have unfilled orders both for domestic use and for export aggregating over 750,000,000 board feet.

GAIN FOR MILLS.

"It is obvious that the mills will gain by clearing up their unfilled orders if or when there is a slow down. Such a slow down is not now in prospect. The tendency in the trade is to maintain quiet and stable conditions."

Shingle men of the Pacific northwest are not so thoroughly satisfied, however. The general manager of one of the leading Oregon shingle mills which utilizes electric power and has a capcity of 500,000 shingles daily, declared today the plant had closed down because it was impossible to cut shingles to sell at $2.45 a thousand out of $20 logs.

Reports from southern mills indicate that demand is being well maintained and that the mills have a large volume of unfilled business on their books.

RAILROAD PURCHASES.

Announcement that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad is in the market for from thirty to thirty-five locomotives, served today to emphasize the efforts made by carriers to meet the demands the present business situation is imposing upon them.

Samuel M. Vauclain, president of the Baldwin Locomotive Company, who is now on a business trip in the west, in letters to business associates received today, declared that traffic on all the roads is very heavy and is making extraordinary demands upon equipment. While the carriers, he said, had extended themselves to repair bad order cars and locomotives, traffic is so active that additional equipment is imperative in order to provide for future requirements.

Vauclain reported business good in the west with favorable prospects for a continuation of general prosperity.

BIG TOURIST TRAFFIC.

President H. E. Byram, of the St. Paul road went on record today as predicting a tremendous tourist traffic to the northwest. Puget Sound territory and Alaska this summer and this statement was confirmed by officials of other northern lines in St. Paul and Portland. commercial bodies are providing numerous free automobile camps along main western highways for motor tourists, and hotel managers declare they have agreed on a policy of moderate charges.

Brick plants through the Atlantic coast section have been seriously affected in some instances by labor disputes but the cement makers are pushing production to the utmost to meet demand occasioned by extensive highway construction which has more than made up for the loss occasioned by the check to building.

Latin-America, Canada Lead Imports to U.S.

South American Arrivals Are Double Year Ago, According to Reports.

WASHINGTN, June 1.—Imports from Latin-America and Canada showed the largest proportionate increase among March shipments into the United States.

An analysis made public by the Commerce Department showed that South American imports for the month were more than double those for March, 1922.

The figures follow:

Grand Div.	Mch., 1923	Mch., 1922
Europe	$120,986,684	$85,796,254
N. Amer.	115,743,982	73,234,683
So. Amer.	53,436,203	23,745,152

Asia, Oceania and Africa also showed large increases.

Mexico	14,237,534	12,807,492
Philip. Isls.	5,842,536	5,080,540

Most other countries showed proportionate increases.

Irrigation Crops Valued 53 Million

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Crops grown last year on irrigation projects operated by the reclamation service were valued at $53,000,000, it was announced yesterday by the department of interior. The crops represented the harvest of 1,169,000 acres.

FARM PRODUCTS.

SPOKANE, May 31. — Reports from throughout the Inland Empire today indicated that prospects were favorable for a bumper crop of wheat and a tremendous yield of commercial apples in eastern Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

CALIF. GOODYEAR DECLARED DUE FOR COMEBACK

Prospects and Improvement of Preferred Stock Analyzed by Writer.

A review of the balance sheets of the various tire and rubber companies of the United States for the year 1922 establishes beyond question that the industry as a whole has already staged a most remarkable recovery from the depression of 1920-1921 which was so severe as to put the great Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron in difficulties and cause the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California to suspend dividends on its preferred stock and consequently forfeit, at least temporarily, considerable of its prestige with local investors, says H. R. Jackson of the Pacific Bond and Share company of Los Angeles in discussing the prospects for Goodyear of California and its chances to stage a big "comeback."

Jackson continues: "This country uses approximately 75 per cent of the world's output of crude rubber. Sales of rubber products in the United States during the calendar year of 1922 fell little short of one billion dollars.

"A comparison of production figures for the first quarter of 1923 with those of the corresponding period of 1922, as made available by the Rubber Association of America, is enlightening. The number of casings produced in the first quarter of 1922 was 6,735,232. In 1923 it was 10,210,983, an increase of 66 per cent. The number of inner tubes produced increased from 7,957,658 to 12,866,501, an increase of 61 per cent. Not taking into account the advance in prices, it would seem on this basis, unless production falls off very substantially, that sales of rubber products in 1923 should approximate $1,600,000,000.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN.

"It is logical to assume, in view of the splendid improvement recorded by Goodyear of California in 1922 that its progress will be continued during 1923 and that the general improvement in the industry as a whole will be shared in generous measure by the leading manufacturer and distributor in the state of California, especially as that company's main product is perhaps the most widely known in the entire field, the Goodyear "All Weather Tread" tire.

"Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of California owns in fee some 425 acres of land and a modern plant located in a most important industrial section of Los Angeles.

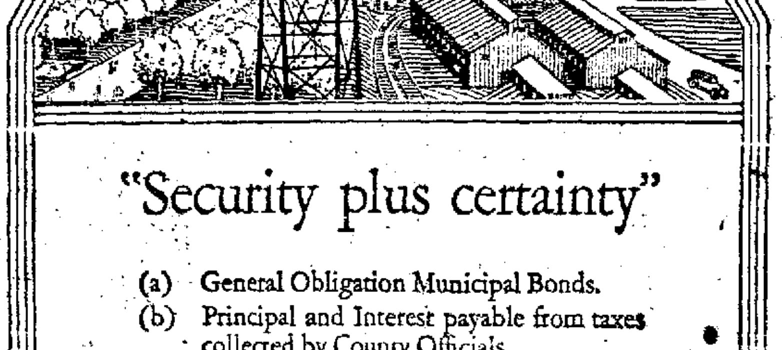

1922 REPORT.

"In March, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of California issued its financial statement covering operations for the year 1922. For instance, earnings available for interest, reduction of deferred expenses and deficit were $1,565,222 and net after all charges were $788,817, which would have been equal to $9.86 per share of preferred stock, had there been no deficit to take into account. However, the company has succeeded in reducing its deficit (which not so long ago exceeded $3,000,000) to $835,135. A year previously the current assets of the company were thirteen times the current liabilities. The 1923 improvement resulted in a most unusual condition, for current assets as of December 31, 1922, were eighteen times current liabilities.

During 1922, the year which marked such excellent progress, the average production of the Los Angeles factory was 2870 tires a day. For the first quarter of 1923, production averaged 4800 tires a day, an increase of 67.24 per cent, per cent, just about in line with increased production throughout the industry as reported by the Rubber association.

APPLE AND PEAR CROPS OF NORTH WILL YIELD BIG Reduction on Canning Peach Prices Made by Growers' Association.

County horticultural commissioners in the two chief districts of the state of Washington, the Yakima and Wenatchee valleys, have completed surveys which indicate a heavy crop this season. Their reports for the Yakima valley forecast a record crop of 2400 cars of pears, 1200 cars of peaches and 1500 cars of apples.

For the Wenatchee Valley, where the largest tonnage of winter-keeping commercial boxed apples originates, apple shipments are estimated at 18,000 cars. In the small fruits sections of the state, the crop outlook is distinctly favorable. A contract has just been signed for 2,000,000 pounds of strawberries at 8 cents a pound between the Growers' Co-operative organization and a group of Washington canners.

Reductions ranging from $10 to $15 a ton were declared yesterday in the prices to be paid to growers by the California Canning Peach Growers' Association for both clings and freestones, at a meeting of the association in San Francisco.

No. 1 clings were set at $45 a ton, as against $60 for last year, while No. 2's were set at $22.50 as against $30 last year.

Lovell freestones were set at $35 as against $45 last year, while all other freestone varieties were set at $30 against $40 last year.

A pack of approximately 7,000,000 cases of clings is expected this season as against 7,414,000 cases last year. The freestone pack will be about 1,315,000 cases, approximately the same as last season.

California will produce a normal crop of apricots this season as the fruit was 98 per cent of normal on May 1, compared with 52 per cent last year and 65 per cent for the ten-year average. On the other hand, cherries are 70 per cent of normal, against 99 per cent last year. Apples indicate a rather poor crop, being only 80 per cent, or 16 points below May 1, 1922. The pear crop is estimated at 88 per cent, compared with 92 per cent last year. Peaches are dropping heavily in Southern California. Pears suffered less from blight and frost than usual, conditions indicating about 85 per cent of a crop. Some sections report a heavy dropping, and the crop may not be as good as expected a few weeks ago. The plum crop is excellent and 95 per cent is predicted. The prune crop, with better than a normal bloom, was expected to be excellent, but dropping has been exceedingly heavy in all sections, with indications of between 50 and 60 per cent of a crop.

No change in prices will be announced by the Sun-Maid Raisin Growers until after July 15. This policy was definitely determined on at a meeting of the board of directors, according to announcement by Managing Director Ralph P. Merritt. Mr. Merritt announced that he had been advised by the railroad officials that a car shortage this season was certain and to avoid being hit by it the Sun-Maid should ship its holdover crop east as soon as possible.

10,000 PEOPLE ARE INVOLVED IN STOCK FAILURE

75,000 Letters Mailed Weekly and Million Yearly Went for Advertising.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Investigation into the crash of Jones & Baker, the largest stock brokers on the curb here and one of the largest firms ever to go into voluntary bankruptcy, was launched here today, while authorities in Chicago were determining whether the Illinois "blue sky" law had been violated by the firm.

"Long" accounts of customers were reported to amount to $10,000,000, with "short" accounts running possibly to $2,000,000, and bank loans totaling $2,500,000.

Steps were taken by authorities to insure that there would be no obstacles to surmount as in previous inquiries when other brokerage firms failed.

The firm maintained an intricate statistical department; it conducted a school for salesmen; in an active market 75,000 letters were mailed weekly and its ink bill was $50 a week. Its advertising budget was said to have been $1,000,000 a year.

10,000 ACCOUNTS.

The company had nearly 10,000 customers' accounts here and in nine large branch offices in other cities. Officials of the company declared their belief that the firm was solvent.

Wall street was filled with rumors that the bankruptcy proceedings resulted from pressure exerted by the New York Stock Exchange authorities after complaints against the firm had been lodged with the exchange. The firm, however, had no direct connection with the New York Stock Exchange and had never had the ticker service of this organization.

Jones & Baker was a partnership composed of William B. Jones and Jackson B. Sells. It was formed 11 years ago in Chicago and had maintained headquarters in New York for about 10 years. Branch offices were operated in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Baltimore, Cleveland and Kansas City, Mo., the office in the last named city having just been established.

WEEKLY PAYROLL.

The firm had a weekly payroll of about $25,000 and was said to have had extensive bank loans. The banks carrying the loans stated, however, that they were amply secured with high grade collateral. The firm was said to have loans with banks in a total of the [illegible] with branch offices.

The firm of Jones & Baker was a member of the Salt Lake City Stock Exchange as well as of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange of Toronto, Canada.

The Bishop agency [illegible] made public a statement [illegible] in which it was said [illegible] Jones and Sells were directors of the Empire State Finance Corporation which, the report said, recently increased its authorized [illegible] 000 of which $600,000 had been paid into the treasury. [illegible] shares of common [illegible] issued it was said.

The Bishop agency, in tracing the history of the directors of the corporation, said Jones had "made considerable progress both as to volume of business and financially and accomplished this in a few years."

"He has come under the usual street criticism," the statement said, "but has more steady progress. He is a large stockholder in the American Trust Company and is regarded as of strong means."

Jones was declared to have a private fortune of about $5,000,000. The report said that considerable criticism had been directed against the firm of Jones & Baker, but that there was no proof of their having treated their customers unfairly.

BANK LOANS COVERED.

It said that Jones & Baker had borrowed a large sum from the New York Trust Company, which they secured with Liberty bonds. The brokers also were said to hold 1500 shares of stock in the New York Trust and Jones put up $150,000 of this stock as collateral on a personal loan of $100,000 from the Guaranty Trust Company.

The Guaranty Trust Company officials said, had formerly had a loan to the firm outstanding, but about six months ago called it in.

Later it was learned the firm also had borrowed from the Seaboard National Bank, Chatham and Phoenix, Metropolitan Trust Company, Corn Exchange National Bank of Philadelphia, Keystone National of Pittsburgh, Merchants' National of Boston, State Bank of Chicago and a few others. It was secured. Mr. Coxe said the firm owed the banks a total of about $2,500,000.

Jones, it was said, rose from an obscure clerkship to his present position in finance. He was born in Streator, Ill., in 1880 and in 1900 was a grocery clerk in Wheaton, Ill.

Greek Money Jumps; German Hits New Low

EXCHANGE rates on Greece were suddenly discontinued today, according to Assistant Cashier B. R. Breese of the Central National Bank. The New York banks today refused to make any quotations, because of the rapid rise of the figures. When the Central National Bank opened a figure of $2.95 per 100 drachmas was hung up to be cancelled shortly afterwards. The rate yesterday was $2.88.

The German mark got down to the level of the Austrian crown today for the first time in its history, about 71,000 to the U. S. dollar.

LONDON, June 1.—Marks dropped to 330,000 to the pound on the London exchange today, a new record low. This was a drop of 15,000 from yesterday.

300 Per Cent Dividend Paid By Dye Trust

LUDWIGSHAVEN, June 1.—The Baden Aniline and Soda Works, the great chemical plant here, declared a dividend of 300 per cent for 1922 as against 30 per cent in 1921, it developed from a report of the year's business made public today. The net profits last year were 3,906,440,000 marks compared with 168,750,000 marks in 1921.

The dye stuffs business was satisfactory last year, adds the report, although foreign competition continued to make itself "perceptible."

LIONS GLAD ROAR TO REVERBERATE ON MATSONIA

A tour to Hawaii is being arranged by the Lions Clubs of California and of the other western states comprising the Fourth district of the Lions' International, it is announced. Crabtree's travel office in Oakland has charge of the business management of the trip. Reservations have already been made by a large party of members of the Lions Club of Oakland.

The palatial steamer Matsonia of the Matson Steamship Company has been chartered for the trip, which leaves San Francisco bay on February 20, 1924. The party is due to return on Tuesday, March 11.

An extensive program of sightseeing in the islands has been arranged. Five days will be given to Honolulu and the island of Oahu and two days to Kilauea volcano and the island of Hawaii. Pearl harbor, the United States naval base in Hawaii, Scofield barracks, the pineapple and sugar cane plantations and other sights of the island will also be visited.

MACHINERY.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 31—Business has slowed down considerably during the last thirty days in farm and mill machinery in this section although the total volume of business done since January 1, is large.

Net earnings of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation for the quarter of this year totalled about $1,200,000, equivalent to the annual rate of $16 a share on the junior stock.

Big Freighters To Discharge At Terminals

THREE large freighters, each bringing a heavy cargo to local and Eastern consignees, arrived in the port of Oakland today. They are: the Robin Hood, of the Norton-Lilly Steamship Company, which is discharging a general cargo from the East at the Parr Terminal; the Hyades of the Matson Steamship, which is also at the Parr Terminal, where it will load fertilizer for Hawaii, and the City of Victoria, which is discharging a cargo of pig iron and sand at the Howard Terminal, from Antwerp. The sand cargo is of the "pure white" Dutch and Belgian variety, which is largely used for glass-making.

Stewart River Ore Coming to Coast

DAWSON, Y. T., May 31.—The winter output of silver ore will have been transported to the coast within six weeks if the present favorable high water conditions continue on the Stewart river. The first 700 tons have reached Dawson en route to the coast and over three thousand tons have reached the mouth of the Stewart. There are six thousand tons more to come. Ore worth $1,250,000 awaited this year's opening of navigation. With the Klondike's prospective gold yield this year, this will give the Yukon an output in precious metals of $3,500,000, the most favorable showing in years.

Bunker Hill Mine To Enlarge Plant

SPOKANE, Wash., May 31.—Enlargement of its Seattle fabricating plant or erection of a new plant in San Francisco, probably the latter, is planned by the Bunker Hill and Sullivan Mining and Concentration company, it was announced by Frank M. Smith, smelter director for the company. Smith returned from San Francisco yesterday.

Increase of the company's business on the Pacific Coast since it took over the Northwest Lead company at Seattle a few years ago has necessitated the enlargement, he said.

Ford Asked to Tell Financial Views

NEW YORK, May 31.—Henry Ford has been invited to present his views on finance to a group of well known economists at the convention of the National Monetary association here on June 7, it was announced today by John R. Commons, president.

"While we do not wish to give the impression that we sanction Ford's ideas," said Commons, "we do wish to have a full discussion of the money problem and would like to have his views. He has been asked to speak on the stabilization of price levels, and inflation and deflation with its bearing upon the present building trades difficulty."

Illinois Wheat Crop Below Average

CHICAGO, May 31.—Winter wheat in the seventh federal district is not in as good condition as a year ago and is below the ten-year average, according to the agriculture production and business conditions report of the federal reserve bank of Chicago.

Corn acreage has increased, the reports said. Production of wheat flour at forty-one mills in the district is reported diminished compared with March, but a gain of 17.1 per cent over last year was made. Creamery butter production and sales in the United States are larger than in March or a year ago, with poultry and eggs declined, the report said.

Baja California, Will Be Prospected

MEXICALI, Lower Calif., May 31.—Governor Jose Inocente Lugo, of the northern district of Lower California, made it known today that representatives of the Doheny and other large oil interests of the Pacific coast, who conferred with him here Saturday, had made "satisfactory overtures for permits to drill for oil in Lower California, and that they had been referred to Mexico City."

Another meeting of the oil men will be held here in about a week it was announced.

Itinerant Flyers Blamed for Rise In Accident Toll

NEW YORK, June 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The causes for the airplane accidents of 1922, and recommendations for the reduction of future accidents to a minimum, are found in the annual report of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce of America to the secretary of commerce. The chamber says the government must provide aid law and exercise jurisdiction over all civil flying if casualties are to be reduced. The report indicates that most of the 1922 accidents were due to the itinerant pilot who has no fixed base, is unlicensed and unregulated by law, and therefore has no presumptive responsibility.

"Of approximately 1200 civilian airplanes in operation in the United States in 1923," says the report, "between 550 and 600 were owned among 130 established operators. An equal number were distributed among itinerant pilots who have no particular system and depend for a living upon stunting, barnstorming tours, and extra hazardous assignments.

In 1922, there were 132 accidents among the itinerant pilots, or gypsies, and only twelve among the fixed base operators. These accidents resulted in sixty-two fatalities among the gypsies and only seven among the fixed base operators. One hundred persons were injured through accidents with so-called gypsy planes and only seven were hurt in planes operated by fixed bases.

The 130 established operators, having definite financial responsibility, fields, repair shops in a majority of cases, and a system of inspection for their craft, demonstrated a degree of dependability unexcelled by older and officially regulated mediums of transportation. They incurred only twelve accidents in 1922 as against twenty-four accidents in 1921. And many of these could have been avoided had there been in effect federal laws licensing operators."

AUTOMOBILES.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 31.—Twin Cities shippers will be aided materially by the opening June 1, of the Motor Truck Transfer Terminal located midway between this city and St. Paul. One truck company here alone, operates twenty-two routes touching 140 Minnesota and Wisconsin cities.

COASTWISE NEWS

SEATTLE, May 31.—Possibility that the Alaska Steamship Company may forego a trial trip for its new vessel, the Alaska, which is to be delivered Monday by the Todd Shipbuilding & Engineering Company of Tacoma, was announced today. This will be to make more time for outfitting the saloons and staterooms of the Alaska, which is scheduled to sail June 9 for southeastern and southwestern Alaska. Captain J. G. Nord is to command her, and Oscar Johnson, former chief engineer of the Alameda, is to hold that post on the new steamship.

The Victoria of the Alaska Steamship Company, arrived here today in three days and 19 hours from Seward. Loading of ore was omitted in order that she might have time here to prepare for her first voyage of the season to Nome, on which she is to leave Tuesday. United States Steamboat Inspectors are to examine her tomorrow.

Purchase of the Silverado, one of a fleet of shipping board vessels lying in Lake Union here, by the Charles R. McCormick Steamship Company, was announced today. Robert Hill, San Francisco port manager for the McCormick Company, is expected here Monday to accept delivery.

With the exception of a short distance in Cross Sound the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey steamship Explorer has completed wire dragging for Pinnacle Rocks and all these obstacles have been removed from the inland passage to Alaskan points.

The steamship Survey is mapping and clearing the channels about Baranof Island and Sitka harbor, the Discoverer is working in Shelikof strait and off Kodiak island, and the Pioneer is surveying the waters in the vicinity of Cold Bay. Captain Derickson said that the Explorer would probably complete the cross sound survey in a few days.

A movement to induce the United States lighthouse service to put an illuminated buoy on the Canadian boundary off Point Roberts has been started among purse seiners of Puget Sound, it was learned here today. Fishermen complain that it is difficult for them to tell just where the boundary is in Georgia strait.

BELLINGHAM, Wash.—Nine cargoes of lumber, totaling 11,175,000 feet, shipped by Bellingham mills in May and six vessels are loading. Shipments went to California, Hawaii and the Atlantic coast.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Collision February last in Mackay beach between the steamers Princess Beatrice and Camosun has resulted in the latter vessel being libeled by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, owner of the Batrice, for $15,000 for alleged repair costs.

Some strong protests have been forwarded to head offices of big lines operating into this port with regard to brokers' commissions, it was learned today. The Vancouver Shipping Brokers, it is contended, have often suffered from unfair competition. Vancouver brokers have tendered Vancouver cargo to trans-Pacific shipping companies, it is related, had it turned down, and then seen the ships come here to load the freight. Seattle or San Francisco brokers, in closer touch with the head offices of the shipping companies, have made the commissions, it is complained.

TACOMA—To load lumber and other freight at Tacoma, the President Grant of the Admiral Oriental Line arrived this evening.

The President Grant and Tyndareus of the Blue Funnel Line will both be taking Oriental freight tomorrow. The Tyndareus is expected at the Sperry dock tomorrow morning.

The Manila Maru of the O. S. K. Line shifted to Vancouver, B. C., today to load and will return here [illegible] to finish her outbound cargo.

General freight will be taken from Tacoma on the Dorothy Alexander, due tomorrow evening from California ports.

Ore made up the cargo for Tacoma on the Latin-American Line steamer Regulus, which berthed today. The vessel may get away from here Saturday. The Regulus is up from Peru and Chile.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Examination on drydock of the steamer George L. Olson, which struck on Grays Harbor bar last week, has disclosed that her keel is badly damaged. This damage necessitates the services of a diver to place the keel blocks before the steamer could be properly placed in the drydock.

The schooner Levi W. Ostrander, which is to sail tomorrow for Shanghai, China, with a cargo of lumber, is to be sold in the Orient, so her owners, Cron and Dehn, have announced.

The steamer Bangor owned by the Alaska Codfish Company of San Francisco has been tied up at Marshfield under libel proceedings brought by four members of her crew for unpaid wages.

The steamer West Cayote, shipping board vessel operated in the trans-Pacific trade by the Columbia Pacific Shipping Company, left down-stream this afternoon for Astoria, from where she will put to sea Friday. She carries 3,000,000 feet of lumber, 2000 tons of wheat, 200 barrels of flour and some general cargo.

GREAT ARMADA NOW ASSEMBLED IN S. F. BAY

Flagship Is Joined by Powerful Squadron of Big Dreadnaughts.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—Four dreadnaughts under the command of Vice-Admiral W. R. Scheemaker, commanding the battleship division of the Pacific fleet, arrived in San Francisco bay today to join the flagship California. The battleships are the New Mexico, Tennessee, Idaho and Texas.

The Pennsylvania and Mississippi entered the harbor yesterday, bringing 3000 sailors under the command of Rear Admiral Charles F. Hughes, commanding the fourth division of the battle fleet.

Admiral Schoemaker, who is second in command to Admiral Eberle, will leave about June 30 for Washington to become a member of the general board of the navy. He will be succeeded by Vice-Admiral Henry A. Miley.

During the stay of the fleet in the bay, it is estimated that the officers and men will spend more than $2,000,000. The daily menu of the fleet calls for 20,000 pounds of fresh meat, 25,000 of fresh vegetables and 3000 dozen eggs. The supply officers estimate that the sailors consume about 10,000 pounds of candies a day and that on "ice cream" day 40 gallons of ice cream are served to each ship.

Navy authorities who handle the sums for the provisioning of the fleet are the strongest advocates for the basing of the fleet in San Francisco bay. They say prices are more reasonable here than anywhere else on the Pacific coast.

STEERED BY NEW AUTOMATIC GEAR LINER NEARS PORT

A great deal of interest is being taken in shipping circles generally, and by marine engineers in particular, in the voyage now being made by the freighter Harry Luckenbach of the Luckenbach Steamship company, which is due to arrive from eastern ports in this port about June 19, and which is the first ship in marine history to be steered automatically by means of instruments, namely the gyro-compass and gyro-pilot.

The ship will receive many visits from navigators and engineers while she is in port. A representative of the inventors of the new automatic steering instruments is aboard the Harry Luckenbach to observe the working of the installation, and to explain matters to those interested. It is understood that the Luckenbach company intends to establish the instruments aboard other vessels of its fleet, and that other lines will do the same.

Power Deal in Eastern Oregon

BEND, Ore., May 31.—The L. E. Myers Company of Chicago, has purchased the holdings of the Bend Water, Light and Power Company. Announcement was made by T. H. Foley, vice-president and general manager of the selling company. The exact amount of the consideration was not made public but it is known that the value of the holdings and business here is between $700,000 and $1,000,000.

RECORD LUMBER SHIPMENTS SENT TO CALIFORNIA

Great Forests of Northwest Export 68,000,000 Feet of Lumber.

ASTORIA, Ore., May 31.—The lumber shipments by water from the Columbia river for May were the largest in several months. This was occasioned by the heavy foreign demand, in excess of 33,000,000 feet going across the sea, while over 35,000,000 were shipped to points in California.

According to statistics compiled by Deputy Collector of Customs R. D. Lamb, 38 vessels loaded at the mills in the lower river district during the month and their combined cargoes totaled 35,252,966 feet of lumber. In the same period 44 vessels loaded 48,568,930 feet of lumber at the up-river mills, making a grand total of 83,820,996 feet.

Within the next few days the port of Astoria will be on a rate parity with Puget Sound and Portland in the through shipments of grain and grain products from points in Montana, North Dakota and Minnesota to California within a very short time. The Great Northern will put into effect this parity of rates June 3 and the Northern Pacific on July 3. This definite word was received today by Roger D. Pinneo, traffic manager of the port, who has been working with the northern roads on the matter for the past year and a half and with the Spokane, Portland and Seattle, which will handle the grain brought here for shipment by water to California points.

HAY.

EL PASO, Tex., May 31.—The alfalfa crop throughout the southwest this year which is now in process of being cut will yield more than was produced in the same territory last year.

WEATHER REPORT

All California: Fair tonight and Saturday, moderate to fresh westerly winds.

Nevada: Fair tonight and Saturday, not so cold tonight north portion.

Oregon, Washington and Idaho: Rain tonight and Saturday; moderate southwesterly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

A small but energetic storm is central over Northern Idaho and a large high pressure area overlies the Atlantic states. Light rain has fallen in the North Pacific states and local rain occurred in a few places in Northern California. It is much colder in the southern Plateau and Southern Rocky Mountain states and cold weather continues in Nevada. The outlook is for fair weather in California and Nevada tonight and Saturday, with slowly rising temperatures and for rain in the North Pacific states.

FRUIT.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 31. — The Georgia peach crop will amount to 8390 cars this year, an increase of 890 cars over 1922, according to estimates of the Georgia Fruit Exchange. The early peach movement will be in full swing this week. The fruit is hardier for having withstood bad weather conditions and is especially luscious. Fancy prices are expected.

AUTOMOBILES.

DETROIT, Mich., May 31.—It is predicted today that the Ford production schedule of 6750 cars a day slated for June will be reached this week. Foreign sales of the Ford company totaled 76,142 cars for the first four months of this year, an increase of 24,883 over the same months of 1922. Tractor sales were 4534 for the same period, or double those of last year. The demand from Scandinavian countries is growing fast.

STOVES.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 31.—Stove manufacturers reported wonderful increases in sales today. Improvement of as much as 300 per cent is reported by manufacturers in this district, as compared with last year's demand. The inquiries come mainly from agricultural districts.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
I take this method of expressing my sentiments of appreciation to Dr. Wong Him for the wonderful cures he has effected in cases where ... including myself, were afflicted with various maladies.
I also desire to be the means of guiding anyone who is in need of medical advice, as he will find Dr. Wong Him to be a thoroughly reliable health specialist and absolutely conscientious. Through an occurrence experienced by a member of my family I can, with the greatest regard for sincerity, state that after a consultation, unless Dr. Wong Him is convinced that his herbs will effect a complete cure, he will under no circumstances accept the case.
Very truly yours,

AN OPPORTUNITY

It is an established fact that during the past eight years the FONG WAN HERBALIST has relieved over 5000 sufferers residing in and about the Bay cities. It has therefore paid him to stay with the same company continuously. As he is educated in English as well as in Chinese, any sufferer may consult him privately without going through an interpreter or middleman. Consultation is free and the opportunity is open to all. He handles all cases personally and never turns them over to his employees, who get only low wages at $75 per month, because they want to learn the trade from Fong Wan, Herbalist.

The Oakland Tribune is a member of The Association of Newspaper Classified Advertising Managers, which includes leading newspapers throughout the country and has for its aim the elimination of fraudulent and misleading classified advertising. The Oakland Tribune, as well as every other member of the Association, endeavors to print only truthful Want-ads, and will appreciate having its attention called to any advertisement not conforming to the highest standards of honesty.

Want Ad Section INDEX

Want Ad Classifications appear in numerical order, and all related classes are grouped together. For example: All advertising of Rooms To Let is numbered 20 to 29. The numbers appear on the headings, so if you seek room and board look through the "20s"; "Board" is No. 25, and always follows "Housekeeping Rooms (24)." Note—Every "For Sale" or "To Let" heading has a "Wanted" classification with the same number, but followed by the letter "A."

MEN'S LEAGUE FORMING TO LOWER PRICES

ional Organization Will ideavor to Reduce the Living Costs.

AMEDA, June 1.—That a na- organization to be known as Woman's Fair Price League of ica is now in the process of tion, with the aim to lower ost of living in the United s, is the word received by the eda Housewives' League in a unication read at the League ng yesterday from Mrs. An- te V. Howe, president of the an's Fair Price League of aukee, Wis.

e gist of the letter is that the lican woman cannot stand longer and accept with indiff- ce the great undermining sys- of profiteering being exercised is country. The women are makers; therefore, their duty protect it. For this reason the nal organization is to be form- its aim will be to perfect an tive board representing the and States which have taken d in the present sugar situah an organization will have mendous force in curbing the nual rising of the prices of all commodities without a good sound reason, the communication declares. It will also be the first time in the history of the United States that an organization has operated through radio with the women leading in the movement and the fight to bring down the cost of food.

The earnest co-operation of the Alameda Housewives' League is sought in the movement and its affiliation with the project is earnestly desired.

After considerable discussion, the league decided to lay the communications on the table until the next meeting with the State Housewives' League.

Yosemite Trips Arranged From Municipal Camp

After two weeks in the Sierras, where he made all arrangements for the summer season for the municipal camp, Superintendent Jay Nash of the Oakland recreation department returned to his office at the city hall today and expressed his belief that this is "the biggest and best" year in the career of the camp.

Nash finished a deal whereby the Yosemite Stage & Transportation Company will send stages from the camp to Yosemite every three days, at a nominal fare. As the city maintains a tiny side-camp in Yosemite Valley, this transportation features gives the Oakland campers a chance to get into the famous valley.

The sanitary system built by the harbor department at the main camp is finished.

WATERPROOFING NOT CONFINED TO HOUSE PAINT

Modern Girl Takes Her Lip Stick Into Bathing Pool For Convenience.

Venus brought with her not so much as a lip-stick or the merest dab of rouge. She left that little matter for the modern girl. But the beauty of today, having taken her lip-stick most everywhere on earth, has suddenly been inspired to take it into the waters on top of the earth. The floating beauty parlor is the last word and if she keeps up with the times and providing she goes into the water, no bathing beauty these days is without one. The floating beauty parlor conveys a whole raft of reasons why the lovely swimmer may be just as beautiful when immersed in the briny deep as she is when promenading on the sunny shore with her handy vanity bag dangling from her slender wrist.

When beauty goes a swimming there's no reason why the makings should be left behind and now that the lip-stock and other requirements of milady's toilette are water proof it doesn't matter a bit if the fair swimmer does wear her complexion right into the waves. If worst come to worst and the complexion becomes a bit impaired she may signal for the beauty parlor and in a trice become freshened and refreshed for further aquatic conquests.

The amphibious damsel in the picture which was taken in an Oakland pool, really needs no mirror to reflect her charms as the clear waters of the pool do that but she gazes at her reflection while she beats time with her lip-stick and listens to what the wild waves are saying.

Up to date the advent of the floating beauty table has been limited to indoor bathing pools where pretty attendants push the trays laden with beauty's wants across the quiet waters. Many California bathing pools are introducing this latest fad for the comforts of the bathing beauty and Oakland is not to be left behind.

Beauty Parlor Goes to Sea

MISS EVELYN MARSDEN finds her toilet table handy whether afloat at an Oakland pool or ashore in her own boudoir.

UNIVERSITY MEN SCOFF AT CLAIMS MADE BY DOYLE

Stanford and Berkeley Chiefs Declare No Scientific Basis for Spiritualism.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 1.—By the United Press.)—Scientists in San Francisco and vicinity scoff at claims made by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle that he is in communication with the spirit world and continually receives messages from those who have died.

Sir Arthur's recent claims that "a famous British journalist, recently deceased," believed by inference here to be Lord Northcliffe, had warned him of an impending world calamity, have evoked a gale of pooh-poohing from such scientists as Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford university, and others.

"There is a standing offer by a scientific magazine," Dr. Wilbur points out, "to anyone able to prove that spirits can communicate with mortals. It hasn't been won and it won't be. There is no scientific basis for spiritism and it isn't convincingly demonstrable."

"I'll take a chance with the world catastrophe," Prof. G. J. West of Stanford said. "I'm a decided skeptic concerning spiritism."

A horseshoe pitching arena containing twenty courts was built recently at Des Moines, Iowa, for a national tournament.

NAVY FLYERS TO TRY FOR RECORDS

SAN DIEGO, June 1 — A complete schedule of events for the program by which the naval air service fliers hope to bring to America virtually every world airplane record for distance, duration, altitude and speed, was drawn up here today. The flights will be made here the latter part of next week.

Watches and chronometers, sent to Washington for certification, were received back yesterday and preparations have been made for checking and certifying the two speed courses.

Fliers of torpedo and bombing squadron number 2, commanded by Commander Robert Berg, have been selected to go after the records. They will fly torpedo planes, this being the first time, officers say, that aircraft of this type have been entered in international or national competitions. It is said that the attempts will be watched with interest not only by American but by foreign aviators and aviation experts.

There are fourteen events on the program. Naval fliers assigned to the flights include: Lieutenant M. A. Schur, Boatswain Earl E. Reber, Lieutenant Frank B. Whitmore, Lieutenant C. F. Harper, Lieutenant Earl Brix, Lieutenant Arthur Billings, Lieutenant Robert L. Fuller and two alternates, Lieutenant G. T. Owen and Boatswain John Sunderman.

Broadmoor Phone Issue Investigated

SAN LEANDRO, June 1.—Investigations are being made by the State Railroad Commission to determine why telephone service should not be immediately supplied to applicants in the Broadmoor tract, following the refusal of the city council to allow the telephone company to move its lines from the rear of the lots in this tract to the streets.

A recent hearing on this matter before the commission brought out the fact that service was being withheld from residents of this district because the company contemplated moving its poles from the rear of the lots to the streets. The engineers of the commission at the time declared that there were advantages to be gained either by having the lines on the rear of the lots, or in the streets, but that the city should say where they were to be placed.

Notification of the city's refusal to permit the moving of the lines has been acknowledged by the commission, which replied that it would determine why service should not be rendered immediately.

HER SKIN IS A SIGHT! TELL HER OF POSLAM

Bess: "You KNOW I can't go to the dance tomorrow. Just look at these pimples. I'm a sight!"

Maud: "Nonsense, dear! All you have to do is to put a dab of Poslam on each pimple tonight and again tomorrow morning. They will be gone before Bob calls for you."

Bess: "Where can I get Poslam?"

Maud: "Why, every druggist has it! But I always keep a box in my toilet case. You can use that this time. I use Poslam Soap, too. That has the Poslam medication, and really keeps my complexion splendidly healthy."

Poslam stops itching and heals eczema, too. For trial sample, send 10c to POLSAM, 243 W. 47th St., New York.—Advertisement.

Technical High Principal Feted

The faculty of the Oakland Technical High school tendered a reception to their principal, P. M. Fisher, last night, at his home on Orange street. The occasion, occurring on [illegible] and marks the twenty-seventh anniversary of his principalship of Tech High. Some of the hundred odd teachers present have been in professional work with Fisher for over 25 years, and they, with him, were the recipients of many congratulations.

Realty Association Files Incorporation

With its object the accumulation of funds for the purchase of property and the erection of buildings and improvements thereon, the Mills College Park Association today filed incorporation papers with the county clerk. Thirteen directors are named for the first year and the officers are J. A. Ransom, president; W. A. Wheeler, vice-president, and D. L. Wheeler, treasurer. Dues for Class A members will be $78 and for Class B members $39, the by-laws state.

Ferryboat Newark To Be Remodeled

Remodeling of the ferry boat Newark into a ship design that will make it the largest vessel of its kind in the world is now under way at the Oakland yards of the Southern Pacific company. The vessel is to be known as the Sacramento, and it is to have a capacity of 4500 passengers. Propelled by twin engines, it will make the trip between the Oakland and San Francisco piers at a speed of 15 miles an hour.
